EXPLANATIONS.

FOR convenience, each first settler in America is numbered 1, although his number may be different in the English line. Each descendant has a permanent number, by observing which, any line is easily traced backward or forward. The number of the generation follows the name. Thus, on page 100: Timothy<sup>3</sup> Barnabas<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> means that Timothy is of the third generation and son of Barnabas who is son of Richard.

Abbreviations have saved much labor: such as b., born; bapt., baptized; m., married; uun, unmarried; d., died, or dead; d. y., died young; ch., children, or child; dau., daughter, or daughters; and s., son, or sons.

The plus mark (+) means, that further on under the number of the name to which the mark is attached appears a further account of its owner.

No changes are made in dates for new or old style—dates being given as they appear in the records. Names are spelled as they appear in the Family Records or elsewhere. The writer thinks it would have been better to generally reduce them to a uniform spelling.

The system of arrangement is, in substance, that of the "New England Historic Genealogical Society," of Boston. The changes are accidental, growing out of the personal convenience of the writer in making his book.

PREFACE.

THIS is not the author's ideal genealogy. That has much fuller biographies and pictures of days gone by. To reach its highest value, a family history should be full enough to make one feel acquainted with his own ancestors and earlier times. Generally, especially in families of New England descent, that is quite possible. The writer will be glad to see separate volumes of the lines given herein, and will cheerfully assist, as he may, such fuller attempts at the "BALDWIN GENEALOGY."

No one can know, as well as the author, the many errors of this book. In giving some accounts, collected from original sources, of twenty-two thousand individuals, errors would be expected. An examination of other Genealogies teaches that they are inseparable from such work. Between the author, the copyist and the printer, many have occurred; but more in the thousands of letters giving information, and some even in records. The author has in mind a place where the town and church records and epitaphs disagree oftener than they agree, and not seldom there are three different dates. He feels considerable confidence that he is generally right in the lines of descent. It has been his rule to admit a descent only on what would be legal evidence in such matters, and he has not hesitated to express such doubts as too seldom appear in books of Genealogy.

At the close of a task which has occupied too large a portion of his time for more than twenty years, and taken more of his money than he expects to see returned to him, he may be pardoned for saying that he is himself surprised at the amount of material he has collected,—very busy as he has been in the active prosecution of a laborious profession

He cannot but have a very kindly feeling for the name and his readers. They will be very largely indebted to GEORGE W. BALDWIN, Esq., of Boston, (p. 286) for the excellent account of the English lines herein, which makes it easy for most of the name to trace their ancestry for nearly four hundred years.

The descendants of the Pennsylvania lines are pretty certain to be indebted to Mr. GILBERT COPE, of West Chester, Chester County, Penn.

Hon. JOHN D. BALDWIN, of Worcester, Mass., has nearly doubled the descendants of John, of Stonington.

Rev. DWIGHT BALDWIN, of Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, Dr. ALVAN TALCOTT, of Guilford, Conn., and Mr. BYRON A. BALDWIN, of Chicago, all deserve special mention.

Other acknowledgments are made under biographies of individuals.

Corrections or additions, sent to the author, will be noted on a copy to be deposited with the "New England Historic Genealogical Society," in Boston, Mass., for the use of future genealogists of the family.

THE NAME BALDWIN.

BALDWIN is an old name, and quite common as early as the Conquest of England. It appears in the roll of Battle Abbey. There was in England a Baldwin as early as 672; and every one knows of the Baldwins, Earls of Flanders, from the one cotemporary with Alfred the Great, and whose son, Baldwin 2nd, married Elstruth, dau. of Alfred, to the Baldwin 5th, who m. the dau. of Robert of France, and whose dau. Matilda, m. William the Conqueror. Baldwin, Emperor of the East in 1237, and of the Baldwins, Earls of Devonshire, called in Normandy Baüdoïn des Rivièrs, and in England Baldwin de l'Isle. Baldwin of Redvers, the Earl, was the first to rebel against Stephen.

I am afraid the traditionary descent of divers Baldwins in New England, from Devonshire, rests on no better ground than a fancy; that the early Baldwins, of Devonshire, were ancestors of a long line of the name. This was not so.

Surnames, however, were not used in England until long after the Conquest. Camden observes, that he never could find an hereditary name in England before the Conquest; that they were not settled among the common people till about the time of Edward II., (1307 to 1329). Surnames were not from sire, but became superadded to the Christian name; so, that finding the name in the same locality, even at the Conquest, is no mark of connection. I believe Camden, in the above remarks, really antedates surnames.

Baldwin de Hampden, of the time of the Conquest, becomes plain John Hampden, the patriot of the English Revolution. Still it is not without interest that I have found the name so common. That the name was in Flanders, in Normandy, and perhaps elsewhere in France, is well known.

Rev. E. C. Baldwin, of Branford, Conn., tells us that a couple of Danes, informed him the name was a Danish one and common in that country. It exists as Balduin in Germany, and even in my own city is a German—"August Baldwin." Near Coblenz, on a stream flowing into the Rhine, is Baldwinstein—Baldwin stone—a castle and a town.

In 1870, I was told at Florence that the name was Italian, and common in that vicinity. Miss Strickland says, it is a fine old name of Saxon origin, and signifies "Bold Winner." *

Arthur, on Family Names, says: "BALDWIN (German).—The speedy conqueror, or victor; from Bald, quick or speedy, and win, an old word signifying victor, or conqueror, as: Bertwin, famous victor; Allwin, all-victorious," etc. Andersen also makes it the German Balde, from which Baldwin, bold in battle.

The ancestors of a very large share of the Baldwins in the United States, lived in County Bucks, England, and the name seems to have been common there from a very early time. I have already alluded to Baldwin de Hampden, whom Lord Nugent, and Macaulay after him, says, was one of the Norman favorites of the Saxon king, Edward the Confessor. Hampden was and is in the same locality where, in after years, Baldwins were plenty.

In Domesday Book appear also: Baldwin the son of Herluin, had, in King Edward's time, a vassal named Turgis, who held Stow in freehold; at Domesday it was held by Robert Olgi and Robert Ivri. The same Baldwin also held lands in Gloucestershire; one of his vassals held lands in Woughton Bucks, "half a hide." In Elesberie, Hundred. and in Esenberge—Ellesborough. (See map of part of Bucks herein.) "Osbert held of William. one hide and a half. There is land to two ploughs, and there are two oxen there with one villane. It was and is worth five shillings; in King Edward's time, twenty shillings. Baldwin, a vassal of Archbishop Stigand's, held this manor and might sell it." The same Osbert holds Haddenam of William. "It answered for three hides. There is land to five ploughs. There are two in the desmesne, and four villanes have three ploughs. It is and was worth four pounds; in King Edward's time, one hundred shillings. Baldwin, a vassal of Archbishop Stigand's held the manor and might sell it."

In King William's time (of Domesday Book), Baldwin holds a farm of William—two hides in Lamva Hundred. "There is land to one plough and a half, and they are three with one villane, and one bordar meadow for one plough. In the whole it is and was worth twenty shillings. He, himself, held it in King Edward's time, and might sell it."

* Its general prevalence very likely dates from the Crusades, and the then popular Baldwins. The name may first have been applied to such fortunate boldness as has given Mr. E. S. Baldwin, the present well known millionaire of San Francisco, the sobriquet of "Baldwin, the Lucky."

In Mosleie Hundred, "Baldwin holds of William, in Cicelai (Chichley), three hides for one manor. There is land to three ploughs. There is one in the desmesne;* and five villanes,† with four bordars,‡ have two ploughs. Meadow for one plough. Pannage|| for one hundred hogs. It is and always was worth forty shillings. He, himself, held it in King Edward's time, and might sell it."

In Hard mead, seven and a half miles west of Chichley, "Baldwin holds of William, one hide for one manor. There is land to one plough, and it is there with three villanes. It is and was always worth one mark of silver. Three brothers held this manor; one of these was the vassal of Tochi, and two the vassals of Baldwin; and they might sell."

In County Herts, in Brickenden: "Baldwin, a certain servant of the King's, holds three virgates land to one plough, and pannage for forty hogs, and worth ten shillings. In King Edward's time held by three brothers."

The name of Baldwin occasionally appears thereafter, but the connection, if any, is unknown. In 1198 Robert Fitz Baldwin has lands in Burton Bucks. Anno 1200 he has a fine and recovery of lands there from Walter Buistard. First year of King John he pays tax "VI marc argent," six marks of silver; 1204 he suffers fine and recovery; 1254 John Baudwyn has lands in Burton; 1204 Michael Fitz Baldwin receives lands in Haremede, of John de Haremede, by fine and recovery; 1252 to 1272, John Le Parker and wife Agnes, and John Baldwin and wife Cecil, pay one mark and take the property of Gil. de Preston—Agnes and Cecil were perhaps his daughters: 1254 Henry de l'reston, son and heir of Baldwin de Preston, pays homage.

In Herts, in 1250, Baldwin, son of Baldwin le Fleming, pays a fine. In 1277, at an inquisition of the manors of Hathfeud, Adam

* A desmesne, generally spelled demesne, or demain, was the manor house and the land adjacent which the Lord keeps in his own name. (Blackstone.)

† The villane was, in feudal law, one who held land by a base or servile tenure; as, for instance, useful labor.

‡ I do not find bordar; but bord-lands were lands appropriated by the lord for the support of his table (Wright and Webster), and were the garden spots of the villanes.

|| Pannage—the mast of oak or beech, which swine feed on in the woods. (Wright's Provincial Dict.)

Baldwin appears. In Chutterbuck's Hertfordshire, is an agreement between Hugh Evesden, twenty-seventh Abbot of the monastery, and the Burgesses of St. Albans, confirmed by Edward I., in his first year, 1272. It seems to be an agreement about bounds, and in one place they are described "et de illenque tanque au grange Johan le Fis Richard Baldwyne, et de illenque par Toumandich tanque a Sopwelle, lanc et de illenque tanque au croft Johan de Hampton." From 1342 to 1347, Ricard Baldwyne appears to own land abundantly in Herts; 1441 to 1445, John Baldewyn is rector of Layton Hundred of Edwintree. The patrón, was the prior and convent St. Trinity, London.

AYLESBURY, BUCKS.

[Built about 1250.]

Returning to Bucks: in 1340, Henry is taxed at Little Missenden. In the time of Edward III. (he reigned 1329 to 1377), Walter Baldwin and Gunneva his wife hold lands in Honeyborn; 1358 and 1362, John Baudwyn and Elizabeth his wife parted with lands held by the right of Elizabeth, in Nether Winchendon, by the usual process of fine and recovery. In 1429, John Baldwin, of Aylesbury, appears as party to a similar conveyance. Five years after, Johannis Baldwyn appears in a list of "the gentry" of County Bucks, at Aylesbury, returned by the Commissioners, 12 Henry VI. John Senior and John Junior were two out of three of the founders of the fraternity or brotherhood of the town of Aylesbury, in 1429.

Richard Baldwin died there September 21st, 1485, leaving as his next heir his brother John, who, August 11th, 1486, was sixteen years old and upwards. The issue of writ upon his death was made June 4th, 1486. The age appears from a Chancery Inquisition, post mortem, 1 Henry VII., taken August 11th, 1486, of which the following is a translation:

CHANCERY INQUISITION, POST MORTEM,

1 HENRY 7, PT. '1, No. 120.

11 AUG., 1486.

Inquisition taken at Bokenyffeld, the County Buk, the eleventh day of August, in the first year of the reign of King Henry the Seventh, before Richard Bulstrode, Esq're, Escheator of [our] Lord the King, in the aforesaid County, by virtue of the brief of the Lord King himself, directed to the same Escheator, and proved to this Inquisition, by oath of Thomas Garston, Thomas Jarnour, John Lorkyn, Thomas Knyght, John Aylewyn, John Grove, John Davy, John Walter, Thomas Dunton, Richard Dene, William atte Lee and Edward Style; who say, on their oath, that Richard Baldewyn, named in the said brief, was, on the day in which he died, seized in his domain as in fee of a certain manor with its appurtenances, in Aylesbury, in the aforesaid County, called Otterarffee; and of one messuage forty and five acres of land [i. e. arable land], and ten acres of meadow in Aylesbury aforesaid, in the aforesaid County, which are held of the Lord King in Socage, by the service of pinching litter for the bed of the said Lord King, and straw and grass for adorning (or making comfortable) the lodging (or guest chamber) of the said Lord King thrice in the year, if he should come thither, viz: in summer, grass [rushes?] for the aforesaid cause, and two wild geese; and in winter, straw and three eels; so that six wild geese, or nine eels, may be in the year, if he should come hither thrice in the year. And the aforesaid Jurors say that the aforesaid manor land and meadow, with appurtenances, are worth per annum, in all revenue beyond the repayments, fifty shillings. And further the said Jurors say, that the same Richard Baldewyn died seized of one messuage called le Crown forty and three acres of land and meadow, with appurtenances, in Aylesbury aforesaid, which are held of Thomas Lord Ormond Knight, by service of ten shillings and nine pence per annum, which messuage land and meadow are worth per annum, in all produce beyond repayments, sixty shillings and eight pence. And further the said Jurors say, that the aforesaid Richard Baldewyn, on the day in which he died, was seized in his domain as in fee of one tenement, situate in Aylesbury aforesaid, between the messuage of William Chalfunt on one part, and the messuage of the late John Grove on the other part, which is held of the aforesaid Lord Ormond, by service of three shillings per annum, and that that tenement is worth per annum, in all produce beyond the repayments, six shillings and eight pence. And further the said Jurors say, that the aforesaid Richard Baldewyn held no other or more lands or tenements from the said Lord the King, nor from any other, in domain or in service, on the day in which he died, in the aforesaid County. And further the aforesaid Jurors say, that the same Richard Baldewyn died in the day of St. Matthew last past (21 Sept., 1485); and that John Baldewyn is his brother and next heir, and is of the age of sixteen years and more.

In testimony of which both the Escheator aforesaid, and the aforesaid Jurors, have affixed their seals to each part of this indented Inquisition. Given in the day, place and year above mentioned.

This John Baldwin paid a relief upon this manor in 1492 (Madox Bar. Ang. 247), and is the same John named in a note to the first volume of Hume's History of England (p. 297 Harper's ed.), where he is erroneously assigned to the time of King Henry II., although Hume is right enough in the general use he makes of it there as a note to a statement of the mode of living of Henry II., whose apartments were every day in winter covered with clean straw and hay, or in summer with green rushes or boughs, lest the gentlemen who paid court to him, and who could not, by reason of their great number, find a place at table, should soil their fine clothes by sitting on a dirty floor.

This manor of Oterarsfee was originally granted by Henry II. to Roger, the King's minstrel, upon the same singular tenure, which is recited in a "confirmation" of the manor to Richard, son of Robert le Aylesbury, 1 Richard II. (1137), Cal. Rot. Pat. 199. The manor had then been in the continuous possession of the Aylesbury family since the grant. How the estate came to the Baldwins I do not know—possibly, but I think not likely, by descent; not unlikely by marriage. The Aylesburys had arms, according to Camden, a cross argent in a field of azure; and the Baldwins do not seem to have had arms until some branches obtained them in later times. In 1542, John Baldwin paid subsidies on this manor. The most eminent Baldwin of Bucks was Sir John Baldwin, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas of England, 1536 to 1546, when he died. His early history is not easily traced; and in fact, the differences and mistakes of writers as to his descent and descendants will illustrate the perils the genealogist encounters. He is commonly said to be the son of William Baldwin, by his wife Agnes Dormer, daughter of William Dormer, of West Wycomb.

The Dormers were an old and wealthy family, whose line continued after and rose to an Earldom. Sir Robert, brother of Agnes, Sheriff of Beds and Bucks, was knighted in 1527, and d. 1552. His son Robert, Baron as Lord Dormer, of Wenge, d. 1616. His grandson Robert became Viscount of Ascot and Earl Caernarvon; killed 1643. His sister Elizabeth m. Somerset, Lord Hert and Marquis of Worcester. William, of West Wycombe, m. Agnes, dau. of Sir John Lancelyn, a French knight; he died 1506. The account ordinarily received of Sir John is, as I have said, that he was son of William, who m. Agnes Dormer; but the account of John, given in one of the Harleian Mss. (No. 1533, Vol. 15), says he married a dau. of William Dormer.

The will of William Dormer, dated 22 Sept., 1506, directed him to be buried in the chancel at West Wicombe, and gave his "dau. Johan Alburgh 10 marks, to my dau. Margeri Deane 10 marks, to my ——— [daughter evidently omitted by the transcriber of the will] Agnes Baldwin 10 marks, and to William Baldwin, my godson, £10; to John Baldwin the younger 10 marks, to Alice Baldweyn 10 marks, to Richard Baldweyn 10 marks, to Pernell Colyngborne 10 marks, to John Dormer 10 marks, to Henry Hunt 10 marks, to Lettice Dormer 10 marks; to Henry, son of Thomas Deane, 40s; to Agnes, my wife, £300; to son Robert £800, and all my years to come in my farm of West Wicombe." His executors were his wife and son Robert; overseers, John Baldwin the older, and John Colyngborne. The will was proved 7 Oct., 1506. The inquisition post mortem of Sir John (1546) shows he had a son William, who m. Mary Tryingham, and d. before that, leaving a widow but no issue; a dau. Agnes or Ann, who m. Robert Packington, mercer of London, and had a son Thomas, born about 1523; a dau. Petronella or Parnell, who m. first Sir Thomas Ramsey, and second Burlaey; she had a son John, born about 1528. Sir John also had a dau. Alice. A probable supposition would be that in the will of William Dormer, Sir John was John the elder. Agnes was his wife; William the godson, the William who d. before 1546; Alice the dau. of Sir John and Richard and John Baldwin, perhaps children of Sir John, who died young. The error of making Sir John son of William, said to have m. Agnes Dormer, arose from an erroneous transcript of the Dormer will, in the Collin Peerage, more than a century ago. John Colyngborne, the other overseer, was a son-in-law, having married Parnell, daughter of William Dormer.

Mr. George W. Baldwin, of Boston, finds in the foreign and domestic papers, temp. Henry VIII., many entries relating to John Baldwyn: in commission of the peace for Bucks. 1509, 1510 and 1512; in the commission for goal delivery, Southampton Castle, 1511; exempted from juries, 1515 and 1516. In an account in 1520 appears an item of fee to John Baldwin: same year the name appears in the sheriff rolls, and in 1523 among the subsidy commissioners of Bucks. Sir John was appointed "Reader" at Lincoln 1516, and in 1530, when he was made Sergeant. H rose rapidly after that and became, as I have said, Chief Justice in 1536. It is impossible to tell whether all those early entries relate to Sir John. It would seem unnecessary to specially exempt him from jury duty, as he was a lawyer. His home seems to have been in Aylesbury. He was lord of the manor of Aylesbury. His office was very lucrative and he was very rich. In 1540 Henry VIII. granted him the home and site of Gray Friars, in Aylesbury. There was then a John the younger who was likely the one named in will of William Dormer. He had also granted him Missenden Abbey; and, in 1544, the fee of Dundridge which had fallen to the crown. He built the "new road" out of Aylesbury, and I believe the town hall (now pulled down). The new road was that leading to Wendover and Missenden.

The office held by Sir John was the most desirable in England. It was lower in dignity to the Chief Justice of King's Bench or Lord Chancellor, but in the days of Henry VIII. the chief judges of those courts had work to do that must have tormented them excessively. On the death of Sir John, Sir Edward Montague, then Chief Justice of King's Bench, solicited and obtained the office. Lord Campbell gives the following account: "The sudden death of Sir John Baldwin made vacant his office, which had now acquired the name of 'pillow,' from its allowing its possessor to be put to sleep by the somnolent pleadings of the Sergeant, in conducting real actions without any excitement from criminal or political trials. For profit, it was superior to the Chief Justiceship of the King's Bench; and most of those who had the good luck to lay their tripods upon it remained contented with it for life. Yet being inferior in rank, etiquette forbade the Chief Justice of England to accept it. But Montague, a few days after Baldwin's death, solicited and obtained the office. He was appointed 6 Nov., 1546."

His probable age would make it unlikely that he was grandson of William Dormer. Dormer died 1506, but probably not very old, as his brother, Sir Michael, was Sheriff of London 1529, Lord Mayor 1541, and died 20 Sept., 1545. Sir John had a grandson born as early as 1523. If Sir John, whose home was Aylesbury, was the John born in 1470, he was only fifty-three at the birth of this grandchild, and was even seventy-five at the death of Sir Michael in 1545. The genealogical situation is here quite interesting. In 1485 Richard dies, leaving his brother John as his heir. In 1506, William Dormer remembers Richard and John, and we shall find, further on, that Richard of Dundridge, in 1552, dies leaving a brother John. The last Richard and John were ancestors to most of the Baldwins of America.

Dundridge, which was granted to Sir John, and also the Braies which subsequently belonged in fee to the Richard branch, had belonged before to Sir John. It will be seen also that the Baldwins of Dundridge descent took very kindly to the law as a profession. I think the probability very great that Richard and John, who were living in 1552 when Richard died leaving a family of seven children, were nephews of Sir John. The fact that both families had considerable property, living close together, lends additional color to the supposition.

Sir John died 24 Oct., 1545, as appears from Co.'s Inquisition post mortem, taken 22 Dec., 1546, (37 Henry VIII.) His next heirs were his grandchildren, Thomas Packington and John Burlacy. He left a large estate. The manor of Aylesbury at Domesday survey included, besides Aylesbury and Walton, the parishes of Bierton, Boughton and Halcot, and belonged to the King until 1204, when King John gave it to Geoffrey Fritz Piers, Earl of Essex. After several generations, a Joan carried it by marriage to Theobald de Boteler; with some generations intervening, it came to James (Butler), Earl of Ormond. Then came two James, Earls of Ormond; then Thomas, Earl of Ormond, d. 1515, from whom it came to his daughter, Lady Margaret Butler, who m. Sir William Boleyn, who d. 1505. Their son, Sir Thomas Boleyn (father of Ann), Earl of Wiltshire, sold it to Sir John Baldwin, from whom it went to the Packingtons. How completely the town was under the control of the Packingtons appears from a letter preserved among the Parliament returns of 14 Elizabeth, printed by Brayley and Britton (Beauties of England). I give it, it shows such a consciousness of owning a member of Parliament:

"To all Christian people to whom this present witness shall come: I, Dame Dorothy Packington, late wife of Sir John Packington, Knight, Lord and owner of the town of Aylesbury, send greeting. Know ye me, the said Dorothy Packington, to have chosen, named and appointed my truly and well beloved Thomas Litchfield and George Burden, Esqr's, to be my burghers of my said town of Aylesbury; and whatever the said Thomas Litchfield and George Burden, burgesses, shall do in the service of the Queen's Highness in that present Parliament to be held in Westminster, the 8th of May next ensuing the date hereof, I, the said Dorothy Packington, do ratify and approve to be of my own act, as fully and wholly as if I were witness or present there. In witness whereof to these presents, I have hereunto set my seal, this 4th day of May, in the 14th year of the reign of my Sovereign Lady Elizabeth, by the grace of God, of England, France and Ireland, Queen," &c.

Dugdall's Monasticon Anglicanum, Vol. 8, p. 1509, gives an account of the Convent of Gray Friars in Aylesbury, founded 1387 by James, Earl of Ormond. It was surrendered to Henry VIII., and granted by him (1539) to Sir John, and became his country seat. The Packingtons lived there until the time of the great civil war, when it was so much injured that it was never afterward inhabited. The commissioners of Henry found the monks very poor, in debt, their garments very coarse, and very little stuff of household. So they only sold the glass windows, and their ornaments and utensils, leaving the house whole, only defacing the church.

RICHARD BALDWIN, OF COUNTY BUCKS, ENGLAND, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. RICHARD BALDWIN, described as of "Donrigge," in the Parish of Aston Clinton, County of Bucks, yeoman, made his will 16 Jany., 6 Edward VI., that is 155 $\frac{2}{3}$ . In the body of the will his name is spelled "Bawldwyn" and "Baldwyn." The following is an abstract of the will, to be buried in the churchyard of Aston Clinton: "To daughter Alis, 20 marks when married; to daughter Agnes, £12 when 19; to daughters Cicely and Letise, each 10£ when 19; to son John, farm at Dungrove, in parish of Chesham, when 23, but if he die before that, to son Henry; to son Richard, my tenements in Cholesbury, and the lands belonging thereto, when 23; to wife Ellen and son Henry, the rents of his said houses and lands towards bringing up his children; to Hughe Baldwin, his brother's son, £6 13s. 4d." He gave small bequests to his godchildren, tenants and servants; to his son Henry, ten silver spoons and a maser;\* the rest of his personal estate, to his wife Ellen and son Henry equally, who are his executors. He makes the overseers of his will, his brothers John Baldwin and John Apuke. The will was proved in the Court of the Archdeaconry of Bucks Co., 21 Feby., 155 $\frac{2}{3}$ , by the executors named.

