Explanation

The amendment strikes the underlying bill and results in the fiscal impact described below. The amendment makes a variety of changes to the state's campaign finance laws resulting in the fiscal impacts outlined below.

The amendment creates a variety of changes related to State Elections Enforcement Commission (SEEC) oversight, which requires an ¹The fringe benefit costs for most state employees are budgeted centrally in accounts administered by the Comptroller. The estimated active employee fringe benefit cost associated with most personnel changes is 40.71% of payroll in FY 26.

additional staff member² to meet the requirements of the amendment at a cost to SEEC of $84,555³ in FY 26 and $82,055 in FY 27, and a fringe cost of $33,405 in FY 26 and FY 27. The additional position will offset the expanded administrative and oversight role of the SEEC.

In addition, these sections reduce the reasons for SEEC to disqualify a contribution resulting in a potential increased cost to the resources of the Citizens' Election Fund. The exact impact depends on the number of candidates who received Citizens' election Program funding who previously would not have qualified.

The remaining sections of the amendment make a variety of changes that result in no fiscal impact to the state or municipalities.

The preceding Fiscal Impact statement is prepared for the benefit of the members of the General Assembly, solely for the purposes of information, summarization and explanation and does not represent the intent of the General Assembly or either chamber thereof for any purpose. In general, fiscal impacts are based upon a variety of informational sources, including the analyst's professional knowledge. Whenever applicable, agency data is consulted as part of the analysis, however final products do not necessarily reflect an assessment from any specific department.
