

I believe that Connecticut will benefit lastingly by investing in smaller utilities that prioritize renewable energy and stopping investment in fossil fuel users.

I am likewise in favor of the many bills proposed in the last session of the Connecticut legislature to invest in clean energy. I especially applaud the inclusion in these proposed bills: of investment in storage, clarifying the property tax exemption for solar and its storage, expanding the Residential Solar Investment Program, keeping net-metering intact throughout 2021, and repeal of the Pipeline Tax.

I believe that these provisions will help Connecticut achieve our vital clean energy goals.