The original will of his widow is among the records of that Court, but the date of probate is missing. The date of the will is 24th (month torn or eaten off), in the 8th year of Queen Elizabeth; The date then was the 24th of some month, from 24 Nov., 1565, to 24 Oct., 1566. The parish records at Aston, Clinton, begin marriages 8 July, 1561; baptisms, 3 Dec., 1565; burials, 12 Feby., 1560-1. The burial of Ellen does not there appear. She may have lived with her son John and been buried at Chesham. She may have been sister of John Apuke, named by her husband as mother-in-law. If so, her family name is represented by the surname Pooke.

overseer of the will of his brother Henry, dated 2d Jany., 1599 or 1600, but Mr. Chester finds no further trace of him, and feels certain he left no will, unless he went into some other part of the country and it was proved elsewhere.

4. Richard. He was under twenty-three years old in 1552-'53, and was to have the tenements and lands in Cholesbury. He is not named in the wills after that of his father. Quere: Whether he was the Richard who resigned, in 1561, as vicar of Croppery, Bucks County.

Richard Baldwin, of Cholesbury, weaver, made his will, dated 23 May, 1630, of which the following is an abstract. He gives to his wife Isabell one-third of his goods and chattels; to his son Nathaniel, £10; to his son Joseph, when twenty-one, one-half acre of land, called Hunt's Wick; to his daughter, Mary Pratt, 6s. 8d.; to her dau. Mary two sheep, and to her other two children each a sheep; to his dau. RICHARD CRIPPS

RICHARD BALDWIN.

Although the last Richard evidently could not have been the one who had the Cholesbury lands in 1552 or 1553, it seems not unlikely he was his son. Mr. Chester can find no traces of the three sons, Timothy, Nathaniel and Joseph, after the probate in 1633. He thinks there can be but little if any doubt that they are the ones who emigrated to New England, appearing in 1639 in Milford, Connecticut, with the other Baldwins from Aston Clinton. The Cholesbury register commences in 1583, and Mr. Chester suggests an examination of it might perhaps clear up this matter. In 1870, I examined that register somewhat hastily to a period considerably after 1658, but failed to find anything of them there.

Other children of Richard and Ellen were:

5. Alice. Unmarried in 155 $\frac{2}{3}$ . As she was not named in her mother's will, in 156 $\frac{5}{6}$ , she probably died and was buried at Aston Clinton before 156 $\frac{6}{11}$ , when the register commences.

6. Agnes. Unmarried and not 19 in 155 $\frac{3}{4}$ . She married at Aston Clinton, 18 Nov., 1566, William Grange, but lived less than four months, and was buried there 10 March, 156 $\frac{6}{7}$ . He remarried and was finally buried at Aston Clinton, 14 Nov., 1582. In his nuncupative will, dated 26 Sept., 1582, he named his wife Isabell, and his sons Henry and Thomas, and made Henry Baldwin, his first wife's brother, his executor.

7. Cicely. Unmarried in 155 $\frac{3}{8}$ , and in 1565 or 1566, not named in the will of her brother Henry 15 $\frac{9}{10}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ .

8. Lettice. Still unmarried in 1565 or 1566, but named in the will of her brother Henry, 15 $\frac{9}{10}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ , as wife of — Foster. In the will of her nephew, Robert Baldwin, son of her brother Henry, dated 22 March, 161 $\frac{5}{6}$ , she is mentioned as living in Tring, County Herts.

2. HENRY <sup>2</sup> Richard <sup>1</sup>. He was his father's executor in 155 $\frac{2}{3}$ , and in 157 $\frac{4}{8}$  become owner in fee of Dundridge. His will, as "Henry Baldwin, of Dundridge, in the Parish of Aston Clinton, Co. Bucks, yeoman," was dated 2 Jany., 15 $\frac{9}{10}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ . The will was proved at London, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 2 July, 1602, by Richard, his son and executor. He was buried at Aston Clinton, 1 June, 1602. In the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, for July, 1872, I published a brief synopsis of it from a copy I had then obtained.

In witness whereof, I, the said Alice Baldwyn, to these presents have sette my hand and seale (signed with +). Sealed and delyvered in the presence of us, Robert Childer (mark +), Jonas Newton (his mark E).

In my article in the "Register," Henry was erroneously stated to be the son of a Sylvester. He left to the poor of Aston Clinton, 20s.; of Cholesbury, 20s.; of Wendover 5s.; and of Great Missenden, 3s. 4d.; to Edmund Stonehill, of St. Leonard's, 2s.; to Thomas George, of St. Leonard's, 2s.; to Thomas Chapman, of St. Leonard's, 12d.; to Widow Pratt, of St. Leonard's, 12d.; to son John, 4 croftes, in Wendover, called "Stybbings," £10; to his son Robert messuage lands and tenements, etc., in Flandren, Hempstead and elsewhere in Co. Herts, also £40; to dau. Anne, £100; to James Bonas, £40; to son Richard sundry furniture, household stuff, &c., after the death of his wife; to son Sylvester, £10, besides what he owed, and to his sons, John and Henry, each 6s. 8d.; to Henry, son of James Bonas, 6s. 8d.; to Bartholomew Gravenge, a ewe and lamb; to Robert Baldwin, his late servant, 12d.; to each godchild, 6d.; to sister Lettice Foster, 20s.; to Thomas King, of Swanborne, 10s.; to Richard Salter, his son-in-law, ten sheep; all the rest to his wife. rwood, were named as overseers. The original will of his widow is on file among the Records of the Court of Archdeaconry Bucks, in which it was proved. It is dated 4 June, 1522. She named "Alice Baldwin," and is described as of Dundridge. She desires to be buried in the parish church of Aston Clinton, near her late husband; gives to her sons, Richard, Sylvester and John, 40s. each; to her dau. Mary Salter, £10, her best gold ring, best gown, &c.: to the children of Sylvester, viz: John, Henry, Sylvester, Richard, William, Alice and Jane, each 40s.; to the children of her son John, viz: Richard, John, Mary, Agnes and Martha, each 40s.; to the children of her dau. Mary Salter, viz: Richard, Thomas, John, David, Susanna, Mary and Sarah, each 40s.; to the children of her dau. Jane Bonas, viz: Henry, James, John, Christian, Faith, Mary and Jane, each a sum varying from £4 to £10; to Henry Stonehill, my son-in-law, and his children, Henry, Jane and Agnes, each 40s.; to Anne, dau. of son Robert, 40s.; to brother Thomas King, 10s., and to his children, 20s.; to the children of brother Robert King, 20s.: to William, son of Thomas King, 10s.; to sister Maria Montague, 10s. All the residue to be divided equally to her sons Richard, Sylvester and John, and dau. Mary Salter. It appears that she and her son Richard occupied the manor of Dundridge. She appointed her sons Richard and John her executors, and as overseers her friends Richard Cripps, of St. Leonard's, clerk, and Richard Salter, Sen., of Hemel Hempstead. If her sons named declined, her executors were to be her son Sylvester and her son-in-law, Richard Salter.

The will was proved 14 Dec., 1626, by her son Richard only. She was buried at Aston Clinton, 23 Nov., 1626. Her will is a model one, naming no doubt every living child and grandchild. Thomas and Robert King were no doubt her own brothers, and Montague may have been her own sister or sister-in-law. The first Richard Baldwin, the tenant of Dundridge, and his wife Ellen, both directed to be buried in the churchyard, she directs to be buried in the church, where she said her husband was also buried, a significant mark between the tenant of a manor and the lord of it.

The children of Henry and Alice, according to their wills, were:

9. Richard. Named in his grandmother's will in 1565. His father's executor in 1602; his brother Robert's in 1606; and his mother's in 1626.

RICHARD BALDWIN.

His will as "Richard Baldwin, of Dun Dridge, in the Parish of Aston Clinton, in the Countie of Bucks, yeoman," is dated 18 February, 163 $\frac{3}{4}$ . He gave to Mr. Hall, minister of St. Leonard's, £5; to Henry, son of his brother Sylvester and his next heir, a close called Bray's Bush, in Great Chesham and Wendover, paying to the poor of St. Leonard's 20s. yearly for one hundred years; also £20, to allow those who had bought timber of testator to cut it down and carry it away; also one "coffer, with evidencce concerning the manor of Dundridge," and also the evidencce concerning the chapel lands; "also a malt-mill, a corslet and its furniture, the furniture for service of the musters, and the tables, frames, forms, cupboard wainscot, benches and armor in the hall, and the best bedstead in the new chamber;" to Christian, his wife, half of the bedsteads, bed-clothes linen, pewter, brass and other movable goods, to be equally divided between her and his executor, and also two of his best beastes, twenty sheep, three hogs, all his poultry, and quarter of wheat, one of malt, all his clothing and 20 per annum, house room and firewood; to his brother John and his son John, £20 each—the balance of his money in their hands to be paid to his executor: to sister Mary Salter and her children, John, David, Mary and Sarah Salter, each £20; to the children of his sister Jane Bonns: to Henry, £20; to James, £10; to Christian, £30; Mary, £100. £50 to Anne Bryant, dau. of brother Robert, and to her son Richard a freehold tenement in Wendover; to Henry Stonehill, son of Sister Anne, £30 when he should be of age, and twenty acres of free land in Drayton Beauchamp: to Anne Stonehill, dau. of Sister Anne, £10; to Richard Baldwyn, son of brother Sylvester, £10; to William, son of brother Sylvester, £10; to Richard Baldwin, son of Sylvester Baldwin, of Aston Clinton, £10; to each of brother's and sister's children, living at his death, 40s.; to Joan Chasse, his wife's sister, 40s.; to William Darley, a yearly rent of the messuage where he lives; and after nineteen other legacies of 20s. each, including the poor of Aston Clinton, St. Leonard's and Cholesbury, and to each servant 10s., he devises the rest of his goods, &c., to Sylvester Baldwin, of Aston Clinton, son of his brother Sylvester, who was to be his executor. The will was proved in the Court of Archdeaconry, of Bucks, 29 Nov., 1636, by Sylvester Baldwin, nephew and executor.

This will was indirectly the means of connecting the family in New England with that of Bucks, through conveyances made in New England of interests devised under it by the executors of the executor, and recorded in New Haven Colony records. From one of these conveyances, dimly recorded, Mr. Savage said Sylvester, the executor, was son of Richard. Learning from copies of Aston Clinton records that the birth there appeared of Sylvester, son of Thomas, I thought Savage mistaken, and endeavored so find the will, for some time in vain, it not being at Doctor's Commons. It was finally found in Oxford, and I obtained a certified copy through the kindness of Dr. Scott, then Master of Baliol College, and after Dean of Winchester.

The will was the foundation of my article in the Register. The result of the discovery of the will, as well as other experiences which appear herein, show the extreme and patient care required in such investigations. Our Sylvester proved to be son of neither Richard, as he had been reported to be by Savage; nor son of Thomas, as appeared from the records of Aston Clinton. The will attests the very substantial condition of the testator. The legacies show him to have been possessed of considerable means, for these amounts must be multiplied by ten, and the bequests sufficient to show the character of the man. After handsomely remembering all his immediate relations, he did not forget his tenants, the poor widows, and other poor in his neighborhood, and finally his servants. That he was the owner of Dundridge, is amply proved by his bequeathing to his heir the coffer containing the evidence that is, his title deeds. It was his father's before him, or joint with him, and they purchased it from the Pakington's, who had it from Sir John Baldwin. The statement in Lipscombe's History of Bucks, Vol. 2, p. 96, that it ever belonged to Sylvester Baldwin, is therefore an error—Lipscombe probably confounded Henry, son of Sylvester, with the father.

Richard died childless, and was buried at Aston Clinton, 14 Oct., 1636. He m. at Cholesbury, —, 1592. Chistian Touckfield, i. e. Tuckfield, who survived him, and made her will 16 Feb'y, 1641, describing herself of Dundridge, widow. The following is an abstract:

Aged and weak—to kinsman John Grove, of Chesham Boys, and his father Nehemiah, my kinsman, £20 each; to Deborah Weston, of Chesham, widow, two pair of sheets; to sister Joane Chace, £10; to kinsman Richard Arnold, a silver beaker, the same to go to his son at his death; to Richard Neale, who dwelt with my cousin Parrett, 10s.; Kinsman Abraham Parrett, 10s.; residue of goods, &c., to my sister Joane Chace, her children, John Grover, Mary Harris, Thomas Chace and Benaiah Chace, my kinsman Richard Arnold and my kinsman Mary Parrett equally. Kinsman Richard Arnold and Thomas Chase to be joint executors, and William Grange overseer.

The will was proved in the Archdeaconry Court of Bucks, 27 July, 1641, but her burial does not appear at Aston Clinton.

10. SYLVESTER<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> through whom—his elder brother Richard having died childless—the line of the family continued. He was living at the date of his grandmother's will, 156 $\frac{3}{4}$ ; at that of his mother's, 4 June, 1622, but was evidently dead at that of Richard's, 18 Feb'y., 163 $\frac{3}{4}$ . There seems little room to doubt that he was the Sylvester who m. at Cholesbury, 28 Sept., 1590, Jane Wells. The burial of his son George as son Sylvester, of Dundridge, appears in Cholesbury, 21 Nov., 1596. In the pedigree entered by his grandson, in the visitation of Buckinghamshire, 1669, he is called of "Milton, in Bedfordshire." There are two Miltons in that county. In Milton, Bryant, the name of Baldwin does not appear. In Milton, Ernest, near Bedford, his own name does not appear, but the marriage and burial of one of his daughters, and perhaps the burial of his eldest son. It seems likely the eldest son had settled in Milton, and that his father may have lived with him during the latter part of his life. It is possible he died shortly before 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , for there is a hiatus in the burial register there, from 6 Nov., 1632 to 1 May, 1634. The hiatus in Cholesbury extends from 1611 to 1669. He was no doubt dead by 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , the date of Richard's will. No will or administration is found of himself or his wife. His children, however, are happily identified by wills of his relatives and other records.

16. George died young, and buried at Cholesbury, 21 Nov., 1596.

17. John living 1 $\frac{5}{6}$  $\frac{9}{0}$ , but evidently dead at the date of his uncle's will, Feb'y, 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , when his next brother Henry was named as his "next heir." There can be little doubt he was the John buried at Milton Ernest, in Bedfordshire, 10 Feb'y, 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ . He had resided there some years, for he signed the parish register as church warden for the year 1627, 1629 and 1630. No baptisms of children or burial of a wife appear. It is probable he died unmarried. He however made a will, for a minute of it appears in the calender of the Archdeaconry Court of Bedfordshire, now at Northampton, but the will itself has disappeared from its proper bundle. It was likely returned to the executor after probate.

22. Jane, named in the will of her grandmother Alice, 4 June, 1622, but of whom no more is known.

23. Alice, named in her grandmother's will in 1622. From the will of her brother Henry, in 1661, it appears that one of the daughters m. John Edwards. In the register of Milton Ernest appears the marriage, 4 May, 1629, of John Edwards and Alice Baldwin. The very next entry in the register is her burial, 6 July, same year. The children of John Edwards, named in the will of her brother Henry, were by a second wife, the eldest of whom were baptised at Milton Ernest in 1639.

11. JOHN<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> evidently from the wills the third son of Henry and Alice Baldwin. His father left him in his will, in 1 $\frac{5}{6}$  $\frac{9}{0}$ , four crofts, (croft, a Saxon word meaning a small field near a dwelling, Webster), called "Stybbings," in Wendover, and he and his children were remembered in the will of his mother in 1622. His brother Richard, in 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , bequeathed him £20. equivalent to \$1.000 at the present day, and he was living at the date of his son Richard's will in 1634. He left no will, but on the 14 Oct., 1637, his widow Hannah was granted letters of administration from the Archdeaconry Court of Bucks. He was then described as late of Chesham, Co. Bucks. The bond was signed by her and John Baldwin, of Chesham, Mercer.

26. Mary.

27. Agnes.

28. Martha.

These three are all named in the will of their grandmother Alice, in 1622. They evidently became—but in what order does not appear—the wives of Thomas Dudsbury, Thomas Ward and Thomas Butcher, named by their brother Richard as his brothers-in-law. They were very likely older than John.

12. ROBERT<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>. He was evidently the fourth and youngest son of Henry and Alice Baldwin. To him were bequeathed messuages, lands and tenements in Flandren, Hempstead and elsewhere in Hertfordshire. His will, as of North Church Herts, yeoman, dated 22 March, 160 $\frac{5}{6}$ , was proved 1 April following by his brother Richard, his executor. He directed to be buried in the churchyard of North Church. He bequeathed 10s. to his aunt Lettice Foster, then of Tring, and named his brother Salter overseer of his will. He left small bequests to the poor of St. Leonard's and Cholesbury. The residue of his estate, which appears to have been small, he left equally to his wife Joane, and his daughter Anne. He evidently died very young, and this daughter Anne was his only child, and then an infant. She was living in 163 $\frac{2}{3}$  as Anne Bryant, with a son Richard at date of will of Richard, of Dundridge.

29. Anna, m. Alexander Bryant. +

13. JANE<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup> m. James Bonus—so called generally, but in the will of his father-in-law, Bonas. She was his wife in 1 $\frac{5}{6}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ , but both were dead in 1622, leaving seven children:

Mr. Chester finds no further trace of Hannah. Their children are enumerated in the will of their grandmother Alice, in 1622, where

24. Richard. His will, as citizen and girdler, at London, dated 9 June, w<sup>as</sup> proved 23 July, 1634, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, by two London friends, Henry Shaw and Henry Poole. He seems to have been a young man, certainly unmarried, just commencing business with a partner named George Thwaites: and he gives the amount of his investment £270, of which he gave £120 to his "dear father and mother;" £30 to his brother John; sums of £15 to £30 to his brothers-in-law, Thomas Dudbury, Thomas Ward and Thomas Butcher; to his Uncle Richard a ring worth 20s.; and 40s. to the poor of Chesham, where he says he was born. The rest of his bequests were to friends and servants in London.

25. John, named in the wills of his grandmother, in 1622; Uncle Richard, 1633, and brother Richard, 1634.

Mr. Chester says he sees no good reason why this son may not have been the emigrant, afterwards known as John Baldwin, of Norwich, about whose early history so little is known, and nothing certainly. The traditions that have come down about him are so vague as to be practically valueless. He would have been own cousin of Sylvester, the emigrant, though doubtless much his junior, as he was a younger son of a still younger son. That he must have been very young in 1622, is evident from the fact that his elder brother had only just completed his apprenticeship, and engaged in business twelve years later. Other cousins, the Bryants and Stonehills of the same generation, appear to have also gone to New England about the same time. It seems probable that he was the "John Baldwin, mercer," who, with his mother, signed the "bond when she administered on his father's estate, in "1637. If so, he must have only just commenced business, and "there is no reason why he may not have given this up, and gone "with his relations to New England. In favor of this theory is "the strong fact that no further trace of him can be found at "Chesham, nor elsewhere in this country. If not married until "1653, as is said, he would then still have been comparatively a "young man, and probably not far from 35. Admitting that "John of Norwich, did not go to Guilford in 1639 a mere child—"and on this point there is really no evidence whatever—there is "no good reason why this John may not have been that emigrant; "while in favor of it is his near relationship to the other emigrants of his name, and the fact of his disappearance here. It "seems improbable that if he had continued as a mercer at Chesham, he would not have married, had children baptised, and 14. MARY<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup> m. at Aston Clinton, 30 Jan'y 159 $\frac{8}{9}$ , Richard Salter, very likely the son of Richard Salter, senior, named by Alice, widow of Henry<sup>2</sup> as overseer of her will, while the son-in-law was alternate executor. Both were living 1622, with seven children:

- 37. Richard.
- 38. Thomas.
- 39. John, living 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ .
- 40. David, living 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ .
- 41. Susana.
- 42. Mary, living 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ .
- 43. Sarah, living 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ .

Each of these children, in 1622, had 40 shillings from their grandmother. After 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , Mr. Chester finds nothing of these, unless David was David Salter, of Agmondesham, Bucks Co., tanner, whose nuncupative will, made 11 April, 1669, was 6 proved Oct. following by his relict Sarah, sole legatee.

15. AGNES<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>. She is called Anne in the will of Richard, her brother, but Agnes in that of her mother, and in the parish register. She was baptised at Aston Clinton, July, 1579. She married Henry Stonehill, and was dead in 1622, her husband three children surviving.

44. Henry had from his uncle Richard by his will, dated 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , £30, and 20 acres of free land in Drayton Beauchamp. He was probably the Henry Stonehill who emigrated to New England, settling with his relatives, Baldwins and Bryants, in Milford in 1639, and returning in 1646 to England, and it is said by Lambert to London.

45. Jane perhaps died young, as not mentioned, in 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , in the will of her Uncle Richard.

46. Agnes. Probably the one called, in 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , in the will of her Uncle Richard, Anne, and given £10.

18. HENRY<sup>4</sup> Sylvester<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>. He was living 1 $\frac{5.9.9}{6.0.0}$  to be mentioned in his grandfather's will. By the death of two elder brothers, he became next heir, as well as considerable legatee of his uncle Richard's will, 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , proved 1636. He appears to have become a barrister-at-law, and was of Clifford's Inn, London. He married Mary, only daughter and heir of Edward Hurst, of Kingston-upon-Thames, Co. Surrey, where she was baptised, 28 July, 1605. She died first. He afterwards lived at Guilford, Co.

Surrey, and was buried in St. Mary's Church, in that town. He made his will 11 Sept., 1661, describing himself of Guilford, gentleman, as he had a right to do, being a barrister, though possessing no coat of arms. The following is a full abstract of his will:

To the poor people of Guildford, £3; to Mr. Holland, minister there, for my funeral sermon, £3; to the ministers of St. Leonard's and Aston Clinton, Co. Bucks, each 20s.; poor of St. Leonard's, 40s. I release my brother William the debt to me owing, if any there be, and give to my nephew, William Baldwin, and his sister Margaret, each £20; and to my niece Markwick, £10. I release to Henry Edwards, and Alice his sister, the arrearages of my brother John Edward's account appearing to be due to me, they allowing the £15 I am to pay for binding the said Henry apprentice; niece Sarah, daughter of brother Richard Baldwyn, £20, and to her and her heirs the tenement at East End, in Flitwick, Co. Bedford, devised to me by my said brother Richard. To dau. Jane, all my child bed linen, and all my late wife's rings, cabinets, &c.; also £500 at her marriage. To Edward, my son, sundry household stuff, the goods in my chamber at Clifford's Inn, sundry plate, &c.; to my grandchild, Elizabeth Baldwin, £100 when 21. "I give to y<sup>e</sup> use of my brother Silvester, —, or the issue of them — — shall be — equally to be divided:" to the children of my kinsman, John Torles, equally, £60. I appoint as my executors Thomas my son, and Jane my daughter, my overseers, to have the care of my estate until my son Thomas be 24, and my daughter Jane be 21 years of age.

The will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 20 March, 166½, by both executors. It is evident he originally designed leaving legacies to the children of his brother Sylvester, or their children if they were dead: but eventually changed his mind, perhaps because inconvenient to obtain them. The blanks were never filled. He signed his name Baldwyn.

47. Edward. +

48. Thomas. He made his will 16 July, 1676, signing Baldwin, describing himself as of Guildford, Co. Surry, Gentleman, which he was by right, as will appear hereafter. He left rings and other legacies to several friends; but the only bequests to his relations were: To Uncle William Baldwin, and his son William Baldwin, £100 each; all residue to his dear brother Edward, Esq., who was executor. He directed to be buried in St. Mary's Parish, in Guildford, near his father. The will was proved 21 Feb'y, 167½.

49. Jane. Not mentioned in the will of her brother.

19. SYLVESTER<sup>4</sup> Sylvester<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>. He was tl emigrant to New England, who died on board ship Martin, Jun or July, 1638. He is first mentioned in the will of his uncl Richard in 1633, as executor and residuary legatee—a high compliment to his nephew from a man of the property and apparent sense of Richard, especially as the next heir of Richard was a prosperous lawyer. He married Sarah —, whose surname Hon John D. Baldwin, of Worcester, informed me long since, on the authority of Hon. Ralph D. Smith, of Guilford, Conn., was Bry ant. Mr. Smith, a very high authority in early relationships Connecticut, could not some years after, on my visiting him in Guilford, give me his authority. The fact, however, will appear very probable, as the English relationship and acquaintance of the Bryants was then unknown, having been afterwards discovered by myself. They were married in England, and the following children were baptised to them in Aston Clinton, Bucks Co., England:

50. Sarah, 22 Apl., 1621, m. Benjamin Fenn, of Milford, Ct. +

51. Richard, 25 Aug., 1622, here in the 5th generation, but hereafter in this book as Richard, of Milford, in the first generation, ancestor of a numerous family. +

52. Mary, 28 Feb'y, 1624; buried 3 Nov., 1625.

53. Mary, 19 Feb'y, 1626, m. 1st, Robert Plum, of Milford, Connecticut, and 2nd, William East, of the same place. +

54. Martha, 20 April, 1628. Neither she nor her children appear in her mother's very full will. I conclude she died unmarried.

