Explanation

The bill, which (1) requires the Division of State-Wide Emergency Telecommunications within the Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection to study and submit a report on communication systems used by public safety personnel and (2) establishes a working group to study the current system of public safety answering points, results in no fiscal impact because the division and the working group have the expertise to meet the requirements of the bill.

House "A" moves the working group from the General Assembly to the Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection and removes two members, resulting in the impact described above.