55. Samuel, 1 July, 1632; buried 4 Jan'y, 1634.

56. Elizabeth, 28 Jan'y., 1634, and buried three days after.

57. John, 28 October, 1635, appears hereafter in this volume as John, of Stonington, Connecticut. +

58. Ruth. Baptism not appearing, but her name in Sylvester's nuncupative will at Boston. She probably died young, as neither she nor representatives appear in her mother's very full will.

At a Court of Assistants, held at Boston. the 4th of the 7th month, 1638. (4 Sept., 1638.)

“The will of Silvester Bauldwin was p'sented unto the Court,
“and his wife Sarah and sonne Rich'd were allowed executors according to the will.” (Mass. Records, Vol. 1, p. 23, marg. 226.)
Mr. Savage gives the following account of this will:

“On the main ocean, bound for N. E., his nuncupative will was

adley, by oaths of Chad Brown, Francis Bolt, James Weeden and John Baldwin. The estate was good and provision liberal for the six children, as well as the widow, to whom, with son Richard, our general court, 4 Sept. following, committed the administration."

The six children are named as Richard, Sarah, Mary, Martha, Ruth and son John. Savage supposes the witness, John Baldwin, to be his son; but that could not be for want of age, and because of his interest therein. The witness likely was either John of Milwich, or old John of Milford.

I sought for this will or its record as long ago as 1860, but could not find it, nor could Mr. Savage for me, although he kindly left his residence with me and sought in the Probate and Secretary of State's office. I believe it to be in the latter office, or at least to have been there. The widow went with the emigrants to New Haven, and was the widow Baldwin enrolled among the first planters there, five in her family, and £300 in the list, and lots were afterward drawn in her right. She married, 1640, John Astwood, of Milford, Connecticut, when her property was valued at £800, besides several parcels of land. John Astwood came in the spring of 1635, aged 26, a husbandman, from Stanstead Abbey, Hertfordshire. He arrived in the Hopewell, Capt. William Bundoeh. He settled at Roxbury, Mass., with his brother James. He was freeman there 3 March, 1636; removed to Milford, 1639.

Milford joined New Haven colony in 1643, and he was their representative at general court that and the next year, and perhaps after. In 1653 and 1654, he was chosen at general election Magistrate for Milford, and as such was present at several general courts. He was a leading man in Milford, a local Magistrate-Captain—how does not appear. In 1649, he was a Commissioner in the general meeting of New England Colonies, and again, 1653, with the Governor, Eaton. The same year, with the Governor, the Deputy and two other Magistrates, he sat upon the case of Mistress Godman, who complained that divers persons accused her as a witch. The Court thought she hath unjustly called heither the severall psons before named, being she can prove nothing against them, and that her cariage doth justly render her suspicious of wichcraft, w<sup>h</sup> she herself in so many words confesseth therefore the Court wisheth her to look to her carriage hereafter," and gave her the wholesome "charge not to goe in an offensive way to folkes' homes in a rayling manner, as it seems she hath done, but that she keepe her place and meddle wth her own business."

October, 1653, he was appointed the representative for New Haven Colony, in London: and a letter was agreed to be written for the General Court, to Mr. Hopkins, to interest him to assist Captain Astwood. It appears that he had business of his own there, very probably in connection with his brother's estate, who had just died in Roxbury, leaving property in England, and whose wife announced her intention to return to England. He died in London. If his wife accompanied him, she returned, and died in November, 1669, as her will, dated 9th of that month, was proved the 20th. Astwood had a former wife Martha, and likely children by her, but none by his second wife. Mrs. Astwood's will remembers her daughter-in-law Hannah Freeman, wife of Stephen, and likely daughter of Captain Astwood. Her grandchildren, John Baldwin (son of John), Mary Woodruff (dau. of Mary Plumb), Silvanus Baldwin (son of Richard), Sarah Burwell (dau. of Sarah Fenn), Melitable Fenn (w. of Benj., son of Sarah Fenn), Martha Newton (dau. Sarah Fenn), dau. Elizabeth Baldwin, widow (widow of Richard), grandchildren; Sarah Riggs, Temperance and Mary Baldwin (all daughters of Richard); gr. grandchild Sarah Burwell (dau. Sarah Burwell) son John, dau. Mary Plumb, grandchild Matthew Woodruff (husband of Mary).

SARAH ASTWOOD (her S marke). [SEAL.]

Sealed, signed and delivered in ye pre'nce of us.

RICHARD PLATT;

THOMAS + WHEELER (his marke),

SAMUEL EELS.

"The Soul's Conflict," named in the foregoing will, was written by that eminent Puritan divine, Rev. Richard Sibbs, D.D., Master of Catharine Hall, in Oxford, and preacher of Gray's Inn, London. I had a lively curiosity to know what book my ancestress left to her daughter, but got no light until I found that famous Isaak Walton, of angling memory, left by his will to one son "Sibbs, his 'Soule's Conflict,' and to another "Sibbs, his 'Bruised Reed.'" The first book of Sibbs I bought was entitled "Bowels Opened, or a Discovery of the Near and Dear Love Union and Communion betwixt Christ and His Church, and consequently betwixt Him and every Believing Soul; in several Sermons on the 4th, 5th and 6th Chapters of "Canticles."

This book shows well the character of the man, whose love of God amounted to a passion. He felt in his soul all those strong eastern expressions of the Canticles which carry little force to most. The next book was an old sermon, which, from the old marks upon it, seems to have "been preached at our house" at various early times in New England. Sibbs became preacher at Gray's Inn Chapel in 1618; in 1626, Master of Katharine Hall, Oxford; and from then to his death, in 1636, divided is time between the two places. "The Soule's Conflict and Victory over Itself by Faith. Psalm cxvi: 'Return unto thy rest, O my soul, for the Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee,'" is a collection of sermons preached at Gray's Inn; and it is very probable that Richard Baldwin, of Milford, while in the office of his uncle Henry, in London, may have heard some of them. It is full of fervid, intelligent piety, and the selection of this book does credit to Mrs. Astwood. Neal's "Puritans" says he was "one of the most celebrated preachers of his time, well known in the learned world—a burning and a shining light. His works discover him to have been of a heavenly, evangelical spirit, the comforts of which he enjoyed at his death."

The original edition of the book lies before me, printed 1635, almost as thick as it is wide, with a wide margin, and no doubt a fine book in its day. It has been reprinted several times, the finest reprint being the Pickering, of 1837.

59. Rebecca, 23 June, 1611.

60. Alice, 22 Aug., 1613.

61. John, 19 Feb'y, 161 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

62. Jane, 12 April, 1618.

63. Henry, 8 Feb'y, 162 $\frac{1}{4}$ .

64. Sarah, 23d March, 152 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

Mr. Chester finds no trace of these children, save that Sarah was named in the will of her uncle Henry, in 1661. I think he was the Richard who m. in Aylesbury, in April, 1607, Phillippa Corbman, as nearly as I can make out the name in the old record there. There was a Richard Baldwin in Braintree, Mass., in 1637. His name appears only in Winthrop's History of New England, vol. 2, p. 348. He had a daughter Jane, of some age. He appears no more in New England, and if he was this Richard, no doubt returned to England, where his wife died 1641. I should look to him soonest of any as the father of John of Billerica, and Henry of Woburn. John and Henry both married in Woburn. They lived at some distance from each other, but Henry was witness to John's will in 1686.

The Baldwins of Billerica, descendants of John, write: "We always supposed John and Henry, of Woburn, were brothers." By tradition reduced to writing, of a great-grandson of John, he came from Hertfordshire, which would seem to identify him with the locality of Baldwins in the adjoining parishes of Bucks and Herts. No assistance to this conjecture is derived from the names given by John and Henry to their respective children, which seem, however, to be taken largely from the Richardsons.

21. WILLIAM<sup>4</sup> Sylvester<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>, living 1622, 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , and at the date of the will of his nephew Thomas, son of Henry, 16 July, 1676.

65. William, living 1661 and 1676.

66. Margaret, living 1661.

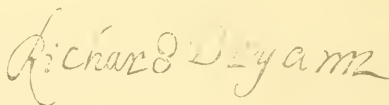

67. Daughter, named 11 Sept., 1661, in the will of her uncle Henry, as wife of Markwick.

29. ANNE<sup>4</sup> Robert<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup> m. Alexander Bryan, or Bryant.

In 163 $\frac{2}{3}$ , she is named in the will of her uncle Richard with her son Richard, and receives with him "all that tenement, with the appurtenances, being freeholde lying and being in Wendover towne, to the said Anne and her sonne Richard, and their heires forever, and fortie-eight pounds, eight pence, in mony, to be paid within three months after my decease." Alexander Bryan was son of Thomas Bryan, and baptised in Aylesbury, 29 Sept., 1602, where I accidentally found the entry in 1870. He had sisters bapt. there: Frances, 29 March, 1604; Mary, 19 April, 1606; Elizabeth, 2 Nov., 160—. Alexander and his wife were among the first settlers of Milford, Conn., in 1639. He was a man of great influence in the Colony of New Haven, and after the union with Connecticut, assistant from 1668 to 1673. His wife died there 20 Feb'y, 1661, and he m. 2nd the widow of Samuel Fitch, the schoolmaster of Hartford, and d. there between 20 July and 6 Nov., 1679. He and his son Richard were prominent and leading merchants, engaged in domestic and foreign trade. Both in succession were the richest men in Milford, it is said.

68. Richard, lived in Milford.

By w. Mary, had Alexander, b. 1651; Mary and Hannah, twins, b. 1654; Sarah, 1657; Samuel, bapt. 1659; John, 1662, d. y.; Abigail, 1664; Richard, 1666; Frances, 1668; Sarah, 1670; Abigail again, Jan'y, 1671; d. unm. 1698. He m., says Savage, 1678, Elizabeth, widow of Richard Hollingworth, dau. of Michael Powell, of Boston, and had Elizabeth, b. 1679, and Joseph, 1684; but I make him marry, by Mill. Rec., Mary Wilmot, and son Joseph b. 15 Jan'y, 1682. Mr. Savage thinks Alexander also had daughters.

69. Susanna d. at Middletown, Conn., 1670, and

70. Joanna m. April, 1654, Owen Morgan, of New Haven; yet, in another place he makes Owen Morgan m., in 1650, widow Joan Bryan.

In 1663, Alexander and his son Richard sold the property in Wendover, being "four messuages or tenements," given to Richard, by the will of Richard Baldwin, to Edward Baldwin,<sup>5</sup> next named, of Beaconsfield; Henry<sup>4</sup> Richard<sup>3</sup> for £40. The original very quaint and characteristic deed is in my possession. The names of both are spelled indifferently Bryan or Bryant. It is labeled "Deed of Purchase, by Mr. E. Baldwin, of the two houses at Wendover, with a fine upon it."

"Arms: Argent, a chevron ermines between 3 hazel sprigs vert. Crest: A squirrel sejant, or, holding a hazel sprig vert."

This was a Grant, and not a Confirmation of arms; and it is only necessary to point out, that, if on that occasion he could have shown his descent from any family of Baldwin entitled to arms, the coat of that family would have been confirmed to him as a matter of right. That he could not do so, is prima facie proved by the fact that it was found necessary to incur the infinitely greater expense of an original grant. This completes, says Mr. Chester, my evidence and arguments against the possibility that the Baldwins of Aston Clinton descended from any heraldic family of the name, being the last in date, and the most important, though it precedes the other evidences to be found in the remaining portion of the narrative. On the occasion of the Herald's Visitation to my beloved grandchild, Elizabeth Mytton, a ring, of 30 shillings value. My daughter Mytton, a good, dutiful child, desires me to leave her nothing, so I give to her and her husband mourning only. I appoint my son Richard joint executor with those above named."

The will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 1 Mch., 169 $\frac{1}{2}$ , by the son of Richard, power being reserved to the other executors.

The children of Edward Baldwin, by his wife Elizabeth Turfrey, were as follows :

71. Henry, called son and heir in 1669, then aged 6 years. He matriculated at Oxford, from Merton College, 30 May, 1679, aged 16, but took no degree. He died in his father's lifetime, and probably unmarried, certainly leaving no issue.

72. Richard. +

73. Edward, second surviving son in 1691, not 21.

74. Stephen, third surviving son in 1691.

75. Thomas, fourth surviving son in 1691.

76. Elizabeth, eldest daughter, and named in her grandfather's will in 1661. She became the second wife of Richard Mytton, of London, Gent., to whom she was married, at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London, 7 Feb'y, 168 $\frac{5}{6}$ . They had a child baptised at St. Mary, Aldermanbury, London, in 1692, and her husband was buried there 22 Feb.  $\frac{1699}{1700}$ .

77. Maria, second daughter in 1691, unmarried and not 21.

88. Sarah, third daughter in 1691, unmarried and not 21. Of the three youngest sons and two youngest daughters, says Mr. Chester, have discovered nothing later.

50. SARAH<sup>5</sup> Sylvester<sup>4</sup> Sylvester<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> bapt. 22 April, 1621, in Aston Clinton, Co. Bucks, England, came to New England no doubt with her parents on the ocean, June, 1638, in ship Martin. She married Hon. Benjamin Fenn, of Milford, Conn.

Benjamin Fenn

He was first of Dorchester, and Savage says, perhaps came 1630, in the Mary & John; yet his name does not appear until 1638, soon after which he removed to Milford. He was Representative for Milford 1653; an Assistant of that Colony 1654. He favored the union with Connecticut, and was an Assistant of the United Colony from 1665 to 1672, when he died. His estate was large, here and in England, Co. Bucks, valued at £600; rents due, £240, and this was by will given to Samuel, says Savage. He was likely from Aylesbury, as he seems to have had property there. Hardly any name appears more frequently than his in New Haven Colonial Records, after 1653, in various public services. One of the earliest was to raise in silver if possible four pounds, to pay that amount borrowed by the Commissioners in Boston. He and Capt. Astwood were to treat wth Ensigne Bryan or James Rogers, and see "if they can get silver, or Beaver, or other pay, though with "good allowance, to answer these things: but if that amount "cannot bee, that then so much butter bee gott to cary into the "Bay as will sell for money to make up this some; but if that will "not be procured, then so much of this some that come from "Guilford must be carried and sould as well as it can." In 1661 and the next two years, he and the Governor were the chosen Commissioners for New Haven Colony.

She died 29 April, 1663, and he married, 12 March, 1664, Susanna Ward. He d. 1672: will dated 14 Sept., and proved 14 Nov. His children by his second wife were Samuel, Susanna and James. The widow's will, dated 9 Sept., 1674, shows she was about to go to England. She gives her property chiefly to James and Susanna, and refers to her aged mother, Susanna Wood or Ward, of Suckley, in County Worcester. It is probable she did not return.

79. Benjamin Fenn, bapt. 20 Sept., 1640, in Milford. He removed to Guilford. He married Mehitable, dau. Jasper Gunn, of Milford, and d. 1689, leaving the following children: Benjamin, Mary and Joseph, all bapt. 1667; Sarah, bapt. 1668; Mehitable, Hannah and Martha, bapt. 1677; and Susanna. He died 1659.*

80. Joseph Fenn, bapt. 20 Nov., 1642, of Norwich; died 1671, leaving no family. He went to Guilford to be schoolmaster, but the negotiation fell through,

I am sorry I cannot give the succeeding Fenns more precisely. Benjamin above, bapt. 1667, was the Deacon Benjamin of Milford, whose will, dated 21 July, 1727, was presented (New Haven Probate Records 7, p. 24.) by Capt. Benjamin Fenn, one of the executors. The testator remembers his granddaughter, Hannah Fenn, and his grandson, Benjamin Fenn, his son Benjamin Fenn, and his daughter Mehitable Platt, wife of Joseph. Among other matters, is one-third of "my real estate lying in the town of Alsberv, in the County of Bucks, within Old England, and one-third of the rents and profits now due." His tombstone in Milford says he d. Aug. 29, 1732, in his 71st year. His wife Sarah d. May 26, 1727, in her 4th year. The will of Capt. Benjamin Fenn of Milford, dated 31 May, 1763, was presented by Capt. Benjamin, executor. The testator remembered his wife Sarah; his dau. Hannah Johnson, wife of Seth; his great-granddaughter Sarah Fowler, dau. of his granddaughter, wife of Jonathan Fowler, late of Milford, to be paid to her when 18, or married. To his son Benjamin, and his oldest son Benjamin. To his son Benjamin, until his daughter, Sarah Prince Fenn, arrives at eighteen, and balance to his son Benjamin. The tombstone of Capt. Benjamin says he was many years a ruling elder in the church; died Jan'y 10, 1770, at 80 years. His "amiable consort" Sarah May 9, 1773, at 86 years. The next stone is Col. Benjamin Fenn died Feb'y 30, (how is this?) 1778, in his 55th year. Next, Lieut. Benjamin Fenn died Oct. 27, 1780, in his 39th year.

and he died the same year. In 1677, his brother Benjamin conveyed to Thomas Betts, Jr., the house and house lot in Norwalk formerly belonging to him.

81. Sarah Fenn, bapt. April, 1645, m. Samuel Burwell, of Milford, who was bapt. 11 Oct., 1640, son of John of that place. She had children: Sarah, 1663, who had legacy, from her gr. grandmother Astwood, of a pewter platter, marked with S.; Samuel, 1665, died soon; Samuel again, 1667; Joseph, 1676; and John, 1678, unless the last be son of Nathan Burwell.

82. Mary Fenn, bapt. 1647; m. Jan. 11, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ , William Leete, Jr., of Guilford, Conn., son of Governor Leete. He died June, 1687, and she m. 2<sup>d</sup>. Captain Stephen Bradley, of Guilford. She died 20 June, 1701. Captain Bradley was a very prominent man, frequently deputy, in command of troops, and employed in public negotiations. He had six children by his first wife, but none by his second, and died 20 June, 1702. On the personal authority of the late Ralph D. Smith, I state that she was a very leading and prominent lady in Guilford. Her one daughter, by her first husband, Mary, m. 1st Aug. 1691, Hon. James Hooker (Judge), of Farmington and Guilford, Conn. He was son of Rev. Samuel Hooker, who was brother-in-law to Rev. Roger Newton. James died 12 March, 1740, and his wife 5 Oct., 1752.

83. Martha Fenn, bapt. 1650; m. 14 March, 1669, Samuel Newton, of Milford, Ensign in 1673, and died 1708. He was born 20 Oct., 1646, son Rev. Roger, by wife Mary, dau. Rev. Thomas Hooker. They had children: Martha, 1671, and Thomas, 1675.

84. Mary, bapt. 1645, and m. 16 June, 1668, Matthew Woodruff, of Farmington, son of Matthew Woodruff, an original settler there, and b. 1646; m. 16 June, 1668. Their children were: Matthew, 1669; Mary, 1670; John, 1673; Sarah, 1674; Samuel, 1677; Elizabeth, 1679, m. John Shepard, and in 170 $\frac{1}{4}$ , of Milford; Hannah, 1681—all living, in 1704, to take share of their mother in the estate of their grandfather. Matthew m., after death of Mary, a second wife, Sarah, dau. John North, and had children: Nathaniel, who settled in Litchfield, Conn.; and Joseph, d. y.\*

A brief list of the Woodruffs may not be without interest:

1. MATTHEW WOODRUFF, one of the original 84 proprietors of Farmington, Conn., probably from Hartford, died there 1682. His wife Hannah joined the church there 2 Apr., 1674.

2. John, 1642.—

3. Matthew, 1646.—

4. Hannah, 1648, m. Seymour.

5. Elizabeth, 1652.

6. Mary, 1654, bapt. 5 Nov. of that year.

7. Samuel, 1661, removed to Southington, Conn.

85. John Plum, bapt. 1646. Savage says, erroneously, that he is the only one known to have left issue. John was a man of distinction. He m., 24 Nov., 1668, Elizabeth Norton; and Savage names only children: Elizabeth, 1669; John, 1671; Mary, 1673; adding perhaps more. One more is Sarah, dau. Mr. John Plum, of Milford, who married, 25 Nov., 1702, Joseph Kellogg, of Norwalk, and had ch.: Elizabeth, 5 Oct., 1703; Sarah, 5 Apl., 1706; Joseph, 26 Sept., 1707; Rachel, 15 July, 1710; Hannah 1 Aug., 1712. Mrs. K. died 17 Aug., 1712. and he m. 2nd, according to Hall's Norwalk, p. 204, same day, widow Mary Lyon, and had ch.: David, 28 Sept., 1715; Benjamin, 26 Sept., 1716. It is likely the same day is an error. The foregoing John, b. 1671, was of Milford; and in 1816, his wife Rachel, who was his administratrix, was chosen guardian of his eldest son John, whose adm. is granted, 1738, to his son Joseph, widow declining. In the same volume (5 N. H. Probate Rec.), is estate Samuel, apparently son of Rachel, and whose wife is Mehitabel.

86. Robert Plum, b. 1648. (Vol. 3, p. 13, N. H. Prob. Rec., 27 Feb'y, 170 $\frac{3}{4}$ , is the inventory of his estate, as Mr. Robert Plum, of Milford.)

87. Samuel Plum, b. 1650, d. y.

88. Samuel Plum, b. 1653.

89. Joseph Plum, b. 10 July, 1655. I had believed him to be the one, administration on whose estate, of Milford, was given 8 Apl., 1714 (N. H. Pro. Rec.), to widow Susannah, with ch.: Susanna, ae. 12; Joseph, 10; Ann, 7; and Noah 5; but perhaps that was the Joseph who Savage says was the son of John, of New London, and removed to Milford about 1700. I agree with Mr. Savage, "that it seems impossible to pick up all these Plums."

2. JOHN WOODRUFF, b. about 1642, was of Farmington, and his will was proved 24 May, 1692.

- 8. Mary, 1667.
- 9. John, 1669.
- 10. Phebe, 1676.
- 11. Joseph, 1679.
- 12. Margaret, 1682.
- 13. Abigail, 1684.

3. MATTHEW WOODRUFF, b. 1646; bapt. in Farmington, May 16, 1658, in his 12th year. He m. Mary Plumb at Milford, Conn., 16 June, 1668. His first three ch. were born at Milford, the balance at Farmington. He died 1691.

- 14. Matthew, 1 Feb'y, 166 $\frac{8}{9}$ ; died 1751.
- 15. Mary, 27 Dec., 1670.
- 16. John, 1 Feb'y, 1672.†
- 17. Sarah, 1674.
- 18. Samuel, 1677.
- 19. Elizabeth, 1679, m. John Shepard, of Westfield, Mass.
- 20. Hannah, 1681.
- 21. Nathaniel, 168 $\frac{6}{7}$ , removed to Litchfield, Conn., and ancestor of Hon. Geo. C. Woodruff, of that place.
- 22. Joseph, 1689, died young.

16. CAPT. JOHN WOODRUFF, of Milford, born 1 Feb'y, 167 $\frac{3}{4}$ . His will, as Capt. John of Milford, is in New Haven Probate for 1726; and as per Milford Cemetery, he died 23 July, 1726, in his 53rd year. He remembers his wife Mary, and

- 23. Mary.
- 24. Sarah.
- 25. Susanna.
- 26. Anna.
- 27. Anne.
- 28. John.†
- 29. Joseph.

He gave his daughters two hundred pounds each, advancement to be taken out. He has deeds from his brothers and sisters for £60, in current country pay of the colony, to three of them (1704), and other pay to others of lands from their uncle John Plum by agreement, and uncle Robert Plum by will.

To be buried in the Chapel, appropriate to my own family, in the parish church of Beaconsfield, near my late deceased father and mother. To the poor of Beaconsfield, the place of my nativity, 50 shillings. To my wife, my chamber in the third stairease of Sir Robert Sayer's Buildings, in the Inner Temple, the furniture and goods there, and all my goods, plate, &c., in my house at Wilton's; and I appoint her my sole executrix, she to bring up my children, and see paid to them their legacies in the will of their good Aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Monteth, viz: to my daughter Ann, my son Richard and my daughter Elizabeth, each £500.

28. JOHN WOODRUFF. Vol. 10, p. 490, of New Haven Probate Records, is the will of Captain John o Milford again, dated 3 April, 1767; proved 3 Monday March, 1768.

- 30. John, oldest.
- 31. Samuel, 2d child.
- 32. Enoch.
- 33. Matthew,
- 34. Isaac.

To Wife Sarah.

- 35. Jonab, b. 1755, had a son Jonab, living May, 1878, in Broome county, N. Y., and aged 89 years!
- 36. Benjamin.
- 37. Hannah, wife of Stephen Platt.
- 38. Abigail, wife of Fitch Kimberly.
- 39. Sarah Woodruff.
- 40. Susannah Woodruff.
- 41. Jerusha Woodruff.

His wife was Sarah Baldwin 4, dau. Thomas 3, Barnabas 2, Richard 1, and born 1715, in Milford, Auere, from the order in which she is named whether she was his second. He had also a son

42. David, left out of the "distribution and inheritance of reversion."

It is further provided, that if any one tries to break up his will, that child has five shillings, "as the law directs." John had considerable lands in Oxford. I learn from his descendants, that David "was made wealthy by an uncle named Plumb, who willed him a large estate. David died in Oxford, 31 Dec., 1786, aged 53. He m. Esther Clark. They had a dau. Content, m. Nehemiah Candee 4, Caleb 3, Samuel 2, Zaccheus 1, whose descendants will appear in a genealogy I am preparing of the Candees.

ELIZABETH BALDWIN 3, Sylvanus 2, Richard 1, m. a Woodruff, but I have been unable to find what one. She was b. 29 March, 1673, and her father, in his will of 1727, leaves her all his lands in Waterbury, and remembers her sons Sylvanus and Matthew.

The will was proved, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 21 March, 169 $\frac{7}{8}$ , by the relict Anne. The children of Richard Baldwin, by his wife Anne Monteth were as follows:

90. Ann, evidently eldest child, as named in her father's will, and in that of Mrs. Elizabeth Monteth (whom he mentioned), which was dated 22 Feb., 169 $\frac{1}{3}$ . She died unmarried, and letters of administration were granted, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 20 Aug., 1734, to her brother and next of kin, Robert Monteth Baldwin, Esquire.

91. Richard, who was living 22 Feb'y, 169 $\frac{1}{3}$ , and also at the date of his father's will; but who probably died young, at all events without issue, as his younger brother possessed the family estate.

92. Elizabeth, living at the date of her father's will, 8 Dec., 1696, but of whom I find nothing further. The youngest child was

93. Robert Monteth Baldwin, who was evidently born after the date of his father's will. Mrs. Elizabeth Monteth, above named, was the widow of his mother's paternal uncle; and in her will, dated 22 Feb'y, 169 $\frac{1}{3}$ , left legacies of £500 each to the three children of Richard Baldwin and Anne Monteth, with the provision that if any of them died in their minority, or before marriage, their portions should go to any son of said James (see Richard) and Anne Baldwin, who should be baptised by the name of her dear deceased husband, Robert Monteth. He appeared to have outlived his brother and sisters, and to have died unmarried.

The will of Robert Monteth Baldwin, which is very short, was made 3 Sept., 1746, when he described himself as of the Middle Temple, London, Esquire. He simply bequeathed all his estate, both real and personal, to his "cousin," John Canham, Esquire, and appointed him sole executor. Canham proved the will, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 6 April, 1747. He may have been an actual cousin, son of one of his Aunts, Maria or Sarah; or the word "cousin" may have been used in the light of nephew, and he have been the son of the sister Elizabeth; or again, he may have been a relation on his mother's side. At all events, the estates of the direct line of Dundridge Baldwins appear to have descended to this Robert Monteth Baldwin, and he bequeathed them to his cousin John Canham, dying the last of his race. The very next year, 1748, according to Lipscombe (who wrongly calls him John Monteth Baldwin), this heir sold Dundridge and the other family lands, and the name of Baldwin ceased to be connected with them, after an ownership of 170 years, and a previous tenantry of Dundridge making up two centuries. It was left for the younger branches of the Dundridge line to perpetuate their race in America, while the elder branch, which remained in England, faded out entirely in about a hundred years after the emigration.

JOHN BALDWIN, OF COUNTY BUCKS, ENGLAND,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. JOHN BALDWIN, of the "Hayle," County Bucks, England, was named as the overseer of his brother Richard's will, in 155 $\frac{2}{3}$ . He made his own will 12 March, 156 $\frac{4}{5}$ , describing himself as of the Hayle, in the Parish of Wendover, County Bucks, yeoman. The following is an abstract of it:

To each of my children's children, 4 pence. To Nicholas, my son, my houses and lands in Great Missenden and the Lee, and a tenement in Wendover. To Sylvester, my son, a grove called Lord's Grove, in Wendover, and lands in Aston Clinton called Pleadell's; and the same, after his death, to go to his son John and his heirs forever. To Richard, my son, £20. To Robert, my son, £10. To Thomas, my son, a horse worth 33s. 4d. To George, my son, all the residue of my estate, and he to be my executor; as overseer, my son Sylvester. The will was proved 2 March, 156 $\frac{5}{6}$ , in the Archdeaconry Court of Bucks, by the son George. His wife evidently died before he did.

2. George.+

3. Nicholas.+

4. Sylvester.+

5. Richard.+

6. Robert. Mr. Chester finds nothing of him after his father's will of 156 $\frac{4}{5}$ , and thinks he died young.

7. Thomas.

8. Hugh appears, in the will of the first Richard of Dundridge, as "Heughe Baldwyn, my brother's son." He is not named in John's will, and if he was his son, probably died young. As Richard named no other brother than John, it is likely Hugh was son of John. Richard may have had other brothers; but Mr. Chester can find no trace or suggestion of them in the wills, very numerous, of Baldwins in Bucks or other parts of England. In the parish register of Aston Clinton appears the marriage of a Hugh Baldwin and Mary King, 24 Jan'y, 156 $\frac{5}{6}$ , and of this Hugh, Mr. Chester finds no further trace.

There were other Baldwins, in Aston Clinton and vicinity, mentioned as "servants" and "laborers," and not related to the Baldwins of Dundridge and of the Hayle; and Mr. Chester thinks the married Hugh was one of these. As neither John the brother, nor any child of his, unless it be Hugh, is a legatee in the will of Richard, it seems to me very probable that if Hugh was any son of John, he was the oldest and died young, and quite as probable that he was son of some other brother of Richard. John himself would not have been named in Richard's will, had he not happened to be selected as "overseer," and Richard may and very likely had other brothers and sisters.

I have left Hugh in place as son of John, but with great doubt whether he belongs there, as, with this expression of my doubt, no one will be misled.

2. GEORGE<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup> evidently in 156 $\frac{5}{8}$  the eldest son, and so called in certain Chancery proceedings in 1590. He was called cousin (i.e. nephew) in 156 $\frac{5}{8}$ , in will of Ellen of Dundridge, and her two daughters were to be guided by him in their marriages. His will, as of the Hayle in Wendover, County Bucks, dated 10 Feb'y, and proved 20 Mch., 157 $\frac{6}{7}$ , by his widow Avelyn, probably a sister of William Aystell, whom he called his brother, and named as overseer with his own brother Sylvester and his son Ralph. He names as his children:

9. Ralph.+
10. James.
11. Edmond.+
12. John.
13. Henry.
14. Michael.

The other children than Ralph were apparently under age, and Mr. Chester does not find what became of the others than Ralph and Edmond.

3. NICHOLAS<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He had by his father's will, dated 156 $\frac{1}{2}$ , lands at Great Missenden and the Lee, a tenement at Wendover, &c. It appears, by Chancery proceedings in 1591, that he married Agnes Fisher, widow of William, and by another suit, that he had by Fisher at least a son Thomas. He lived at Eddlesborough, County Bucks, where he made his will, 2 July, 1577, calling himself a yeoman, and directing to be buried in Eddlesborough churchyard. The original will, proved 24 April, 1581, by his brother Sylvester, is on file in the Archdeaconry Court of Bucks; but that part is torn away in which he enumerated his children, except Triamor and John. His other children are identified in other ways:

- 15. John. +
- 16. Francis +
- 17. Bartholemew. +
- 18. Thomas. +

19. Triamor. In the Chancery proceeding in January, 159<sup>9</sup>/<sub>7</sub>, he is called the youngest son. He was executor of the wills of his brothers Francis and Bartholemew in 1639 and 1655, and then disappears altogether. The will of a Triamor Baldwin, of London, was dated and proved as late as 1729. He could not have been the Triamor above, born before 1581, but, evidently from the peculiar name, some connection. He styles himself "gentleman," and left but one legitimate child, to whom he bequeathed considerable property in London. He provided handsomely for an illegitimate son and daughter, called by his surname. He also left £100 to his brother William Baldwin, then living in or near New York; and £100 each to his nephews Triamor and William, sons of said William, his brother, and placed the nephew Triamor last in the line of remainder to certain property (one-fourth of the old Marshalsea Prison, immortalized by Dickens), which he devised first to his illegitimate son Thomas Baldwin.

Who William, in or near New York, was, I do not know. He could not have been William of Bucks County, Penn., who was from Yorkshire. He may have been William of Stratford, Conn.: m. Ruth Brooks, 1688, but no son Triamor appears; and possibly not William, though a William appeared afterward in Stratford, for whom I do not account otherwise.

20. Winifred, who m. Everard Johnson. Both are named in the will cited, and living 1655, and she in 1661.

4. SYLVESTER<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He* received from his father, by will dated 156<sup>3</sup>/<sub>5</sub>, certain lands in Aston Clinton, called Pleadell's. He was executor of his brother Nicholas in 1581, and is frequently mentioned in the Chancery proceedings referred to. His first wife Agnes, the mother of his children, was buried at Aston Clinton, 31 Dec., 1568. He m. 2d, Agnes Bachelier, widow (probably of Sylvester Bachelier, who was buried there 3 July, 1564). He was buried there himself 3 July, 1592. His will, as of St. Leonard's Parish, Aston Clinton, County Bucks, yeoman, dated 25 June, 1592, was proved 5 Oct., 1592, by his son Thomas, in the Archdeaconry

* He is the Sylvester erroneously said, in my article in the N. E. Hist. Gen'l Register, to be father of Henry of Dundridge, and m. Sarah Gelly. My information, derived from another (not Mr. Chester), as to the supposed conveyance from John to Sylvester, on his marriage with Sarah Gelly, I believe to be a myth; and the payment of taxes in 1579, was not by Sylvester and Henry, but by Richard and Henry.

Court of Bucks. The original is on file, and the following is an abstract:

To the poor of Aston, 15s.; Wendover, 5s.; Cholesbury, 5s. To each grandchild, 6d. To Thomas Gurnye, a lamb. To Alice Bachelor, of London, 10s.; Alice Hayle, a lamb; Henry and Sylvester Harvy, each a bullock. To Agnes, his wife, all his household stuff at his freehold house called Chambers, sundry beasts, corn, etc., all for her life; and at her death, the same to go to the six children of Triamor Harvy, which he had by his first wife. To Thomas Stonell and his mother, each a lamb; all residue to son Thomas, who is his executor. The overseers are Henry and Ralph Baldwin. The will of his widow Agnes, as of St. Leonard's, dated 24 Jan'y, 159 $\frac{3}{4}$ , proved 18 November following in the same Court, by her son William Bachelor, left legacies to her children by her first husband, and names none but her children by her first husband, except her son-in-law Triamor Harvey, who was to dispense her charities to the poor. She directed to be buried at Aston Clinton; but in the register, copied under order of Council made in 1598, there is an entire blank for 1594.

21. John, living at date of his grandfather's will, 156 $\frac{1}{2}$ , but evidently dead at that of his father in 1592.

22. Avelyn, evidently the only daughter, and married Triamor Harvey. +

23. Thomas. +

5. RICHARD<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He is named in the will of his father, 156 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; in that of his brother Thomas, in 1570; then with a son Thomas; but neither have been identified.

24. Thomas.

7. THOMAS<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He did not long survive his father. His will is dated 11 Oct., 1570, and the following is an abstract:

I, Thomas Baldwin, of Pyvers, in the parish of Chesham, County Bucks, husbandman, &c. To Joane, my wife, the use of all my lands in Chesham till John, my son, be 21. To Richard, my son, £20, to be raised out of my woods, to be sold by my brothers Richard Baldwin and John Tyndall. To my two daughters Joane and Amy, each £6. 13s. 4d. To Thomas Baldwin, my brother Richard's son, a lamb. Residue to my wife Joane, and she to be my executrix; overseers, my brother George Baldwin and my cousin Henry Baldwin, of Dundridge. The will was proved in the Archdeaconry Court of Bucks, 16 Dec., 1570, by his widow; but I have no further account of her or the children.

24½. John.

25. Richard.

26. Joane.

27. Amy.

9. RALPH<sup>3</sup> George<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>: 27 Sept., 1611, he proved the nuncupative will of his daughter Rebecca, who died unm. May previous. She was described as of Wendover, and bequeathed to her father £100, he had promised her, which was to be paid to her by her brother Henry Baldwin, and prayed him to be kind to her poor brother (probably another in distress).

28. Henry.

29. Rebecca.

30. ———. The brother in distress.

11. EDMOND<sup>3</sup> George<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He received, under his father's will, in 157½, a tan house in Wendover. He was in the Chancery of 158½, described as of Wendover, tanner. He appeared to have conveyed his property in Wendover, about a year and a half before, and is thought to be the Edmond Baldwin, of Chalfont, St. Peter's, County Bucks (fourteen miles from Wendover village), yeoman, whose will, dated 6 Jan'y, 162½, was proved 2 October, 1621, by his widow Cicely. He named, as living sons, Thomas and Edmund, daughters Elizabeth Hodson and Anne Tibbie, also his son Ralph as dead.

31. Thomas.

32. Edmund

33. Elizabeth, m. Hodson.

34. Anne, m. Tibbie.

35. Ralph, dead before his father.

of Great Missenden, yeoman, his grandfather was seized of land at Field End, in that Parish, and let the same to John Baldwin, of Chilton, at a rent of 26s. 8d; that John, of the Hale, demised the same to his son Nicholas, from whom the same descended to plaintiff as his son and heir: that the title deeds came into possession of Thomas Baldwin, of Field End, and by virtue of the same, Thomas entered into possession. Thomas, in the answer, says John of Chilton was his father, and seized in fee of the property, and borrowed money of John of the Hayle, and conveyed the lands to him for forty years to pay a rent of 26s. 8d; that by mistake, John of the Hale demised the same to John of Chilton, reserving the rent: that John of Chilton by his will made Alice, his wife, his executrix, who granted same to Thomas. Alice died 21 Elizabeth (1579). In 1591, he brought a suit against his stepmother and cousin Ralph, alleging that Nicholas had granted lands in Wendover derived from John of the Hale, for the advancement of his son in marriage with Agnes Fisher, to his elder brother George for term of years. Nicholas dying, his wife Agnes entered into possession, and was expelled by Ralph, claiming by inheritance from George, who had only a term of years; whereupon, Ralph and Agnes conspired to conceal from him the title deeds.

One of the wisest things done by the emigrants to New England, was to institute the system of records for deeds, which saves much litigation and uncertainty in titles, and the universal good judgment they exhibited in that regard is remarkable.

36. Ralph.

37. Elizabeth, m. Beaker.

16. FRANCIS<sup>3</sup> Nicholas<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> He made his will 25 May, 1639, describing himself as of Parish St. Mary le Strand, County Middlesex, "gentleman." From his living in London, and in the particular parish named, it is probable he was connected with one of the law courts or public offices in this vicinity, and therefore described himself as a "gentleman."

He gives £200 each to his son John, "and the child in my wife's womb," when 21; their guardians to be his brothers Bartholomew and Triamor. If both children died before 21, £50 each to god-son Thomas Baldwin, god-daughter Sarah Baldwin, and the other £300 equally among the children of his brothers, Thomas, Bartholomew and Triamor, and sister Winifred Johnson. To the poor of Edlesborough, where he was born, 40s. To his mother-in-law Elizabeth Hills, widow, 40s. To his brother-in-law Thomas Reynolds, 40s. Executors to be wife Elizabeth and brother Triamor. The will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 12 June, 1639. His widow's will, dated 23 Jan'y, 164½, was proved the next 4 July, by her mother Elizabeth Hills. She directed to be buried near her husband, in the Parish Church of St. Mary le Strand, and left her property to her son John and daughter Elizabeth. Mr. Chester can find no further trace of the children.

38. John.

39. Elizabeth, born soon after 23 May, 1639.

17. BARTHOLOMEW<sup>3</sup> Nicholas<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> In his will, dated 10 May, 1655, he called himself of Weston Turville, County Bucks, "gentleman." The following is an abstract of his will:

Whereas, by a former will, I made Robert, my son, full executor, and ordained my lands at Wingfield, in Chalgrave, County Bedford, to be sold to pay debts, and fulfill the engagement for my cousin Elizabeth Baldwin's portion (probably niece Elizabeth last named); but my said son Robert afterwards persuaded me to convey said lands to him for his preferment, &c., I now revoke said will, and appoint as my executors my brother Triamor Baldwin, and my son-in-law Robert Abdy, with power to sell my lands in Edlesborough and Weston Turville, County Bucks, for the payment of my debts and legacies. Of the residue of my estate, I give one-third to John, my son: one-third to my wife Mary for life, with remainder to John and Thomas, my sons, equally; to my son and daughter Abdy, £5: to my sister Johnson, 50 shillings. I will that Bartholomew, my son, enjoy Eastbury House, in Edlesborough. I appoint overseers, my cousin Mr. Aske, and Mr. Holton. Residue of personality to my executors and to my sons Robert, Bartholomew, John and Thomas equally. In a codicil, dated six days later (16 May, 1655,) he gives "to my brother-in-law Everard Johnson, £5: to my sister Hannah Johnson and her son, my cousin (i.e. nephew), Thomas Baldwin, each 40 shillings.

The will was proved 20 July, 1655, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, by his brother Triamor, power being reserved to Robert Abdy, the other executor. His widow Mary, then of Parish of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, made a nuncupative will, 7 Oct., 1666. Her legacies were: To Bartholomew Baldwin, Jr., £10; to Mary Bowles, £10; to my sister Baldwin's children, 50 shillings; to my sister Joanna, 20 shillings; to Elizabeth Bowles, 10 shillings; to Sarah Leavern, 20 shillings; to Bartholomew Baldwin, my son, the remainder of my annuity due me from my daughter-in-law Wells. Her son Bartholomew became administrator 25 April, 1668. Bartholomew Baldwin was, in 1634, Clerk of the Faculties in the Court of Chancery (5 State Paper 388), and 26 July of that year, as of Weston Turville, was summoned to appear at the Office of Arms next term, to make proof of his Arms, and to enter his descent (same Volume, p. 160.) He did not do this, and was omitted in the visitation of 1634.

47. Thomas.

22. AVELYN<sup>3</sup> Sylvester<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> She was evidently the only daughter of Sylvester, and married Triamor Harvey. Their marriage license, issued at the Registry of the Bishop of London, is dated 20 June, 1575. Both are described as of Parish St. Mary at Hill, in London. Whether a runaway match, or he was in business there and she in service, it is impossible to say. At all events, they returned to Aston Clinton, where four of the six children named in her father's will were baptised. She was buried there 23 Jan., 158 $\frac{5}{6}$ , evidently dying shortly after the birth of her sixth child, baptised 6 same month, by her father's name. Her husband m. second time and had other children, and was finally buried there, 15 June, 1621. I have not the names of the first five, but only 53. Sylvester, bapt. 6 Jan'y, 158 $\frac{5}{6}$ .

23. THOMAS<sup>3</sup> Sylvester<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> He was his father's executor in 1592. He m. first Rebecca —, the mother of most of his children, who was buried at Aston Clinton, 15 April, 1590, evidently dying in childbed of her sixth child and fifth son Sylvester. He married second at Aston Clinton, 6 July, 1590, Jane Hayle, less than three months after the death of his first wife. Such hasty second marriages were common enough, and in his case was quite necessary, he being left with six very young children, and no sister or female relative to whom he could turn for assistance. His second wife survived, and appears to have been buried at Aston Clinton, 2 Aug., 1628. He was buried there 9 Jan'y, 16 $\frac{1}{2}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ . His will, as of St. Leonard's, in Aston Clinton, yeoman, was dated 25 Feb'y, 16 $\frac{1}{9}$  $\frac{8}{10}$ . The abstract of his will follows:

To be buried in Aston Clinton churchyard. To the poor there, 10s.; to wife Jane, one-half my messuages, lands and tenements in Aston Clinton and Wendover for her life or widowhood, and one-third my goods and chattels. To my sons George, Richard and John and Sylvester, and my daughter Agnes Bowler, each 10 shillings. To Robert, my son, and Jane, my daughter, each £30, when 21 or married. To Samuel, my son, all my messuages, lands and tenements in Aston Clinton and Wendover, subject to my said wife's interest; also residue of personalty; he to be my executor. Overseers, my friends Robert Hayle and Henry Barnabye. The will was proved by the executor, in the Court of the Archdeaconry of Bucks, 27 Jan'y, 16 $\frac{1}{2}$  $\frac{9}{10}$ .

should reach the age of 21 or marry. His widow proved the will, 25 May, 1658, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury. She remarried Thomas Wells, of Great Gadsden, County Herts (who d. 9 Oct., 1686, and was buried there), and appears to have been dead at the date of the will of her mother-in-law, Mary Baldwin. 7 Oct., 1666.

62. Sarah, only child, d. in 1669, at the age of 15, and was buried in Bovingdon Church, Herts, with a monument still there.

His will, as of Aston Clinton, yeoman, was dated 8 Feb., 16 $\frac{2}{3}$ . He named first one child who was to have £30 when 21 or married. He confirmed to his brother George the lease of the home wherein he dwelt, to run 21 years from the death of his father Thomas. The overseers were Richard Baldwin, of Dundridge, and William Graves. His widow Amy proved the will 22 Nov., 1630.

63. Frances.

57. RICHARD<sup>4</sup> Thomas<sup>3</sup> Sylvester<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> He appears to have lived some time at Agmondesham, where, with his son, he was a brewer; but subsequently at Beaconsfield, whither the son also removed. He died there, and, according to the son's will, was buried in the churchyard. His daughter administered to his estate, in the Court of Bucks, 7 June, 1645. The bond was only £200; but he had perhaps divided his estate before, as his son was evidently wealthy.

72. Elizabeth, m. John Watkins.†

73. Richard. He made his will 5 Aug., 1661, calling himself of Beaconsfield, County Bucks, "gentleman." An abstract follows: To be buried in Beaconsfield churchyard, where my father was buried. To my sister Elizabeth Watkins, an annuity of £10, and my brewhouse in Agmondesham for life, the reversion at her death to her eldest son John Watkins. To John, son of said John Watkins, £300 when 21. To Henry Watkins, my sister's son, £5, and £20 per annum for life. To Anne Merridue, my sister's grandchild, £100 when 21. To Elizabeth Baldwin, my sister's daughter, £5; and to all her children living at her death, or when she shall be forty years of age, £200 among them. To my son-in-law, Edward Baldwin, Esquire, and Elizabeth his wife, each £5. To Thomas, my uncle, Mr. John Baldwin's son, £5. To Richard Baldwin, my uncle's grandchild, £50 when 21. To his daughter Lane, £20; his daughter Clarke, £10; his daughter Mitchell, £20; and to my Aunt Baldwin, £10. To my cousin, Mrs. Isabel Day, £20. To my cousin, Mr. William Fisher's children, £50 equally, when 21. To my cousin, Mrs. Mary Reynolds, £20. To my cousin, Mrs. Rebecca Filpott, £20. To the children of my cousin, Mrs. Anne Roberts, deceased, £20. To my cousin, Mr. John Baldwin, of Harvill, £50. To my aunt, Mrs. Rebecca Appleby, £20. To my son-in-law, Mr. George Turfrey, £200. To my said son-in-law, Mr. Edward Baldwin, and his heirs forever, my capital messuage, &c., called Wilton's, where I now dwell, in Beaconsfield aforesaid (with other lands particularly described); also to him and my wife, the residue of all my personality; and I appoint them joint executors.

The will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 11 Dec., 1661, by said Edward Baldwin, the relict Susanna renouncing the execution thereof. This Richard Baldwin's wife was Susanna, widow of Richard Turfrey, of London. Her daughter, Elizabeth Turfrey, was the wife of Edward Baldwin, Esq., Benchor of the Inner Temple, described in the former part of this narrative as the 7th in the descent of the Dundridge line. The relationship between this Richard and Edward had by this time become very distant; and it is curious how the latter thus became enriched by marrying the daughter of the wife of his childless kinsman.

DUNDRIDGE AND ITS VICINITY.

IN 1870, I visited that portion of Buckinghamshire, England, formerly inhabited by my ancestors. The locality was so interesting to me, that some description of it may prove so to others.

Aston Clinton was a quiet little parish, about four miles from Aylesbury, a county town. St. Leonard's was a small church, or chapel, built in the old English style.

Chapel of St. Leonard's, Buckinghamshire.

Its walls were the same that my ancestors had viewed before they came to New England. The roof had been burned in the revolution of 1640, and was replaced. Inside was a mural monument to Samuel Baldwin, with the arms—three oak leaves slipped, and the inscription: “Within this chapel are deposited the remains “of Mr. Samuel Baldwin, of the Parish of St. Paul, Covent Gar“den, and of this hamlet, who died the 23 of March, 1760, in the “61st year of his age; and of Tryphene, his widow, who died the

“23rd of April, 1780, in the 90th year of her age. They left two children, Joseph and Susanna, by the eldest of whom this is erected to the memory of his parents.”

The chapel farm, formerly in the tenure of Sylvester Baldwin, lay directly across the street—a fine rolling, grass farm. There were no Baldwins in the vicinity, but the Baldwin woods were at the other end of the farm. St. Leonard's is described, in 1842, by Lewis, as “a chapelry of Aston Clinton, one hundred and forty-seven inhabitants; living, a donative, £30. Patrons and impro-prietors. Sir J. D. King, Bart. The Chapel is endowed with lands producing £170 per annum.” Before the dissolution of the Abbeys, it seems to have been supplied by Missenden Abbey, a few miles off. “It is supposed,” says Lipscomb (Hist. Bucks), to have been originally built on the site of an ancient hermitage, or cell, belonging to Missenden Abbey, and founded circa 1278.” The chapel, after the dissolution of the Abbey, was disregarded until Queen Elizabeth granted its site, in 1586, to Edward Wymarke. “It being then in the tenure of Sylvester Baldwin, who also had other lands in the same parish, which the Queen had granted to Sir Edward Stanley, kn't. and his heirs, probably formerly belonging to a Chantry:” but, in 1587, she further granted to Wil. Zipper and Robert Dawe, Esqrs. inter al. “the decayed free chapel of St. Leonard's, a tenement called Chapel Farm, “and all lands thereunto belonging, in Aston Clinton and Wenderover, in the occupation of Sylvester Baldwin, tenendum. as of “the manor East Greenwich, by fealty:” only with the proviso that if, before the 22nd of Nov., 1 Eliz., any of the premises were not unjustly detained, then the grant to be void.

It will have been noticed, that in the will of Richard of Dundridge, 1636, is bequeathed one coffer, containing evidences concerning chapel lands.

Dundridge: Dunriche, Dunrigge, Dunrig, says Lewis, a small hamlet. But more correctly, a single farm in St. Leonard's is a reputed manor, having no copy-hold belonging to it. It was probably separately called a manor, when the sergeantry of Paris was vested in the Montagues, in the reign of Edw. 3, or Richard 2.

The descent of Dundridge is furnished me by that accomplished scholar, Geo. W. Baldwin, whose assistance I have so frequently to acknowledge:

The manor of Dundridge came to the crown on her attainder. In 1544, it was granted by Henry VIII. as the manor of Dunriche, alias During, parcel of the possession of said Margaret, with Stonehill Grove of five acres: Lady Grove, seven acres; Vie Grove, one acre; and woods of coppices, called Braies, fourteen acres; St. Mary coppices, four acres; and other lands belonging to the same manor in Aston Clinton, Chesham and Wendover, to Sir John Baldwin, his heirs and assigns. Several of the lands enumerated above will be recognized as occurring in the wills of the Baldwins of Dundridge. The manor seems to have gone from Sir John to his daughter, Dorothy Pakington. She, as a widow, mortgaged it, in 1574, to Sir John Spencer. First March, 1577-8, John Pakington, son and heir of Dorothy, had license to alienate Dunrich and other lands to Henry and Richard Baldwin, two of the sons of the first Richard; and it remained in the family, as we have seen, until 1748. In 1870, when I visited it, it belonged to Rev. H. A. Jeffries, of Hawkhurst, near Staplehurst, Kent. It is in the parish of Aston Clinton, and almost or quite in sight of the chapel of St. Leonard's.

The dwelling is of brick, large for farm purposes, and bordering a long, narrow common, extending from the highway. Fifty years since, there was an ancient building there, of which I learned only that it was of good size and somewhat Elizabethan in style. Toward the common was a deep ditch freshly kept open, and called the moat. There were traces of its former continuation, extending in front and on the side next the highway. In the rear, the ditch—had there been one—would have been filled by the litter of the barnyard; and on the remaining side, I could detect no trace of it. The view here given of it is taken from the side last mentioned, which is not the best point of view:

DUNDRIDGE lies much nearer Cholesbury than to the church at Aston Clinton, and the Baldwins of Dundridge appear to have been known there. The church at Cholesbury appears old, and the Rev. Mr. Jester there took time from a pressing engagement, to show me close by the church the remains of an old encampment, called I believe by Mr. Jester a Danish, but in Murray's Hand Book a British camp. It is in good preservation, looking much like the best of our ancient works of the kind in America. Lewis calls it one of the finest Danish encampments in this kingdom, one mile in circumference, with ditch in some places thirty feet deep. About four miles from Aylesbury, and three from St. Leonard's, lies Wendover, which recovered two members of Parliament through John Hampden, and was several times represented by him. A little beyond from St. Leonard's lies Great Hampden, the paternal home of Hampden, with its grand old avenue of beeches; so long, that one imagines the four thousand yeomen, who are said to have ridden to London in sympathy for the patriot, congregated about it. Hampden was buried here, in 1643. In his will he remembers John Baldwin.

A John Baldwin, of Wendover, seems to have been a man of some prominence. Lipscomb notices "a view of Franc Pledge, and Court Baron of John Baldwin, Esq., of Wendover, Baronie, there holden 11 May, 1652; Thomas Smith, Steward." In 1660, he represented Wendover in Parliament; and as late as 7 April, 1671, there was another view of Frank Pledge before him.

Lord Nugent, in his Memorials of Hampden, says that Hampden had an intention to emigrate to New England; that "this project of emigration was defeated by an order of the King, in Council, dated 6 April, 1638, by which all masters and owners of ships were restrained from setting forth any vessels with passengers for America, without special license. The immediate effect of this monstrous edict is rendered remarkable by an event which has thrown over the whole an air of strange fatality. Eight ships, with respectable emigrants on board, were at this time lying in the Thames, bound for the new colony. In one of these had actually embarked, for their voyage across the Atlantic, two no less considerable persons than John Hampden and his kinsman, Oliver Cromwell." A special order was therefore issued detaining the vessels by name. Lord Nugent gives several references. His editor affixes a note, that Foster, in his "Statesmen of the Commonwealth," has shown that there is not sufficient authority for the incident; but that Lord Nugent having offered no mark or modification, he allows it to stand. Hume (Vol. 5, p. 85) considers the fact beyond controversy. Southey, in his "Life of Cromwell," makes the emigrants bound for Saybrook, in Connecticut. It seems that, in the spring or early summer of 1638, numbers from the immediate vicinity of Hampden did emigrate, among whom Silvester, in ship Martin, died June 21.

Among those in New Haven, Conn., in 1638, and Milford, in 1639, from the vicinity, were the many Baldwins, the Bryants, Fenns, Stonehill, probably the Fowlers, and we cannot tell how many others. The woods of Hampden end to the north upon the brow of a lofty hill, called Green Holly. In the side of this chalk hill is cut the "White Leaf Cross." It is about one hundred feet long by seventy wide, and made by cutting off the turf, leaving the bare chalk plainly visible for many miles. This monument is of very remote antiquity, supposed by Mr. Wise, in a learned letter to Browne Willis on the subject of Saxon Antiquities, to commemorate a victory of Edward, King of West Saxons over the Danes, early in the tenth century. "It appears, however," says Lord Nugent, "to have been intended as a memorial of the last battle of the Britons with Hengist and Horsa, which was fought over the extensive plains of Risborough and Saunderton. The Saxon princes planted their victorious standards on this height, and on Bedlow Ridge adjoining, to recall their troops from the pursuit.

This memorial probably seemed nearly as old to our ancestors in 1636, as it does to us to-day: and they gazed on it, as did and in all probability some of my ancestors assisted in making time out of mind ago. At Great Missenden, which is near Dridridge, are still the remains of the Abbey, on a rising slope fr

the road. It retains in its cloisters some scanty remains of the walls of a religious house, founded for Black Canons in 1133. I cannot give the date of Missenden Church. The authorities speak of it as very ancient. It is said the tower at the west end was originally early English, and that almost every succeeding style of architecture appears in the building. The oldest brass mentioned in Lipsecomb is dated in 1536.

It will be remembered that to the poor of Great Missenden were gifts made in the Dundridge wills.

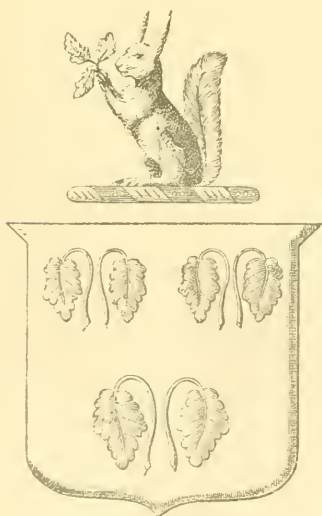

In all these old remains of antiquity, I fancied some memorials of the life of my ancestors. Indeed, in 1639, Alice Baldwin, as the last Abbess of Burnham Abbey, surrendered her house and received a pension of £13, 6s and 8d. My whole visit to Bucks county charmed me. Although no doubt very different from what it was in 1636, it is very different from our own country. The quiet, picturesque places: the green grass everywhere, leaving no bare earth. The "navigable feeder," or canal, was a narrow, deep, clear stream, lined with trees and with grass to the water. The farms and estates were pleasant. These parishes lie upon the edge of Chilton Hills, and, in that, have pleasanter scenery than many. They are fertile, being celebrated long ago as that pleasant vale "of Aylesbury that walloweth in wealth." These lands, however, are not owned by the tenants in small pieces, as they used to be. Dundridge belonged to a non-resident, who had never seen it. Near by was an estate bought for investment by the Mercers Company. I think it was of London. Two of the Rothschilds had large estates near by, one of them owning the whole parish of Halton. The locality was pleasant and healthy. While I was in Aylesbury, the Sabbath school children were out on a picnic. Hearing the noise of a return, I waited to see how the children looked, whom I felt sure must be stout little boys, from the shouting and joyous noises they made. I fancied my ancestors might have been, in childhood, something like these, save Sunday-school picnics. But the return was of the little girls, stout, round and rosy, prospectively stout women, well fitted for severe life in a new land.

I ought perhaps to say a word or two about the Baldwin Arms. It has been seen, by the reader of the English genealogies, that the lines represented in America are not presumed to be entitled to them. Arms are in England hereditary, and as much property as real estate for instance. The general ideas of Americans about Arms are very loose, and lead to such an engraving of seals and other matters as startles a conscientious scholar. The Arms of Sir John Baldwin appear, in Dugdale's "Origines Juridicales," as three oak leaves slipped (in pairs). In Lipscomb, they are given as three oak leaves slipped, acorned proper (natural color). These Arms appear, unacorned in the Middle Temple, as Arms of Richard Baldwin; and upon the tomb of Samuel Baldwin, in St. Leonard's. The Arms granted in 1662, to Edward Baldwin, of Wilton, are described as "argent a chevron ermine, between three oak branches proper." The same Arms are used by the Baldwins of County Cork, Ireland, who emigrated there temp. Elizabeth, and who probably came from County Bucks. It will be noticed, however, that if they emigrated as early as that, they could not have been descendants of Edward; and that, although the Baldwins of America, as far as known, are not entitled to any of these Arms, the ownership of them by other branches of grant, raises no presumption that there was no collateral consanguinity.

The following is a cut of the Arms: three oak leaves slipped, unacorned, which appears in the St. Leonard Chapel. With it is the usual crest of the Baldwins of that vicinity, "a squirrel sejant," or a squirrel sitting, colored in gold. It is generally or always represented as holding a "sprig of hazel," or oak, sometimes acorned or unacorned.

JEDUTHUN BALDWIN.
† LUKE BALDWIN †

There are in some of the Massachusetts lines of Baldwins, old representations of Arms. I present one obtained from Vermont, and having upon it the apparent fac similes of the signatures of Jeduthan and Luke of the Henry of Woburn branch. The crest there is a griffin, for which there seems to be no authority at all.

These Arms may have been furnished by some irresponsible vender of arms in Boston, shortly after the Revolution, or obtained from books of heraldry. I have a drawing of the last Arms from George Baldwin, Esq., son of Loammi (Woburn branch), with a squirrel as the crest, holding an acorned oak branch. He is able to tell whence it came. His father obtained it in New York during the Revolution, and intended to have it engraved, but was driven from New York too soon.

The Baldwins of Herts and Bucks, who were granted Arms in early times, had them quite similar to those of Sir John; and I confess I believe they had probably this reason for it, that they were collaterally related to him.

RICHARD BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONN.

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. RICHARD BALDWIN, of Milford, was son of Baldwin (who died 21 June, 1638, on the passage over from on ship Martin); and his wife, Sarah (Bryan) Baldwin. An He was baptised in the Parish Aston Clinton, Buckingham England, 25 August, 1622, and probably born not long before. He perhaps came with his father, or possibly earlier. He could not have been Richard, of Braintree, Mass., in 1637, as supplied by Savage: as Richard, of Braintree, must have been much older. (See Henry, of Woburn.) He evidently had a good education at the times. His handwriting was as fine as I have seen in any early record.

Richard Baldwin Secretary

He frequently appeared as attorney before the General Court at New Haven; and his arguments are so redolent of the shrewd, technical manner of the time, that it would seem as if he must have had some schooling in that manner. I think it not unlikely he was in some attorney's office, perhaps in London—a position the Baldwins of Bucks and Herts inclined to; influenced thereto perhaps by the eminent success of their probable kinsman, Sir John Baldwin, Chief Justice. He was probably in the office of his uncle Henry, a lawyer. This name appears upon the first page of Milford Records, 20 Nov., 1639, among "those persons whose names are hereunder written are allowed to be Free Planters, having for the present liberty to act in the choyce of public officers for the carrying on of public affayres in this plantation." He was then in church fellowship, according to Lambert, yet he joined the church, 9 May, 1641. Among the names of the planters at New Haven, in 1643 (N. H. Col. Rec., 91,) appears Wid. Baldwin, five in family, estate 800, &c. But at least ten other names appear in the two lists, and in the New Haven list near together. Among them were four of the five judges first chosen in Milford. "The power was settled in the church to choose persons out of themselves to divide the lands into lots as they shall have light from the word of God, and to take order for the timber." He m., after "5 Feb'y, 164 $\frac{2}{3}$ , Elizabeth Alsop, sister of Joseph," of New Haven, as at that date she joined the church in Milford in her maiden name.

The location of his homestead appears in 1646, he being No. 2, three acres on the west side of the Wepawaug river, just north of the present residence of Selah Strong, Esq. On one side (No. 1, extreme north, on the west side of the river,) was his step-father, Capt. John Astwood: and on the other, Benjamin Fenn, also an eminent citizen, and who m. his sister. The same year, 31 Dec., young as he was, he was first of a committee of five appointed to equalize the lots then divided, "in the Oyster meadow, the Round meadow, the Calf-Pen meadow, the two Fresh meadows, Dreadful Swamp meadow, the Beaver Pond meadow, and other parcels not yet disposed of." At the close of the next month (28 Jan'y), it was ordered, "that the town do grant half of Beaver Pond meadow, which is unprised, unto Richard Baldwin and Thomas Tibbals, provided they drain it within six months next coming:" 20 May, 1647, he was granted his quarter division, "in the place where he desireth:" 22 June, 1648, "his other quarter division," next to his former: 8 Jan'y, 1648, Baldwin and Tibbals had drained the swamp, and wanted the land (Beaver Pond), they held with the town, divided: the town gave them the upper end. In 1662, he had, with four others, grant of a marsh. His name frequently appears in many ways, and he was evidently an active, energetic, intelligent man of business. He was quite prominent in the settlement of Paugusset (Derby, Conn.) At Milford meeting, June 10, 1655, as Sarj't Baldwin, he was chosen, with Mr. Fenn, Ensign Bryan and Sarj't East, to "treat and agree with the Indians, being the true proprietors for all or any part of the land purchased betwixt Pagasich & us that falls within our line; and what agreement they make, the town is to stand to it, according to the promises expressed." This was perhaps in response to an application, of which the Governor of New Haven Colony informed the General Court, 30 May, 1655, who said that Richard Baldwin, if not some others of Milford, had bine wth him, and desired liberty from y<sup>e</sup> court to buy some land of y<sup>e</sup> Indians about Paugusset; but the magistrate & deputies for Milford desired they might not have leave till they may more fully understand the minds of their tounne, to whom they think it will be offensive if granted." The next October, Richard made a report to the court (1 New Haven Col. Rec., 156), to which the court made answer, "receiving the place under the jurisdiction granting leave to be a small village," without being under New Haven or Milford. The court also "condescended" that the petitioners might buy land of the Indians. 3. They are willing that one among themselves, such as the court shall approve of, shall be intrusted with power and authoritie to call meetings, execute warrants, moderate in causes of difference, and take y<sup>e</sup> best course "he can to carry on things in an orderly and peaceable way." 4. Paugasset was to be free from rate for three years. "Richard Baldwin was now appointed to be y<sup>e</sup> man to carry on y<sup>e</sup> trust before mentioned: hee also now declared that they did intend to purchase large tracts of land of the Indians." &c. 28 May, 1656, the Paugasset business "was now againe in question," the magistrates and deputies for Milford objecting to it; and after many debates, it was suggested that the owners resign their claims to Milford, on being paid for the same. Richard Baldwin, for himself and the rest, wanted more accommodation at Milford, "so that they may subsist in a comfortable way to maintain stockes suitable to their families, and Milferd to pay what they had laid out. Milferd men replied they had not where with all to doe it, &c. "In the time, the court advised both p<sup>t</sup>ies to peace," and Paugasset to cease until to see if the matter could be arranged. 27th, 3d month, 1657, the business was "againe revived," Richard Baldwin giving conditions in writing which the court thought reasonable, and "desire Milferd and they may joyne in a loveing way; but if Milferd refuse, it is like Newhaven will accept them. 1st, They had liberty to buy Indians' land over Naugatuck River, and above them northward up into the cuntrye;" 2nd, were to bear their proportion of public service; 3rd, to be free from rates particularly concerning Milford paying "jurisdiction rates;" and to the ministrie at Milferd, so long as they enjoye the same," and "there share towards the killing of woulves and foxes." In 1659, the court seem to have been quite uncertain as to the prospect of Paugasset, providing that if it "became not a village to the purposes formerly exprest by y<sup>e</sup> court, betwixt this and y<sup>e</sup> general court in May next, that the place shall be deserted in reference to settled habitation." 30 May, 1660: "Sarjeant Baldwin informed that an Indian, called —, the proprietor of the meadow called hogg's meadow, had bestowed the said meadow upon him; and the said Richard Baldwin desired that it might be an appendix to Paugasset, where some further preparations had been made this winter, by fencing, for the carrying it o to a village." Milford objected it would straiten them, "to w<sup>ch</sup> Sarjeant Baldwin answered, that he conceived it must fall one of these three ways, the meadow being his: 1, that either it be an appendix to Paugasset; or 2nd. he being a planter at Milferd, he may enjoy it; or thirdly, if Milferd have it, he may have a valuable consideration for it." The court expressed dissatisfaction that Paugasset was not in a "settled way." "Sarjeant Baldwin pleaded that he was hindered by obstruction he had met with by y<sup>e</sup> ordinary at Milferd, and by sicknesse the last summer."

This deed is recorded (Col. Record of Lands, Vol. 1, p. 292), as follows: "At a meeting with Tawtanimoe, Sagamore of Pawgusset, together with some other Pagnusset Indians, his subjects, at the house of Richard Baldwin, at Milford, March 2d. 1659-'60, the sayd Sagamore did grant the meadow, known and denominated by the name of Hogg Meadow * * unto Richard Baldwin, * * and doth farther promise and engage, that when the proprietors of Pawgussett shall there come to possesse and improve these property there, he will then sell and make over to them what other upland or meadow shall be for their convenience; and likewise doth ingage, in the meantime, not to make over, sell or dispose of any land * * between the west branch of the Miiferd Mill River and Patatuch River, east & west; and from the little river on the north side of Grassy Hill, and so northward unto the hither end of the place commonly called deare's delight, unto any other * * persons whatever," &c. Signed by Tawtanimoe, James, Chub, Succuseoge, Secochduneege, Sassanghsough and Wanwumpecun Indians then present.

By a deed dated 6 Sep., 1661, Tawtanimoe gave to Richard Baldwin "all the upland adjacent to Hogg's Meadow," "to begin at Milferd line on the south side: and the north side goeth up to the path which goeth from Pagassett to New Haven: and the west side from Milferd line where the cartway now is that goeth over the Brooke which is on the north side of Grassy Hill; and so broad as it is there to Milford Mill River, the same bredth it is to runn from the sayd Mill River at Pagassett path on the north side towards Pagassett: also all the great swamps that lyeth on the east side of the said Mill River, from Milford lyne northward and eastward unto the uttermost bounds of it." This is signed by the marks of Towntanimoe, Younkitihue and Towhege, Indians present at the giving of the land.

15 Sep., 1665, Ockenung, the sole and onely Sagamore of Pagassett, with the assent of his subjects and his fellow proprietors, confirmed the grants formerly made, and granted them a new deed (Col. Rec. of Lands 1, 388: see Conn. Col. Rec., 1665-1677, p. 513). Richard was then dead; and we shall see, under his son Barnabas, what a curious history Hogg Meadow had. At the Court of Electors, held at Hartford, May 10, 1666, a committee was appointed to view these lands, and see what they were and whether fit for a township. The settlement went on, and in 1675 was named Derby. I do not believe Richard ever lived there. The first book of Derby is a small, meagre one. It shows: "Item: Mr. Goodyear, Mr. Wakeman, Mr. Gilbird, of New Haven, hath bargained and sold to Richard Baldwin and several others, of Milferd, a tract of land at a place called Pagasuck, and by their men, above named, put under New Haven jurisdiction in the year 1655. The house lots are then drawn. Richard has one-half more than the others. He bought out Isaac Platt, exchanged with Ebenezer Riggs, and at his death had  $4\frac{1}{2}$  acres, instead of 2, which "all her living at Pagasuck" his widow sold to Mr. Alexander Bryan.\*

* Savage suggests that Richard Baldwin may have settled at Derby, but I do not think so. He was sick in Milford, 1659-60; member for Milford 1662 to his death. His estate, as of Milford, was settled at Hartford. He was mentioned very frequently, and as of Milford. Pagassett was likely a trading post. The first mention I find of it is in New Haven Col. Rec., 1642, where two men were watching at Pawgussett. In 1646, a protest was received from the Dutch to "thee, Theopheles Eaton, Governor of the place called the Red Hills, in New Netherland (but by the English called New Haven), against an establishment to draw and destroy trade near the Mauritius (Hudson) river." Answer was returned, that they had lately built a small house upon the Pawgussett river, which they claimed to be within their own limits. Derby, at the confluence of the Naugatuck and the Housatonic, was a good place to draw trade, and likely by the river last named drew from the Hudson. Dr. O'Calaghan (N. Y. Col. Doc., Vol. 1, page 284.) says the post complained of was Springfield, Mass. I think this could not be. It was spoken of immediately after "Stamfort," and it was said the English of New Haven established the place.

Richard Baldwin, in 1657, "propounded that he might hire of the jurisdiction the customs and excise of such wine and strong liquors as he should draw and sell by retayle," for which he gave ten pounds a year. It seems that Ensign Bryan had kept the ordinary, but growing tired of it, the town pitched upon another to succeed him; and, in 1656, the town had complained of him for breaking the court order in "selling strong water" at a higher price than there allowed. Richard no doubt was a prudent, able man, and intended to sell strong water in a manner becoming a Puritan, and possibly not higher than the court allowed.

It happened, however, in May, 1659, that John Heardman was complained of for being drunk and disorderly: and the marshall undertaking to arrest him, he "hitt his hatt o' the ground, and bid the marshal touch him if he durst (Col. Rec., p. 271). Heardman thought they only had "3 or 4 quarts" for four persons. "w<sup>ch</sup> y<sup>e</sup> court witnessed against as an excessive quantity for so small a company, w<sup>ch</sup> y<sup>e</sup> court will consider of." Mr. Fenn said Mr. Heardman had friends who would speak for him. Being asked who, he named Sargent Baldwin; but he now said y<sup>t</sup> sargent Baldwin had alwayes given him good counsell: to w<sup>ch</sup> it was said, had he given him more good counsell, and less liquors, it had been well. It afterward appeared that eleven men drank five pints, and "Baldwin desired that God would help him, while hee continues in that employment, to be more watchful," and that it happened while Richard was sick—the same sickness no doubt alluded to before. It appears that he was then keeping the ordinary: although it would seem now as if it was somewhat out of the centre of the town, unless he had changed location. Richard often appeared as attorney before the General Court of New Haven, arguing in the manner of the day, rather technical for ours, but confining himself more to the case in hand, and with much less respect to hearsay evidence than was common in that day. At the General Court in June, 1654, it looked as if the designe against y<sup>e</sup> Duch is like to goe on, and men were agreed on, of which Milford was to furnish twenty-one. Richard was the one Ensign chosen for the colony. He was a member of the General Court for Milford, from May, 1662, to May, 1664, inclusive. In December, 1664, Milford had broken "off from y<sup>e</sup> colony, so y<sup>t</sup> neither magistrate or deputie attend the general meeting."

The fact is, that by vote of the town, they had submitted themselves to Connecticut, 17 Nov., 1664. At this meeting of the General Court, a committee, of whom Richard Baldwin was one, was appointed "for y<sup>e</sup> consummating of matters betwixt Conecticut and us." They "were empowered and intrusted with the whole affayre" in p<sup>r</sup>paratory way, communicating to y<sup>e</sup> severall townes what they agree upon for their concurrence and confirmation. Richard Baldwin had been unusually active and prominent for his age up to the union, which he favored in Milford. He died, however, 23d July, 1665, and his estate was presented at Hartford 23 Sept., 1665. His eldest son received, as usual, a double portion. His youngest child, born after his death, was omitted altogether. His widow m. 2nd in 1670, as his 2nd wife, William Fowler,<sup>2</sup> William.<sup>1. *</sup>

Her second husband was b. in England; m., as early as 1645, Mary Tapp. He had, all by first wife, sons John, Jonathon, Mark, William; and daus. Sarah: Hannah, m. Daniel Buckingham: Sarah m. John Smith: Mary: Deborah, m. Jere Lambert: Mercy, m. John Bills, of Lebanon, it is said. William Fowler was a leading, wealthy citizen in 1666; made lieutenant to "y<sup>e</sup> train Band at Milferd," Deputy 1673, and same year one of the standing council of war in the colony against the Dutch. In 1676, he was made captain. His will, dated Oct., 1682, proved 15 June, 1683, pays a handsome tribute to his wife. He says: "In primis, concerning my dear and loving wife, Elizabeth Fowler, my will concerning her, and as a token of my tender affection to her (y<sup>t</sup> hath been a tender, dutiful and loving wife to me). I say that my will is (if it should please her to live with my children, to be a guide and help to them as a mother and head of a family, I doe much desire it may be so), that she shall have the east end of my dwelling house." &c. It appears, by New Haven Record, that she died July, 1688.

After the death of Richard, his mother made the deed, a copy of which follows. It is found in the Records of the County <sup>1</sup> It is not known whence the Fowlers came. When in Bucks, England, in 1870, I found the name still in Aylesbury, and that the family was in the vicinity before the emigration, with the given names common to the family here. I therefore thought it probable that the Fowlers were from that vicinity—a view adopted by that high authority, Prof. William C. Fowler, of Durham, Conn. A search might make the connection. It is curious to note how far the intimacies and marriages of the Baldwins of this branch were with families from Bucks.

Court of New Haven, Vol. 1, page 3, and gave the first clue to the English connection :

Zachariah owned the place on Broad street, afterward owned by that zealous antiquarian, to whom every New Jersey genealogist owes so much, S. H. Congar. Not many years ago was found there, in the building, a stone with his initials, Z. B.; and Mr. Congar (lately deceased) supposed the rear of his home (the oldest building in Newark) to be part of Mr. Burwell's house. Zachariah Burwell was s. John Burwell, the first of Milford who, with his wife Alice, emigrated from Hemel Hempstead, Hertfordshire, in the locality of the Baldwins, and in the parish where some of them had held lands and resided.

* Rev. Peter Prudden was the first pastor of Milford, until 1643—an independent colony, by the way. Cotton Mather's sketch of him is interesting (Prudentius: the Life of Mr. Peter Prudden): "I am sure, then, 'tis a blessed child of God whose name is now before us (Prudden shall we call him, or Prudent?), who besides his other excellent qualities, was noted for a singular faculty to sweeten, compose and qualify exasperated spirits, and stop or heal all contentions; whence it was that his town of Milford enjoyed peace with truth all his days withstanding some disposition to variance which afterward broke forth among them." There were then two famous churches gathered in two days, one following upon the other—Mr. Davenport's and Mr. Pruden's—and this with one singular circumstance, that a mighty barn was the place wherein the duties of that solemnity were attended. The next year, Mr. Prudden, with his church, removed into Milford, where he lived many years, an example of piety, gravity and boiling zeal against the growing evils of the times. Mather compliments his discretion; says he provided comfortably for his family, and "lived to be about 56 year of his age, and 'the 56 year of the present age,' when his death was felt by the colony as the fall of a pillar which made the whole fabric to shake." Like that of Piccart, now let Prudden be under this

She d. Jan'y, 171 $\frac{1}{2}$ . He d. "the beginning of June, 1727." His will is recorded in New Haven. His name is his grandfather's, with a Latin termination, as became the fashion of the day, and likely his father's London schooling. He is always called in the records, Lieut. Sylvanus, and his name occurs in the town records as often in places of trust or responsibility as any of the town. He was a very leading man. He was generally the "surveyor" in laying out town lands; 1674, he was on committee to determine bounds between Milford and New Haven; 1690, Lieut. for Dragoons for New Haven County. This was "for the framing and carrying on a war against our French and Indian enemies at Canada." From May, 1695, to Oct., 1699, he was generally Deputy for Milford. In 1685, he was an agent for Milford to buy a tract of land for the town of Milford from Conquepotana and Ahuntaway.

29 Feb'y, 1700, he was one of the agents to buy for the town a second tract from these and other Indians. The consideration was £15 in pay, and 15s. in silver. This land was the northwest part of Woodbridge, called, when laid out in 1759, the Two Bit purchase, and described as being in Milford, north of Bladen's Brook, unto a brook called Lebanon Brook, one mile sixty rods east and west. It was held in trust for inhabitants of Milford, or those paying, by Robert Treat, Esq., Mr. Thomas Clark, Mr. Samuel Buckingham, Sen., Lieut. Sylvanus Baldwin and Esq. George Clark. This deed was from Comikapay, Nauhautaway, Suckatash, Durkin, Wonenutacum, Pequit, Waranuntou, Winahan and Waurasconut, signing by odd-looking marks. The next deed on Milford records is also from Indians, partly the same, dated 23 Feb'y, 1702, and there is added: "This may certify whom it may concern, that I, Sylvanus Baldwin, as an Interpreter, am fully satisfied that the Indians have sold the aforesaid lands, and signed this instrument with right understanding, as witness my hand." That he had skill in the Indian language, appears also in other instances. He is called in the church record, in 1686, Brother Sarjeant; but after that, Lieutenant. He was, in 1720, one of the patentee proprietors of Waterbury, but continued to reside and died in Milford. He was a man of large wealth. Only two of his children survived him, and the most prominent of the children of Richard has no descendants of his name.

At his death, John was a bachelor; and Elizabeth, I doubt not, was living not very far from Waterbury. He remembers in his will liberally Mary, w. of Daniel Munn, and I am inclined to think that they kept house for him. See further John.

† Sarah, dau. John Riggs; m. 1st, Nov. 22, 1732, John Bower, and had at least a dau. Sarah, b. Aug. 18, 1736. Mr. Bower died 26 Jan'y, 1734, and his widow m., April 18, 1739, Rev. Daniel Humphreys, the clergyman at Derby. The following epitaph may be of interest:

"The Rev. Daniel Humphreys died Sept. 2nd, 1787, in the 81st year of his age. For more than half a century he was the established minister of the first Society in this town. Mrs. Sarah Humphreys, the affectionate wife of his youth, and the tender companion of his advanced age, died July 29, 1787, just five weeks before him.

"The seasons thus,
As ceaseless round a jarring world they roll,
Still find them happy, and consenting spring
Sheds her own rosy garlands on their heads,
Till evening comes at last, serene and mild,
When, after the long vernal day of life,
Enamored more as more remembrance swells
With many a proof recollected love,
Together down they sink in social sleep;
Together freed, their gentle spirits fly
To scenes where love and bliss immortal reign."

What children she had by Rev. Mr. Humphreys I do not know, save General David, born in Derby, 1752. General David Humphreys graduated at Yale, 1767, known as the "young bard of Yale." He entered the army in 1778 as captain. He was quickly made aid to General Patterson, and two years later, aid to General Washington, a position he held during the war. At Yorktown he received the English colors, and bore the despatches and colors to Congress. He was voted a sword, and Congress made him Lieutenant Colonel, dating back his commission. In 1784, he went to Europe with Kosciuszko. In 1786, he returned, and was representative for Derby until appointed Colonel in the western service. He afterward lived with Washington, until 1790, when he was appointed Minister to Portugal, which post he held seven years. He was then, until 1802, Minister to Spain. He married, 1797, a daughter of John Bulkly, an English merchant at Lisbon, of great wealth. He introduced merino sheep into the United States; and in 1806, erected the first woollen mill in the United States, in that part of Derby named from him Humphreysville. He was celebrated as a poet, and wrote also a Life of General Putnam and several political pieces. Duychinek's Cyclopaedia has an account of his writings, as well as an autograph, and a poor portrait, and a better engraving of Humphreysville. See also Barber's Historical Collection of Connecticut. He was General of the Connecticut Militia in 1812, and L. L. D. (Brown, 1802.)

I learn no more, having engaged a search by the town clerk. He states that John Comstock had children born there, 1662 to 1678. The name continues in North Lyme. Mr. Savage does not

7. THEOPHILUS<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, 26 Ap'l, 1659, as appears by its records, but said, in New Haven church records, to have been baptized Sept., 1658. It is supposed the last record is the one in error. He lived in Milford; m., 8 Feb'y, 168 $\frac{2}{3}$ , Elizabeth Campfield; perhaps dau. of Thomas. He died before 22 June, 1698, his estate being then appraised. His widow m., 6 Jan'y, 170 $\frac{1}{5}$ , John Merwin.

The youngest child (Hezekiah) was a weaver. He died unmarried, his will being dated 15 April, 1728; and he remembers his mother, Elizabeth Merwin: eldest sister, Abigail Peck: sister, Martha Camp; Joseph Peck, eldest son of Abigail: Enos, eldest son of Martha; and brother, Theophilus. In 1699, the widow had leave from the Assembly to convey land, contracted by her husband to John Newton, and for the most part paid for to her husband, to John Newton, the son: she having, under a previous act, conveyed it to the widow of Newton, and it having been set to the son.

8. ZACHARIAH<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> b. 22 Sept., 1660, in Milford, and remained there. He was generally called, in the record, Sergeant; but in the entry of his death (Ch. He made several conveyances to his children in his lifetime. His wife survived. By his will, among other devises, he gave his interest in Hogg meadow purchase to Zachariah; to his sons, Stephen and Richard, his home lot (now Milford), and three-fourths of his interest there—a distribution not lived to, as Zachariah left Hogg meadow and lived in Stratford; Stephen and Richard lived on, or near it, and Ebenezer went to New Milford.

10. BARNABAS<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> b. 1665, after 23 July, in Milford. His misfortunes commenced before his birth. He was a posthumous child, and as the law then stood in Connecticut, was not entitled to, nor did he receive, in distribution, any share of the large estate of his father. He m. 1st, Sarah, eldest dau. of Samuel Buckingham, of Milford, s. of Thomas, one of the first settlers. She was b. 8 Jan'y, 166 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and her mother was Sarah Baldwin, dau. Timothy, first settler at Milford, and m. 14 Dec., 1663. She died before 3 Dec., 1692, as appears from the will of her father of that date, wherein he remembers the husband, and oldest and youngest children (Thomas and Barnabas) of his deceased daughter. Barnabus soon m. again, for 1 Jan'y, 169 $\frac{8}{9}$ , he and Mary his wife are received to full communion in Milford ch., and his first four children named below are baptized.

His will, dated 5 May, 1740, and proved 19 Oct., 1741, gives his wife Abigail "twenty shillings, besides what is in her joynture." It has been singularly difficult to get definite knowledge of the history of Barnabas. I have failed to find any record of his birth, any marriage or death; and I have also looked in vain for any record of the jointure in the records of Milford, New Haven and Derby. There were until 1850, on the farm occupied by him, many papers which were of much interest, and which would have probably told fully the story of his life. About that time, they were made into a bonfire in house-cleaning. In the absence of records, I sought his grave, which I found after some time in the cemetery in the west part of Woodbridge, near Derby line. It is a slab, inscribed: "Here lyes the body of Mr. Barnabas Baldwin, aged 76 years: departed this life August ye 22nd. 1741." Born of a rich father, legitimate but no heir, I know not what life he led until 1711 or '12, when his brothers and sisters, by several conveyances appearing on Milford records, conveyed to him "Hogg Meadow," reciting that this was done because he was not included in the distribution of Richard's estate, in 1665. He was then forty-five or forty-six years of age. They only had half left to convey, for 23 May, 1720, Barnabas makes an agreement (6 Milf. Rec., 292), reciting, that whereas his father Richard, once of Milford, did receive of Tantannomy, an Indian, a gift of that tract of land commonly known by the name of Hogg meadow purchase, partly in Milford and partly in Derby; and whereas my honored mother and eldest brother Sylvanus Baldwin sold half to Henry Allen, and my mother and Allen agreed to make partition, and Allen sold to Roger Newton and John Hine, and Roger Newton's claim came to Fletcher Newton—then follows an agreement for partition, deed, &c. The partition was carried out, 1727, by sons of Barnabas, to whom their father had conveyed liberally of his property—one can but think—not wishing them to have the uncertain struggle his life must have been.

This history has come down in tradition in Woodbridge. Dr. Goodsell, an aged and intelligent physician there twenty years ago, told me that Sylvanus (son of Barnabas) was born after his father's death, and left out of the inheritance—that his brothers and sisters, ashamed to leave him nothing, conveyed to him Hogg Meadow, then a swamp; but as the country was cleared up, Sylvanus was richest of all. I soon found that it could not be true of Sylvanus, but long after, by Milford records, that it was substantially true of his father. Hogg Meadow, originally a swamp in the southwest part of Woodbridge, is by far the best part of the township.

The will of Barnabas does not mention Mary or Henry, but does mention the rest as "all my children." He leaves "to y<sup>e</sup> College at New Haven, fourty shillings." He was one of the grantees of the charter of Derby, and in 1738, one of the fifteen inhabitants of Milford incorporated, with others of New Haven, to make the parish of Amity. He was a Selectman of Milford, a collector of Rev. Samuel Andrews' rates, and, with Samuel Clark, Senior, an appraiser of Gov. Treat's estate, in 1710. In 2 Sept., 1688, he was, with his brother Theophilus, witness in Milford to a deed from Sylvanus to Zachariah. About 1692, he had from Milford, on distribution, the 90th lot, nine acres (M. Rec. 2, p. 72, and p. 126.) 1 March, 169 $\frac{3}{4}$ , he conveys land to Joseph Peck, Jun'r, and William Fowler. He had children:

58. Thomas, bapt. 1 Jan'y, 169 $\frac{8}{9}$ . +

59. Barnabas, bapt. 1 Jan'y, 169 $\frac{8}{9}$ . +

60. Timothy, 1695; bapt. 1 Jan'y, 169 $\frac{8}{9}$ . +

62. Theophilus, bapt. 22 Oct., 1699. +

63. Henry, bapt. 14 June, 1702; died before May, 1740, leaving no issue. I have no doubt he was the one who graduated at Yale College, 1726, and is supposed, in the account kept there of the alumni, to have died next year. He appears as deceased in the Yale catalogue of 1733.

JOHN<sup>3</sup> Sylvanus<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> b. 26 M'ch, 1693, in Milford; was unm. as late as 8 Sept., 1730, when as John, Senior, of Milford, he conveyed land (half an acre) in Milford to Daniel Munn (see Sylvanus), in consideration of Munn having disbursed half the charge of building a dwelling on the land, "defeasible only upon condition that I, John Baldwin, do hereafter marry a wife," and "in 12 months after effectually convey to Daniel Munn  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre of my hamlet." He married Sarah, dau. Daniel Stephens, of New Haven; and 9 May, 1734, Munn quit-claimed the homestead to John. He joined the church 3 Sept., 1735. He left no children; and his will, dated June, 1757, proved July, 1758, gave his property to his wife Sarah, save what he gave to David Heekok. 26 Nov., 1731, he conveyed to "Left. Geo. Clark, lands in the Two Bitt Purchase (N. W. Woodbridge), the allotment of his brother Richard, deceased."

91. ZACHARIAH <sup>4</sup> Zachariah <sup>3</sup> Zachariah <sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> b. in New Milford, 6 Sept., 1709; bapt. 12 Aug., 1722, in Episcopal Church in Stratford. The late S. H. Congar, Esq., of Newark, N. J., supposed this to be the Zachariah who was of Parsippany (Hanover), New Jersey. That one is said to have died 17 Nov., 1755, aged 52; and Mr. Congar presumed some of the dates to be incorrect. This did not, in the outset, look probable to me; but I am now inclined to think him the same—after a very thorough search. I can find no other Zachariah of any branch to match either. John Ogden, Esq., of Parsippany, writes me, in 1874, that one of the descendants of that branch, now deceased, told him “the original ones were Zachariah and Abraham, who came to this region to preach the Gospel to the Indians, and did so with great success.” At that time, it was not known that the Zachariah I am now placing had a brother Abraham; but a visit to Stratford and Huntington disclosed that fact, that descendants of this branch, now in Huntington (two quite old ladies), had never heard of Zachariah and Abraham, showing that they must either have died young or settled at quite a distance. While they were young men, and members of the church, the Rev. David Brainard, the zealous apostle to the Indians came to Huntington and studied theology with Rev. Jedediah Mills, of that church, and afterward preached to the Indians in New Jersey. James H. Woodruff, Esq., of Hanover, writes me that in the expense-book of the Rev. Jacob Green, first pastor at Hanover and Parsippany, appears twice the name of Zachariah as furnishing board. The problem is one that has interested me much, but I have been disappointed in the paucity of information about the missionary efforts in New Jersey. Mr. Congar gives to Zachariah the following children, very likely not the only ones:

214. Jacob, b. about 1733. +

215. Jo<sup>b</sup>, b. about 1738. +

216. Silas, b. about 1749. +

Azariah Crane, Jr., in 1733, grants three acres at the “Mountain Plantation,” to his “well-beloved s. in l. Zachariah Baldwin.” The wife of Crane was Rebecca; and Rebecca, the wife of Zachariah Baldwin, was buried at Parsippany, 15 June, 1791, aged 84.

94. JACOB<sup>4</sup> Zachariah<sup>3</sup> Zachariah,<sup>2</sup> bapt. in Stratford, Conn., 12 Aug., 1722, but b. probably several years before. He lived in Stratford, on Walnut Tree Hill, in that part of the town now Huntington; m., March, 1738, Sarah Merchant, widow of John. His ch. were bapt. in Episcopal Church.

217. Elias, Feb'y, 1739.+

218. Hannah, Nov., 1742; thought to have d. y.

219. Sarah, May, 1744; d. unm.

220. Huldah, Sept., 1747; thought to have d. y.

221. Jacob, June, 1750; said to have d. y.

96. ISRAEL<sup>4</sup> Zachariah<sup>3</sup> Zachariah,<sup>2</sup> bapt. in Stratford, Conn., 12 Aug., 1722. The last named of children born, says his son David, in 1721. I am satisfied from several independent evidences, that he was the Israel who settled in Wolcott, Conn. By tradition in Huntington, he settled in that direction; the age corresponds; and by tradition in Wolcott, he came from the direction of Stratford, i.e. Milford, joining Stratford, his father being the ferryman between the two places. Lastly, I find no other Israel for this place, or other place for this Israel. He was not unlikely in New Haven for a while—is said to have m. 2nd, widow Chatterton, of New Haven, whose first husband was a ship carpenter, and worth considerable property. By his second w. he had a dau.

222. Hannah, m. 12 Aug., 1779, Judah Frisbee, who left a family which has the tradition as to whence came Israel. Frisbie was b. 1744, and a leading man in Wolcott, leaving descendants. He was a soldier in the Revolution.

Israel, m. 3rd, in Wolcott, and had by his third marriage.

223. David, b. 27 May, 1787, in Wolcott.+

Israel d. 13 Nov., 1805. Frisbie kept a journal, but the information of the family is confused. He says, under date of April, 1786, Mary Chatterton came to live with them. She d. 17 Oct., 1825, aged 95. She is supposed to be sister of Israel's wife Hannah, who was then not likely widow Chatterton. Under date of 1783, he records the death of mother Baldwin, aged 80, more likely Israel's step-mother than his wife. He would hardly have m. after the death of a wife at 80, and had children.

98. ANNA<sup>4</sup> Solomon<sup>3</sup> Zachariah,<sup>2</sup> b. in Milford, Conn.: m.. 16 Dec., 1741, Amos Northrup, of New Milford, Conn.

224. Solomon, 29 Dec., 1744.

225. David, 27 Jan'y, 1746; living 1797.

227. Ann, 3 Ap'l, 1751; m. Nathaniel Taylor.

228. Joel, 27 Jan'y, 1753.

229. Amos.

She was admitted to N. Milford Church, by letter from Amity, 25 Aug., 1748. He joined church 19 Jan'y, 1757. His will is dated 1 Oct., 1788; proved 2 July, 1790. His wife had the furniture of every kind and "my negro man Hary." He remembers his gr. ch. Thomas Groat, Amos and Sally, who were children of Amos, Jun'r. His dau. Anna got his "negro wench, named Hagar."

101. MARY<sup>4</sup> Ebenezer<sup>3</sup> Zachariah,<sup>2</sup> b. 11 Feb'y, 171 $\frac{1}{2}$ , in New Milford; m., 20 January, 173 $\frac{5}{6}$ , David Comstock, of New Milford, only s. of Jeremiah, of Milford, by w. Judith Mallory, and gr. s. of Thomas of Milford. In 1756, he was exe'r of his father.

105. SIMEON<sup>4</sup> Ebenezer<sup>3</sup> Zachariah,<sup>2</sup> b. in New Milford, 14 July (his son Eli says 24 July), 1724, and continued to reside there. He is said, by his descendants, to have been Commissary and Paymaster in the Revolution, and to have lost his property through Continental money, received for beef and provisions furnished the army. He was active in his service, acting for a time as collector of provisions and other taxes,* as a commissary for purchases, and in the care of families of drafted men. He was also injured, in his advancing years, by the fall of a tree, so that he was unable to do much to recuperate his fallen fortunes. He m. 1st, 20 Dec., 1753, Mercy Bronson, who d. 15 June, 1763. He m. 2nd, 4 Jan'y (31 Dec., says Eli,) 1764, Rebecca Buck, b. 18 June, 1741. He d. 7 June, 1808, aged, town record says 86, family record says 88, but according to his entry of birth, it must have been less.

* When Continental money had become worth'ess, and the people were well nigh disheartened, "Congress resolved, Feb'y 25, 1780, to call on the States for specific supplies—beef, flour, Indian corn, hay, salt, tobacco, rum, rice—those articles most needed for the use of the army. These things were apportioned among the States at stated prices, according to the natural advantages of each—New England to furnish most of the rum; and what is not a little remarkable, about four gallons of this popular beverage were required for each barrel of flour." (Historical Account of Connecticut Currency, by Henry Bronson, p. 124.)

230. Jonah, 26 Oct., 1753; lived unm., and d. aged—, in New Milford; was noted as a teacher. Was in the war of the Revolution, it is said, as Quartermaster. He was, it is said, under Montgomery, at Quebec.

237. Mercy, 22 Sept., 1767; d. unm. She was a teacher, and is said to have published a little Grammar for scholars. Hugh Getson, Esq., of Sherman, writes me, she lived there for many years; taught thirty or more years, and was much respected. Member Cong. Ch., and d. 4 Dec., 1835, aged 68.

He leaves to his son-in-law, Daniel Baldwin<sup>6</sup> (Isaac,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Daniel,<sup>3</sup> Daniel,<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup>) and his children; but whether Eunice was the dau. who m. Daniel, I know not. He lived at Burwell's Farms, some miles between Milford Village and New Haven. There is there a very handsome cove, and a convenient landing-place. Solomon's house commanded a view of it; and, by tradition, he sorely annoyed Tories who tried to use the cove for contraband trade with the enemy. He has, in a general way, a high revolutionary fame. I was sorry not to find papers, or more accurate or precise traditions. His descendants living are all young. His grandson was named Isaac Stillwater, said in memory of his being at that battle.

His son David was left out of the "distribution and inheritance of reversion." The will provides that if any one tries to break up the will, that child has five shillings, "as the law directs." He seems, by his inventory, to have had considerable land in Oxford, Conn.

158. ELISHA<sup>4</sup> Sylvanus<sup>3</sup> Barnabas,<sup>2</sup> b. 1 March, 1741, at Milford, Parish of Amity. The late Dr. Goodsell, of Woodbridge, an aged and very intelligent resident of Woodbridge, told me, in 1856, that Elisha was lame, and taught the first school in that part of Woodbridge where he lived. His niece, the late Mrs. Harvey Riggs, informed me that he lost a leg. before marriage, by the falling of a tree. He m., 20 Oct., 1768, Jerusha Coe, of Southbury, Conn., where he bought a farm. The following children appear to him upon Southbury Record:

366. Polly, 27 Sept., 1769.

367. Philo Alling, 6 March, 1775. +

368. Anna, 19 Oct., 1776; d. 1 May, 1777.

369. Anna, 1 May, 1778; m., 20 Dec., 1796, Abiud Lattin, of Southbury.

By his father's will he had, over and above what he had already received (£20), twelve acres of land in New Haven, and Sylvanus' right in the Susquehanna Purchase being one-half right. Elisha sold out his lands in Southbury, and he and his whole family disappear from Southbury. I have not, after many years' search, been able to find out where—tradition says to Tioga county, N. Y.: to Chenango county, N. Y.; and to Pennsylvania—possibly to try the right in Susquehanna Purchase, but not very likely, as he deeds in 1790 to A. H. Wheeler, to son Philo in 1795. Philo deeds to Griswold in 1800; and Elisha and Philo join in several deeds in 1805. A brief account of the Susquehanna Purchase, and the romantic attempt to establish the jurisdiction of Connecticut over a part of Pennsylvania, will be found under John.<sup>1</sup> Senior, of Milford, Josiah<sup>2</sup> Samuel<sup>3</sup> Caleb<sup>4</sup> Jared.<sup>5</sup> Elisha bought, 16 April, 1793, of William Preston, of Woodbury; Elisha is then described of Southbury.

He was a man of standing in Woodbridge, and in the year of his m. was Selectman. His father by his will, dated 1779, proved 10 Jan'y, 1785, gave to him eighteen acres of land east of the river, three-fourths of his dwelling, the other one-fourth to Hezekiah, and all the remainder of his property, having made ample previous provisions for his other children, to Charles and Hezekiah. Charles and Hezekiah for a long time conducted farming in partnership, upon a portion of the same premises which came to Richard<sup>1</sup> from Tawtanimo, the "Indian Sagamore;" and the records of Woodbridge, in their further purchases in company, bear witness to their enterprise. He lived with his brother as a bachelor, and m. the half-sister of his brother's wife. 10 April, 1800, he bought of A. Bray a farm of two hundred and seventy-three acres, in that part of Wallingford, Conn., now Meriden; and subsequently made some additions to it, so that it contained some three hundred acres. This farm lay upon the Quinipiac river, largely bottom, and considerable of it is now occupied by the large pond of the Meridan Cutlery Company. It was by far the best farm in the town of Meriden. His original dwelling was burned by accident, but the new dwelling still stands on the road to Hanover. He was an early Methodist, when to be one was very unfashionable: for people of seventy-five years ago had their fashions in all things, as well as now. He was converted, perhaps, under the preaching of Jesse Lee, that early itinerant who preached occasionally in the vicinity of his early life; and records his affection for this and the other early preacher, Freeborn Garretson, in the name of one of his children. He died in Meriden (town

* Thomas Hine had a home-lot in Milford, 28 Jan'y, 1646. The name is spelled Hind, Hine, and sometimes Hinde. He was an early proprietor at Derby, but it is doubtful if he lived there. He bought the right at "Pogasuck," of John Burwell. He died in Milford, and by will, dated 1694, remembered, among several children, Stephen, b. 25 Oct., 1663. He had ten children at least. In Lambert's History of New Haven Colony is a tradition of his having relieved an Indian, exposed on the marsh by the Mohawks. For this he was held in high regard by the neighboring Indians, who said that when Hine or his descendants died, the Great Spirit took them at once to his big wigwam.

Stephen, (2) b. 1663, was a shoemaker. In 1741, he deeded to his son Ambrose (3) lands in Hogg Meadow. Ambrose m., 6 Feb'y, 1717, in Boston, Sarah ———, of that place. He lived in Milford, and his will was dated 6 Dec., 1749; proved Dec., 1750. His son Stephen (4) was born about 1721. Stephen (4) died in Woodbridge, 11 Sept., 1791, aged 70; he m., 26 Jan'y, 1744, Elizabeth Carrington, dau. John, of Amity; she d. 20 May, 1755. He m. 2nd, Patience, who d. 24 Dec., 1769, aged 41. He m. 3rd, Susannah Smith, of Bethany, Conn. Susannah was mother of Susannah, who m. Charles Baldwin. organized 1806), 17 July, 1818. His widow died in Masonville, Delaware county, N. Y., 12 May, 1853. By his will, he left a tract of land in Meriden to build a Methodist church, but the land was sold and money lost without effecting its purpose; and the first Methodist church was built there not many years since. If the meeting-house was not built, the land was to be disposed of by the Quarterly Conference, Durham Circuit, or agent that the Conference may appoint, by sale or otherwise; and if sold, the interest of the avails was to be given to the traveling preachers of the Rhinbeck District, at the discretion of the Presiding Elder.

He served apprenticeship with his brother Ebenezer, at shoemaking, but was a large farmer. When a boy, was with his brother Jonah for a few weeks, in the army, as a waiter. He afterward established a shop for the manufacture of shoes for the army.

239. ELI<sup>5</sup> Simeon<sup>4</sup> Ebenezer,<sup>3</sup> b. in New Milford, 22 May, 1777. At fourteen years of age, he was apprenticed to a cooper. After he became of age, he was a cooper in Connecticut. He also taught school and held some township offices. In 1801, he entered into the employ of Elijah Boardman, of New Milford, his brother, and two or three others, who were proprietors of land in the Western Reserve. He was their general land agent in Boardman, Trumbull county, Ohio, and Palmyra, in Portage county, and several other places. He left Connecticut for Boardman, 15 April, 1801, and arrived there May 1. He had a varied pioneer life, engaged in selling and superintending the settling and clearing of land. He superintended the survey and first settlement of Medina, in Medina county, Ohio. Mr. Boardman being the principal proprietor of the town, he had experience in "keeping store,"—milling. He had a sawmill in 1814, and continued in that business. In 1836, he established a carding, fulling and cloth-dressing mill. He was also busily engaged in various public interests, in surveying, care of estates, drawing contracts, &c. He m., 9 Oct., 1805, Mary Mupert, b. 17 April, 1786, in Delaware, dau. Jesse Mupert. He was a Quaker, from near Philadelphia, who moved, after the Revolution, to Brownsville, Penn.; and in 1799, with his son-in-law Josiah Robbins, to Youngstown. They settled (1800) in Youngstown, Ohio. Eli held many offices of townships—long Justice of the Peace; in 1804, Militia Captain, County Commissioner, Postmaster. With General Wadsworth, he fixed the seats of justice when the counties of Stark and Tuscarawas were established. He had been a Member of the House of Ohio once, and Senate three times; when, in 1822, he was a candidate for Congress, but lost his election to Elisha Whittlesey by sixty-six votes, there being three candidates. He stood highest in Trumbull and Portage, second highest in Geauga, and third in Ashtabula. Whittlesey was second in Trumbull and Portage, third in Geauga, and second in Ashtabula, where a citizen of that county got the highest. It was singular. Whittlesey was elected without standing highest in the vote of any of the counties he represented. There were three other candidates, all together receiving about two-thirds as many votes as Whittlesey and Baldwin. He was thereafter elected twice to the House of the State, twice to the Senate. In 1828, was Associate Judge of Trumbull county; in 1832, a delegate to the Baltimore Convention; in Nov., 1832, one of the Presidential Electors. He in Sept., 1811, shipped cheese to market, and was perhaps the pioneer in a commerce which has grown to be a large one in that part of the State where he lived. This sketch is mainly from a manuscript written in 1836, now in the archives of the Historical Society, at Cleveland. In 1836, he was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, and was defeated by a small majority. He d. in Boardman, 3 Dec., 1841, so quietly that his wife, rising at four, found him dead at six. His extensive works were burned again in 1838. He rebuilt the sawmill, flouring mill, carding and clothing works, and had them running when he died; but his losses, and the times of 1840, badly crippled his estate. His widow sold her dower for one thousand dollars, and with that bought a farm, upon which she settled, which is still in the family.

377. JESSE GARRETSON<sup>5</sup> Charles<sup>4</sup> Sylvanus,<sup>3</sup> b. 17 March, 1804, in Meriden, Conn.; m., 14 April, 1830, Lydia Rice, b. 5 Feb., 1800, dau. Ezekiel, of Meriden. His name, from the two famous preachers, Jesse Lee and Freeborn Garretson, shows his father's predilection, and he has been all his life an active, zealous Christian; a Methodist, but not sectarian in feeling. He was very active in the Anti-Slavery cause, when to be active required courage, and in 1835, was mobbed with Garrison, in his home at Middletown, Conn. He resolutely used none but free-labor goods, and outside of his regular business, kept such goods for others. He was a candidate on the Anti-Slavery ticket for Governor of Connecticut. He has lived to see no more to be done for the Anti-Slavery cause. He has always been as strong an enemy to drunkenness, and in 1876 was the Prohibition candidate for Governor of Connecticut, a candidacy he had previously filled, and thirty years after he was the Anti-Slavery candidate.

He commenced business as a merchant and manufacturer of silver spoons, with his brother Seymour, in the little town of Oxford, Conn.—the sales being partly by peddlers sent around the country under the firm of J. & S. Baldwin. In 1832, they moved the business to Middletown, Conn. In 1835, Seymour moving west, he continued the business, and then went into the profitable manufacture of plated ware. Being severely attacked by consumption, he resolutely gave up his business entirely and warred with the disease with the same steady courage he has exhibited in politics, and in a few years was entirely recovered. In 1858, he became President of the Central Bank of Middletown, the stock of which, under his management, rose from $55 to $105 per share, par being $75. He is still the President of the Central National Bank. He has been also President of the People's Insurance Company of Middletown, an unambitious and successful institution since its foundation in 1867.

903. Mary Ann, 18 Feb., 1831, in Oxford, Conn.; resides in Middletown, Conn., where she is noted for her musical talent cultivated here and abroad. She is wedded to the piano.

904. Harriet Rice, 3 Oct., 1832, in Middleton, Conn. She was a person of fine mind, excellent education, a good classical scholar, and a person of thorough, intelligent religious convictions. She was a teacher, from the desire to be useful. After the recent war she went South in that capacity to the freedmen, and fell a victim to the climate. She d. unm. at Eufala, Ala., 28 March, 1870.

905. Maria Antoinette, 22 Nov., 1835; d. unm., July, 1861. She was a charming person, with an excellent, well trained mind, and great and quick intelligence. She exhibited at times a high poetic temperament. She wrote seldom, but her minor pieces are worthy to live. She liked only the short ones, written spontaneously.

Mrs. Lydia Baldwin d. 13 May, 1876. Her life was one of very great usefulness and active charity. She seemed to the writer as good a woman as he ever knew, and withal of an excellent good judgment in all matters of life: her kindness was beyond all praise.

382. SEYMOUR WESLEY<sup>5</sup> Charles<sup>4</sup> Sylvanus,<sup>3</sup> b. in Meriden, Conn., 29 July, 1807. He was educated at district school, and at the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Conn. Some time before manhood, he commenced life as a Yankee peddler, first in the North and then in the South. When twenty-one, he became a merchant in Oxford, Conn., with his brother Jesse as J. & S. Baldwin, selling goods there and sending out peddlers. They were also engaged in the manufacture of silver spoons. There he m., 15 Nov., 1831, Mary E. Candee,<sup>6</sup> dau. Samuel Newell<sup>2</sup> was b. 1660, s. Thomas Newell,<sup>1</sup> by w. Rebecca Olmsted, sister of John and Richard, and niece of James, in ship Lion, to New England, in 1632, and said to be from Suffolk.

A fuller account of the Candees will be found in the genealogy of that family, by the author.

In 1831, the firm of J. & S. Baldwin moved to Middletown, Conn., and Seymour in May, 1835, to Elyria, Lorain county, Ohio. Mr. Baldwin has been a man of great power of endurance, energy and ability in his business as a merchant. He adopted and insisted upon the one-price cash system, and, by the small margin at which his mercantile skill and system enabled him to sell goods, has done much to enrich the county where he has lived. His business has been very large for a country merchant.

In 1847, having acquired such a competence as he had fixed upon when he first went to Elyria, he returned to Meriden. He was there soon engaged in various business, being President of the Meriden Machine Company, the first President of the Home Bank, now Home National Bank, as well as a partner in a banking firm in Cleveland, Ohio.

In 1856, he resigned the presidency of the Home Bank, and returned to Elyria and his original business, his firm also establishing a branch store in Wellington, in the same county. At the two stores, the sales reached over four hundred thousand dollars per annum, besides produce, in which a large business was done, paying cash, or goods at cash price, as the farmer preferred. The two firms continue under the name of Baldwin, Laundon & Co. in Wellington, and Baldwin, Lersch & Co. in Elyria. Mr. Baldwin has been contented with modest profits; but, on the other hand, has never done business at a loss. He has been a model merchant. He still resides in Elyria, interested in business, but not giving it his own time, but at the present writing giving his time to the building of a church, for which he has donated a fine lot, facing the public square.

1335. ELBERT IRVING <sup>7</sup> Silas I. <sup>6</sup> Silas, <sup>5</sup> b. in New Haven, Conn., 13 May, 1829; m., 29 Aug., 1855, Jeanette Sterling, of Lima, Livingston county, N. Y. In October, 1853, he removed to Cleveland, Ohio, in the retail dry goods business, his father being his partner. He has been very successful as a merchant, and the trade of the firm is now very large, and the leading retail trade in the city, carrying a superior stock of fine goods. In 1868, his firm erected the first fine store in Cleveland, at an expense of over one hundred thousand dollars. This example has been well followed, but Mr. Baldwin may be regarded as the pioneer in fine business buildings in Cleveland. Here follows an engraving of the building:

Mr. Baldwin, as a merchant, is remarkably systematic and able. Nothing goes by chance, but everything by direction.

In 1880, the firm is composed of himself, his brother-in-law, Mr. Hatch (many years together), and three Juniors, one of whom is his son, Elbert Francis. Though having a just pride in his position as a merchant, Mr. Baldwin is besides a very intelligent, cultivated gentleman, well read and traveled, and withal an excellent citizen.

JOHN BALDWIN, OF STONINGTON, CONNECTICUT,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. JOHN BALDWIN, of Stonington, Connecticut, was son of Sylvester, who died on the passage to America, 21 June, 1638, and brother of Richard, of Milford. See ante page 41. His identity is established, beyond all question, by legal proceedings after the death of his son John. He was baptized in Parish Aston Clinton, County Bucks, England, 28 October, 1635, and no doubt then quite young. Sylvester Baldwin's family being part of the "New Haven Company," removed to that place.* John was married to his first wife in 1656. According to the records, a home lot, of an acre and a half, was assigned to him, and he received other grants of land in Milford. His first wife died in 1657, soon after the birth of her son John. Miss Calkins says his name appears in the New London records occasionally after 1654. His descendant, John D., of Worcester, says 1664. He was in Milford in 1658, and one of the heroes of New London, who had the strife with men of Lyme, in 1671, about the boundary line. On the 24th of July, 1672, he married Rebecca Palmer, daughter of the first Walter Palmer, of Stonington, and young widow of Elisha Cheesborough. They settled in Stonington, where she owned a large tract of land. She outlived him about thirty years, and died May 2nd, 1713. The children were:

2. John, b. April 13, 1657; bapt. as an adult in Stonington, and d. in 1678, while gone to England. As the record which establishes this fact proves the line, I add it. His grandmother, Mrs. Astwood, had remembered him in her will, from which followed the facts of the record appearing in the New Haven County Court Records, Vol. 2, page 89:

* It has been generally supposed, that Mrs. Baldwin lived for some years in New Haven, her name, with family, being in the list of 1643; but see ante pages 77 and 78, as to the New Haven and Milford lists. She may have remained in New Haven until her second marriage, as is thought by her descendant of this line, Hon. John D. Baldwin; but I do not consider it proved. After her marriage to Astwood, the family no doubt lived in Milford, next door to her son Richard Baldwin.

"At a Court of Probate, held in New Haven, October ye 10th day, 1702. Present:
Major MOSSES MANSFIELD.

"SILVESTER BALDWIN, of Stonington, in ( Esquire Judge ) ye county of New London, appearing and ) WILLIAM MALTBIE, ) Esqrs. Juse. making application to this Court, for power ) JEREMIAH OSBORNE, ) Or norum.
of administracon upon a certaine legacy ( JOHN ALLING, ) bequeathed to his brother, John Baldwin, in and by the last will of Mrs. Sarah Astwood, which said John Baldwin, by report of Mr. Plumb, of Milford, went to England about twenty-five years since, and is supposed to be deceased. Upon wch ye court allows administracon of s'd legacy to the said Silvestr Baldwin, he having given sufficient bond for his faithful administration of the same according to law, and refund the estate if any other heir appeare."

The legacy was made in 1679, and was a singular legacy to grant administration for twenty-three years after, but the estate had no doubt been sold, and this proceeding was to get the proceeds.

3. Rebecca, b. May 20, 1673; m., March 21, 1694, Elnathan Minor, son of Deacon Manassah Minor; she d. March 12, 1701. He was town Clerk of Stonington. Walter Palmer), and was the first male child b. in New London.

4. Mary, b. Feb. 24, 1675; m., Nov. 25, 1706, John Randall, of Stonington, as his 2nd wife. Her ch. were: (13) Sarah, Nov. 10, 1707, d. Jan. 19, 1713; (14) Nathan; July 7, 1709; (15) Ichabod, Oct. 21, 1711; (16) Sarah; March 12, 1714, and d. Sept. 6, 1714; (17) Joseph, twin, June 2, and d. June 21, 1715; (18) Benjamin, June 2, 1715; (19) Rebecca, June 25, 1717; and (20) Joseph, July 17, 1720.

5. Sylvester, March 4, 1677. +

6. Sarah, March, 1679; d. unm.

7. Jane, April, 1681; d. before 1692.

8. Theophilus, June, 1683. +

John, the father, died 19 August, 1683. John Baldwin was in the famous difference between New London and Lyme. A meadow at Black Point, claimed by both towns, had been reserved by each for the respective clergymen of the towns. The war was in 1671. About thirty New London men, among whom were the leading persons in the town, went to mow the grass for their minister, and were met and resisted by a party from Lyme, there on a similar errand for their minister. There was strife; and constables were there, and justices too, so that warrants and arrests were well mixed up with blows. A general melee took place, with no very great harm. The cooler heads finally agreed to let the law decide the matter, and "drank a dram together with some seeming friendship." Each party was indicted; and as no disinterested men could be found in that comty. they were tried at Hartford—twenty-one men of New London, and fifteen of Lyme. The town of New London was fined £15, and Lyme £9.

John Baldwin was complained of by a Lyme man for bruising him with a cudgel. President Dwight says the two towns agreed to submit it to a combat, two being selected by each, of whom the Lyme champions beat. This late appeal to "wager of battle" is dubious.

dau. of Capt. Ebenezer and Hope (Pierce) Hathaway. She was b. March 6, 1813. Having by his own efforts gained a liberal education, studied in the Divinity and Law Schools, he received the degree of A. M. from Yale College. In 1833, he settled in North Branford, Conn., as a preacher, where he remained seven or eight years. He acquired the French and German languages, and by 1844 had given special attention to archæology, and its bearing upon the current schemes of ancient history; wrote much for magazines and newspapers, and became editor of the "Charter Oak," an Anti-Slavery newspaper in Hartford, and afterward of the "Commonwealth," published in Boston. In 1859, he became editor and proprietor of the "Worcester Spy," one of the oldest papers in New England, which he still (in 1880) conducts with his sons. In 1863, he was elected to Congress, and twice re-elected. In 1847, he published "Raymond Hill," a small volume of poems; in 1869, a work, "Pre-historic Nations;" and in 1872, one on "Ancient America." The last two are published by Harper & Bros. The last is a very popular, useful and sensible manual of American Archæology, more popular in its subject than the first.

JOHN BALDWIN, OF NORWICH, CONNECTICUT,

1. JOHN BALDWIN, of Norwich, Conn., by a tradition of quite unusual value, came to the New World with some family in Milford related to him. The family with which he came was very likely that of Sylvester Baldwin, who died on board ship Martin, June 21, 1638, and whose son Richard settled in Milford. Mrs. Baldwin had lands in New Haven, with five in her family, and he seems to be needed to make the number. He may have been the John who testified to the nuncupative will of Sylvester. In all probability, the John on board the Martin was either John Senior, of Milford, or John, of Norwich. John, son of Sylvester, was incompetent by interest, and too young (three years old) to testify to a nuncupative will.

Hon. John D. Baldwin, of Worcester, a descendant of John, son of Sylvester, stated in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, for April, 1873, that the Family Bible originally belonging to Deacon Theophilus Baldwin, son of John, of Stonington, went to his son John, whose wife lived to be 104 years old, and lived in the family of the father of John D. Baldwin until 1817. She had the old Bible, which, after her death the next year, went to the eldest uncle of John D., and was lost a few years after. About 1828, John D. wrote down several matters from the Bible. What he wrote is fairly proved otherwise, and his aunt was no doubt correct in saying that the old Bible said that an orphan cousin of John, of Stonington, came to America in the family of Sylvester Baldwin, remained in the family until he was married, and settled in Norwich. The word was "cousin," which however at that time did not necessarily mean first cousin, but second cousin, or some other form of relationship not very distant. It often, in early times, meant nephew.

George W. Baldwin, Esq., of Boston, has been chiefly instrumental in a very extensive search made in England for Baldwin genealogy, the result of which appears herein. Mr. Chester has sought very perseveringly for John, of Norwich. He finds, among the English Johns, one who answers well the description of John, of Norwich, and who seems extremely likely to have been him. He will be found in the preceding account of Richard, of Bucks county, as John<sup>4</sup> John<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Richard.<sup>1</sup> The father, John,<sup>3</sup> died after June 9, 1634, and before Oct. 14, 1634. The son disappears in England. He was not own cousin to John, of Stonington, but own cousin to Sylvester, father of John, of Stonington. Sylvester, the father, was executor of the will of Richard, of Dundridge, under which John was a legatee. He was young in 1622, as his elder brother Richard had only then completed his apprenticeship, and engaged in business some time after. A further discussion of this will be found in its appropriate place, in the account of the English Baldwins. He was early in Guilford, Conn. While he lived in Guilford, he married Hannah Birchard, of that town. April 12, 1653. Savage says she was probably a daughter of Thomas. He removed, in 1660, to Norwich, Conn., and was one of the thirty original proprietors of that town. The births of his three older children appear in Guilford. The others are not entered in Norwich. He was, in 1678, Constable, then an office of trust and honor.

A very interesting view of the church is in Miss Caulkins' History of Norwich, page 129. He d. Sept. 16, 1741, in the 80th year of his age. Miss Caulkins speaks of his making a cross for his signature. This, however, was only in his old age, when afflicted with blindness. He wrote in earlier years, and there is no reason to suppose he had not the usual education of the day. Thus, in 1723, he signs his name in conveying to his son Thomas, but in 1733 makes his mark.

18. EBENEZER<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in Norwich, Conn., April 20, 1710. He m., Oct. 10, 1738, Bethia Barker, then lately from Marshfield, Mass. He resided in Norwich, and d. 1794. Although Ebenezer was a good man, he seems, in those early puritanical times, to have had a little trouble in youth. It appears, from Miss Caulkins' book, that in 1738 a charge was brought against Thomas Avery, Ebenezer Baldwin, Abial Marshall and David Bingham, single men, and boarders or sojourners in the town, that they did convey and meet in company with sundry others. att y<sup>e</sup> house of William Waterman, y<sup>e</sup> 4th day of June last. it being Sabbath evening." No complaint was made of any disturbance or impropriety of conduct; it was the bare fact of a social meeting on Sunday evening, which was presented as contrary to law. He pleaded not guilty, and replied to the charge:

"True it is, we did converse with the company, and att y<sup>e</sup> time and place sett forth in y<sup>e</sup> complaint, but he saith he is not guilty for these reasons: 1st. That he is not a single person, as having an apprentice by indenture; 2nd, he is not a boarder, having y<sup>e</sup> care of a family; 3<sup>dly</sup>, he is not a sojourner, as living in y<sup>e</sup> place where he was born and bred."

"The Court is of opinion he is guilty, and fines him 5<sup>s</sup>. and costs. Appeal granted. to be heard in y<sup>e</sup> County Court."

He was a leading and prominent man in his town, known as Captain, and filling places of trust. Among others, he was first named of the Committee on the first and second Delaware purchases (east of the Wyoming settlements), it being quite the fashion of those days to speculate largely in real estate: and in 1768, even the town of Norwich voted to apply for a grant of twenty miles square of the colony (of Connecticut) lands lying west of the Susquehannah (Wyoming) purchase, with leave to buy the "native right to said lands."

44. Ebenezer, b. July 3, 1745. (Rev.) Tutor in Yale, and author of the History of Yale College; d. Oct. 1, 1776, at Danbury, Conn., where he was settled in the ministry, and unm. "Though his career was painfully short," says Chancellor Kent, "he had lived long enough to attract general notice, and the highest respect by his piety, his learning, his judgment and his patriotism." He was Chaplain in the army. Miss Caulkins errs in stating his death as in 1777, as is apparent by addition from her own text.

Bethia d. Jan. 20, 1762, and he m. 2nd, July 11, 1764, Esther Bacchus, but had no ch. Like his father, he was blind in later years. His epitaph says: "In memory of Capt. Ebenezer Baldwin, who departed this life May 2nd, 1792, aged 80 years. A reputable citizen, a kind husband, a tender parent, an amiable, cheerful neighbor, and a good man. Supported by Christian fortitude, he bore with singular philosophy the peculiar calamities of his life during nine years of blindness and infirmity, and the extreme pains of his last lingering sickness, in the sure hope of a long-wished-for eternity of happiness."

21. BENJAMIN<sup>4</sup> John<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>. He disappeared, as did the rest of the family, from Lebanon, Conn. It is by no means certain, yet I think it very probable, that he was the Benjamin late of Loudon, Berkshire county, Mass., the administration of whose estate was granted July 5, 1787, to Benjamin of the same place. (See further 52 Samuel.) There was no distribution, or I might tell more of his children.

Dec. 21, 1743, he was one of a Committee in "Newent in Norwich," Conn., to make the Society rate. The family disappears from that vicinity; and after long search, I feel confident his children, if not himself, settled in Norwich, Vt., which town was owned and settled from this vicinity. A further discussion of this may be found under Daniel<sup>4</sup> Daniel<sup>3</sup> Benjamin<sup>2</sup> Henry.<sup>1</sup>

He was an original proprietor of Norwich, Vt., in 1761, and his original right, says Rev. Mr. Slafter, must have been about five hundred acres drawn to him. Nov. 25, 1775, as of Norwich, he sells one hundred acres, the right of Elias Warner, to Sawyer, of Norwich, Conn. He sold Ebenezer Ball, of Lebanon, Conn., one hundred acres. Mr. Slafter, who was resident clergyman at Norwich, Vt., for some time, makes at Norwich, the brothers Daniel and Levi. Of these, I judge the oldest to be

Four years after, he became Clerk of the United States Court, and continued an extensive practice in the State Court until 1803, when he became Representative in Congress. He declined a re-election in 1805. In 1806, he was appointed, by the Legislature, Judge of the Supreme Court of the State, and continued by annual appointment (then the custom) for eleven years. 52. SAMUEL<sup>5</sup> Benjamin<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> b. about 1760. Moved about 1810 to Granville, Licking county, Ohio, and had at least a son:

- 134. Benjamin.

January 6, 1806, he was Deacon at Sandisfield.

In February, 1880, after writing the account of Samuel and his father, and having, after much labor, and two or three changes of opinion, placed Benjamin in this line, I am furnished by C. W. Bryant, Esq., of Granville, with extracts from a History of Granville, by Rev. Jacob Little, D.D., published not far from 1850, in the "Observer," of Hudson, Ohio.

In Granville, Feb. 17, 1823, Deacon Samuel Baldwin died, aged 63 yrs. He was descended from a pious family in Lebanon, Conn. He removed to Otis, Mass., when he was five years old; when thirteen, his father died, and he took care of the family till he was twenty-four. When converted, "he thought he could not live in a world so wicked, and meditated the life of a hermit." "He sometimes had such strong views of heavenly things as to take away his strength." The Church at Otis had no pastor, elected him Deacon, and enjoyed a revival. He seems to have filled, in a great degree, the pastoral office. He removed to Granville, Licking county, Ohio, in 1810. In 1813, he was elected deacon. Very few people seemed to live so near to God, and his modest, unassuming manners gave great effect to his prayers and exhortations. Sometimes, when praying for his children or the church, he would be so overcome as to stop. As he advanced in life, he grew in grace, yet he saw but one of a large family of children the subject of grace. He often said, I leave them in the hands of God, who will do them no injury. Within ten years after his death, all professed their faith in Christ. He was sick for a long time with consumption. He requested his wife to tell him when he was dying, saying he feared it no more than going to sleep. When the time came, he was lying with the palm of his hand under one cheek. Some said, "How sweetly he sleeps!" In a moment he was gone. All the family left Granville many years ago, and I have failed to trace them.

59. THOMAS<sup>5</sup> Thomas<sup>4</sup> Thomas<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> Rev. and D.D., b. in Bozrah, Conn., Dec. 23, 1753. His father died when he was young. His mother m. 2nd, a "very worthy and pious man by the name of Eames, and removed to Canaan, N. H. His mother, says the author of his memoir, was remarkable for talent, and a woman of eminent piety. He early read sermons in Canaan, and before he was thirty was elected to the General Court from that town. At the age of twenty-two, on the 22nd of September, 1775, he was m. to Miss Ruth Huntington, of Norwich, Conn., who died Feb. 11, 1812; they had six children. He m. 2nd, Miss Margaret Duncan, of Haverhill, Mass., who survived him. He became an eminent Baptist clergyman. He was settled in Boston, Nov. 11, 1790. He was in his ministry faithful, affectionate and devoted, and very successful. In 1803, he commenced the publication of the "American Baptist Magazine," of which he was sole, and then senior editor until his death. A controversial work, in answer to Rev. Samuel Worcester, is considered his ablest effort. In 1803, he received the degree of D.D. at Union College. He was long Trustee of Brown University, and of Waterville College, Maine. He died while on a visit to Waterville, Aug. 28, 1824. He died almost instantly. "Spared the pain of death, and agonies of separation, he was not, for God took him." He was rather above the usual size, firmly built, and as he grew old inclined to corpulency. His countenance was dignified, mild and engaging; his hair in later years white, so that his appearance was very venerable. A memoir, by Rev. Daniel Chessman, was published in Boston in 1826, eighty-four pages; appended is a list of publications, thirty-one sermons, and six other works. Miss Caulkins says the native vigor of his intellect was equal to all demands made upon it, and he exerted a powerful influence in favor of his denomination.

the event. His father had arrived too late to take part in the combat, but the father of his future wife was among the slain; and her mother, who had stationed herself on a rock in sight of the fort, witnessed the entire tragedy. Her tombstone in Yonkers, N. Y., is said to bear the inscription: "She was made a widow, at the surrender of Fort Griswold, by the traitor Arnold." He was a carpenter and builder. In 1804, he first visited Yonkers, to erect a spire upon a church, and remained there. There was no school. He was active in securing one, and his brother, Erastus, was the first teacher. At the breaking out of the second war with Great Britain, he was appointed Lieutenant of a company of riflemen with the 12th Regiment. In March, 1814, he became Captain, and in 1816, after the war was over, was promoted to be Major. He remained in active business until he was over seventy. His last enterprise was the erection in Broadway of a block of brick buildings, known as "Baldwin's Block," and after the sale of this property he lived in retirement.

An interesting sketch of Mr. Baldwin, two columns long, appeared in the Yonkers Statesman for Dec. 31, 1863. He m. 1st. Susannah, dau. of Ezekiel Bailey, killed at Fort Griswold. ## JOHN BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONNECTICUT,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. JOHN BALDWIN, Senior, of Milford, Conn., came to Connecticut with the other Milford Baldwins, with the New Haven Company. His relationship to the other Baldwins cannot be determined with certainty. Mr. Savage says he was the son of Sylvester, the son of Richard. This cannot be, as will be seen in the account of John, of Stonington. It has been suggested that he might be the brother of Sylvester. It will be seen in the account of the English family, first published by me in the "N. E. Historic Genealogical Register," in July, 1872, that Sylvester had a brother John. Sylvester, it will be remembered, died on the passage, in 1638, and his nuncupative will was testified to by John Baldwin. I am not personally conversant with the then law of testimony in Massachusetts, but have as high authority as Mr. William H. Whitmore for saying that John, the witness, could not have been John, son of Sylvester, on account of his interest. Nor could it well have been either him or John, of Norwich, on account of their tender years, making them hardly competent to remember a will, and very unlikely witnesses in a well filled ship of grown and friendly people.

It seems probable that John, the witness, was John, Senior, of Milford. I doubt whether he was John, the brother of Sylvester, for the reason that in the will of their grandfather he names his grand-children, John and Henry, sons of Sylvester. I conclude that John was probably the elder. If John was the elder, he must have died young, as in the will of the Uncle Richard he speaks of Henry as his next heir. He is more likely, I think, to have been a cousin of Sylvester, or, not unlikely, a nephew; in fact, his apparent age would hardly permit him to be a brother.

People then married young. Sylvester's son Richard was baptised 1622; John's four children were baptised 1648, and the oldest born, probably, about 1641, (Mr. Savage says, 1640.) The name of John Baldwin was very common in Bucks at that time. I presume it likely he will be found to be a nephew or cousin, for I believe the matter may in the end be determined with reasonable certainty. That he was of Bucks county and some relative of Sylvester I have little doubt. It may not be without interest that the names of his children, John, Samuel, George and Richard were common among the Baldwins of Bucks; but there were so many Johns in Bucks that they are very difficult to identify.

In February, 1639, Milford was purchased of the Indians. The settlement was made during the year, and Nov. 29, 1639, the names of the "Free Planters" appears in the Milford records.

The name of John Baldwin is one of those following after this list, as being a settler, but not a free planter. This was because he was not a church member. Milford was a religious community, or colony, for it was at first a separate settlement, with an independent government of its own. This government was organized November 20, when it was voted that the officers and voters should be church members. It was also voted "that they would guide themselves in all their doings by the written word of God, till such time as a body of laws should be established." He, however, joined the church, March 19, 1648. He was buried in Milford, June 21, 1681. His first wife was named Mary, and by her he had children:

2. John, b. says Savage, 1640, bapt. March 26, 1648. +

3. Josiah, b. 1642. +

4. Samuel, b. 1645. He is not mentioned, nor any descendant, in the full will of his father, made in 1681. A Samuel, of Milford, was drowned in Fairfield, in 1673, leaving a family in Milford, says the Worcester Mss., (letter of Judge Simon Baldwin.) He must be the Samuel whose estate was appraised at Milford, 1673, leaving a home lot sold by his widow to Alexander Bryan, as appears by Bryan's will, dated July 22, 1679. That if he left children, they died without issue is shown by a deed in 1696 by his brother Joseph as co-heir of his father John, of Milford, deceased, of part of the estate of his brother Samuel, of Milford, deceased. Samuel was accepted to full communion, June 25, 1671. After the baptismal entry of 1648, opposite the name of Nathaniel, is the entry, "deceased Jan. 16, 1671" (old style—new, 1672). It cannot mean Nathaniel, who survived his father, and had children as early as 1676. It must be by error placed one line too low, and be really meant for Samuel.

5. Nathaniel, b. 1648. +

6. Elizabeth, bapt. July 19, 1649; m. Porter, but I cannot tell what one.

7. Joseph, bapt. Nov. 9, 1651. +

He m. 2nd. Mary Bruen, of Pequot, sister of Obadiah. and dau. John of Bruen Stapleford, Cheshire, England. (See Appendix.) She d. Sept. 2, 1670.

8. Mary, bapt. Sept. 17, 1654.

9. Sarah, b. Dec. 25, 1655.

10. Abigail, b. Nov. 15, 1658; bapt. in New Haven, March 27, 1659; m. Samuel Baldwin<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel.<sup>1</sup>

11. Obadiah, b. October, 1660. +

12. George, b., it is said, 1662. +

13. Hannah, b. Nov. 20, 1663; m., Jan. 17, 168 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Dr. John Fiske<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> of Wenham, Mass., son of Phinehas Fiske,<sup>1</sup> of Salem. Dr. John resided in Wenham for a time, where, says Savage, his children were born. According to Lambert, he settled in Milford in 1695. He was a physician there. Their ch. were: (61) Ebenezer, who joined the Church in Milford in 1714, and in 1719 was administrator to his father, exhibiting an act of the Assembly authorizing sale, &c.; (62) John, (63) Phinehas, graduated at Yale College in 1704; Rev. (64) Benjamin, bapt. 1696. Ebenezer and John are placed, by Savage, as probable children of Dr. John.

14. Richard, b. 2nd week of June, 1665. +

I have found no authority for the dates of birth of the first four children: but the dates given by Mr. Savage are very probable, yet I think more probable than certain. The four were baptised March 26, 1648. John Baldwin's homestead was original lot No. 13, in Milford, on the west side of the river, a little northwest of the Town Hall, on the premises now or lately occupied by Rev. Asa M. Train.

His 2nd wife died Sept. 2, 1670, and he was buried June 21, 1681. His will, dated May 24, 1681, gives to his eldest son John, sons Josiah, Nathaniel and Joseph, dau. Elizabeth Porter, dau. Abigail Baldwin, two daus. Sarah and Hannah, son George, and sons Obadiah and Richard; with provision, if either dies before marriage or unmarried. John Baldwin's descendants are very numerous, more so than any of the branches, unless it may be Joseph.

Savage says this John removed to Newark a year or two after 1666, but returned to Milford. There were, in Newark, John Sr. and John, Jr. Both remained there, one being John<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> and the other John<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel.<sup>1</sup> In correction of errors, I may say further, that Mr. Congar, in his unusually accurate book, says Elizabeth married Peck. My own transcript from the Milford Records agrees with Savage, showing Porter, though with a mark indicating dimness of record. His heirs, Joseph, Obadiah, Sarah and Hannah, Nov. 11, 1691, submitted to the arbitration of the "honored Deputy Governor Major Robert Treat, Mr. Daniel Buckingham and Samuel Eells," a difference as to "the articles in the inventory of John Baldwin, deceased." The decision was given, Richard consenting.

2. JOHN<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> bapt. in Milford, Conn., March 20, 1648, eldest of four, and no doubt born some years before; Savage says 1640, which I think must be a guess. The first few pages of the Milford record of births is gone. He was accepted to full communion, in Milford, Oct. 8, 1662. He m. Hannah Brewen, or Bruen, dau. of Obadiah, of New London, niece of his stepmother (see Appendix), Oct. 3, or 30, 1663. She d., and he m. 2nd, before 1686, but I cannot tell when, Ruth Bottsford, dau. of Henry Bottsford, of Milford. He was John, Sen., of Newark, N. J. Many descendants of the various lines in this volume are in New Jersey, whose ancestors were among the first settlers.

The settlement was first broached, in 1661, by the Deputy Governor of New Haven Colony, Matthew Gilbert, a Milford man, who wrote to Governor Stuyvesant that "a Companie of considerable that came into N. E. that they might serve God wth a pure conscience, and enjoy such liberties and privileges, both Civill and Ecclesiasticall, as might best advantage unto" * * * "and they, being desirous to provide for their posterities, so as their outward comfortable subsistence and their soules' welfare might, in the use of suitable means through the blessing of the Almighty, be obtained." A committee of Milford men had been appointed to treat and select land. This ended in the settlement of Newark, which was expected to be under the jurisdiction of the Dutch. They were to enjoy many freedoms, being especially desirous "for the enlargement of the Kingdom of Christ Jesus in a congregational way."

Their local laws "being found to concur with the Holy Scriptures," were to be confirmed; "but in dark and dubious matters, especially in witchcraft," people were not to be put to death without approval of the Director General and his Council.

John Baldwin was of the Milford people who first settled Newark in 1666, when the fundamental laws were shown to be in accordance with Scripture by the marginal references.

See as to this interesting Colony, Vol. 6, N. J. Hist. Soc. (Town Record of Newark), and Supplement containing W. W. Whitehall's oration.

John Baldwin was one of four who bought "The Neck," in 1674, for which they were to pay the town £310. He was a shoemaker. He was, in 1679, a "sealer of leather." Jan. 1, 1682-'83, he was chosen at town meeting "to look that the Young People carry themselves orderly in times of Divine Worship." In 1678, "After lecture," it was voted to send letters about the expenses of the Neck. His will, dated 1702, names his children Sarah, Hannah, Elizabeth and John, by his 1st wife, and Samuel, Daniel, Joseph, Timothy, Elnathan, Nathaniel and Jonathan. Mr. Congar infers from their ages not all children of Ruth. Likely Samuel was son of 1st wife.

15. Richard, b. in Milford, Dec. 24, 1666, as son of John, Jr., and no doubt d. y.

16. Sarah.

17. Hannah.

18. Elizabeth.

19. John. +

20. Samuel, b. about 1674. +

22. Joseph, b. in Newark, about 1680, and d. there, March 14, 1724, aged 44, and called Mr. Ensign. His will names his ch. following and w. Elizabeth. By tradition, he m. a sister of the husband of his sister Ruth, dau. of John<sup>2</sup> Obadiah Bruen.<sup>1</sup> His ch. named were: (89) Joseph, (90) Abigail, (91) Elizabeth, (92) Sarah, and (93) Hannah.

23. Elnathan. +

24. Timothy, b. about 1687. +

25. Daniel, bapt. in Milford, April 11, 1689, as the son of "Brother John, of Newark," and d. y.

26. Nathaniel, b. about 1690. +

27. Jonathan, b. about 1691. +

3. JOSIAH<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> bapt. in Milford, Conn., March 20, 1648, probably born about 1644. He remained there, and m. June 25, 1667, Mary Camp, perhaps dau. of Edward Camp, of New Haven, Conn., and b. there, April 21, 1652. He was received to full communion Jan. 30, 1671. He died about 1683, as Nov. 2, 1683, the inventory of his estate was presented at New Haven. Mr. Savage says he left a wife and seven children, whose names he "sees not."

28. Sarah, b. March 29, 1668.
29. Mary, Sept. 14, 1670.
30. Elizabeth, b. Sept. 19, 1672.
31. Samuel, b. March 14, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ . +
32. Josiah, b. March 21, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ . +
33. Remember, b. Feb. 29, 167 $\frac{9}{10}$ .
34. Child, on authority of Savage.

His administratrix seems to have been his widow Merrey, yet she was mother of Josiah. Is the name of Mary and Mercy confounded?

5. NATHANIEL<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> bapt. in Milford, Conn., March 22, 1648, and probably b. in 1647 or 1648. He was Nathaniel Cooper, of Milford, as Cooper had a division of land in 1677. He was in the lists of 1686 and 1712. Mr. Lambert says he removed, in 1702, to "Cohansee;" and in 1704, Obadiah and Richard speak of him as their brother, and gone to live there; but he soon after returned, as in 1705, and several years after, he and Obadiah are for several years grave-diggers, their brother Richard being Sexton. In 1676, he drew a lot on the west side of Milford Run. Aug. 31, 1717, his son Joseph is called s. of N. Cooper, lately of Milford, meaning, I presume, that Nathaniel was dead. In 1732, his son Nathaniel is called s. of "Left. N. B., deceased, distinguished by being called Cooper. Nathaniel resided for a time in Stratford, where some of his children were for a time. His wife Sarah was admitted to Milford Church in October, 1681; he, July 16, 1682. She was no doubt Sarah, born about 1652 or 1653, dau. of Benjamin<sup>2</sup> and Wilmot his wife—David Phippen.<sup>1</sup> She was born in Boston; and as appears by the Boston records, she and her husband joined, July 4, 1697, in a deed, with her sister Sarah, w. of Benjamin Sherman, of Stratford, and Mary, w. of Nathaniel Sherman, of Stratford, and their husbands.

35. Nathaniel, b. Sept. 6, 1676. Nov. 8, 1732, he makes the deed last mentioned. He d. July 5, 1748, and adm. was granted July 13, 1748, to his nephew Jacob, bond £1,000, and his estate went to Samuel or his heirs, to Benjamin or his heirs, to Elizabeth, wife of Caleb Galpin, and to the estate of Joseph; showing that he left at death no ch. Yet I find no other Nathaniel to have had dau. Mary, b. July 12, 1714; Nathaniel, June 13, 1715; Nathaniel again, Dec. 12, 171 $\frac{6}{7}$ , although I have searched much. Perhaps they were ch. of this Nathaniel, and d. y.

36. Benjamin, bapt. in Milford, Jan. 26, 1681. +

37. John, bapt. Nov. 5, 1682, as s. of brother N., of Stratford; d. in Milford, and his brother Nathaniel was his admin'r, Nov. 10, 1704 (Fairfield Probate). He left no ch. to take part of the estate of Nathaniel in 1748.

38. Samuel, bapt. Nov. 29, 1685; probably d. y.

39. Joseph, bapt. May 15, 1687. +

40. Samuel, b. Jan. 14, 1689. +

41. Elizabeth, bapt. Nov. 5, 1693; m. Caleb Galpin, of Stratford; there in 1748. She was bapt. as dau. of brother N., Jr.

7. JOSEPH<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> bapt. in Milford, Conn., Nov. 9, 1651. He m. Elizabeth Botsford, dau. of Elnathan Botsford, of Milford, who survived him. He joined the Church in 1691, and was excommunicated in 1692. I am afraid, from that to 1695, he fell somewhat from grace. March 13, 1719, then of New Haven, he deeds to his sons Joseph and Ephraim. His nuncupative will was proved the same year by the oath of Elizabeth Baldwin, Sen.

42. Elnathan, bapt. 1691. +

Joseph may have had other daughters.

11. OBADIAH<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, October, 1660. His wife Abigail was received to the Church there June 22, 1701, and was living, in 1741, to release dower. Obadiah in 1696, in the division with his brother Richard, has lands near Dreadful Swamp near Indian Hill, and New Meadow near Stratford river. He appears in Milford land records to Feb. 27, 173 $\frac{4}{5}$ , but was dead by 173 $\frac{7}{8}$ .

48. Mary, bapt. June 22, 1701; m. Peter Johnson, of Derby, Conn; there in 1741.

49. Ebenezer, bapt. June 22, 1701; d. Aug. 26, 1740, in his 41st year (Milford Cemetery). and without issue, as appears by a deed Sept. 29, 1740, from his sisters to Lazarus and Isaiah Gun,* for a consideration received from their father, Daniel Gun.

*The grantees in this deed were victims of the stern parental authority of old times. When young men, they visited "their girls" one Saturday night, and were severely whipped by their father on the following Monday, which shamed them so much that they withdrew from all company, and died unmarried. (Lambert Hist. New Haven Colony.) Their father seems to have granted them after kindness, possibly hearty regret of his former severity.

50. Mehitable, b. Feb. 25, 170 $\frac{3}{4}$ ; m., April 13, 1726, Benjamin Bunnill, of Milford, and there in 1741.

Deborah Rose, dau. of Deacon Jonathan Rose, of Branford. He d. Oct. 26, 1728, and she survived. He was a blacksmith, and like many of the trade in that day, held in high esteem. He was, before 1715, Deacon. He left a large estate.

He was living April 2, 1743, and then had living and of age the following four children, who of Hanover and Newark entered into bond in the sum of £200 to support him for life. (Dod papers—from papers left by Sam'l H. Congar.)

Burnett,) his four sons-in-law were compelled by the Court of Common Pleas of that county to pay each weekly for his support ten shillings, probably in depreciated currency. The sons-in-law were: Timothy<sup>3</sup> Ward, of Newark, probably s. Caleb<sup>2</sup> John Ward, Jr., of Newark; Nathaniel Dickerson, of Elizabeth, N. J.; Walter Smith, of Elizabeth, and Silas Hathaway, of Pequonnock, N. J.

31. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> Josiah<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, Conn., March 14, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ . The Samuels have given me more trouble than any name but Nathaniel, much more than the numerous Johns. It is pleasant to find the identity of this Samuel established, who died Jan. 8, 173 $\frac{1}{2}$ , by the statement on his tombstone, in Milford, that he died in his 63<sup>d</sup> year. Some of the descendants of this Samuel make him son of Daniel<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup> the one b. Dec. 26, 1673; but that Samuel was bapt. the same month, and in the Church Record, it appears he died March 26, 1674, and Daniel had another Samuel bapt. March 6, 1684. He was, after 1711, Samuel, Sen. He was a wheelwright. He m. Rebecca Wilkinson,<sup>2</sup> b. 1676, dau. of Edward<sup>1</sup> and Rebecca (Smith) Wilkinson, of Milford; Rebecca Smith being dau. of Henry Smith, of Stamford. 115. Joel, b. July 11, 1711.+

By his will he gives his son Samuel £140. and land at Chestnut Hill, so called, as well as other property, with his other three sons. He had previously liberally distributed by deeds.

32. JOSIAH<sup>3</sup> Josiah<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, Conn., March 21, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; was granted land in Derby, Conn., by the town, in 1699, where he resided for a while. He was for a time Town Treasurer. He m., Sept. 19, 1700, Mary Person (Pierson), of that place, who d. July 25, 1726. In 1702, he lived in Derby, as a blacksmith.

116. Josiah, b. Sept. 17, 1701, say the Derby Records; the Killingworth Records say Sept. 1.+

117. Mary, b. Oct. 11, 170—; d. Oct. 28, 1703.

118. Hezekiah, b. Aug. 20, 17—; d. Aug. 29, 1703.

119. Jared, b. March 23, 1703; bapt. in Milford, June 8, 1707; d. Nov. 6, 1707.

120. Remember, b. Aug. 20, 1708; m., Feb. 3, 1732, Thomas Stevens.

121. Hezekiah, b. Jan. 15, 1710; d. March 12, 171 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

123. Mercy, b. Jan. 10, 1714; m. Aug. 19, 1736, Philip Chatfield, of Killingworth. Ch.: (368) Sarah, Oct. 8, 1737; (369) Eleazer, Jan. 7, 1740, d. 21st same month; (370) Abigail, June 29, 1741, and (371) Stephen, Oct. 5, 1742.

124. Abigail, b. June 5, 1716; m. July 6, 1741, Joseph Waterous, of Killingworth, Conn., and had ch.: Elizabeth, April 24, 1742; James, Nov. 13, 1744; Submit, March 3, 1746; John, Jan. 19, 1748; Hepzibah, Aug. 22, 1752; Josiah (twin), April 8, 1755; Eleazer, April 8, 1755, and Asa, Nov. 13, 1757.

He removed to Killingworth, Conn., where

125. Eleazer, was b. Aug. 31, 1717. +

126. Daughter, Sept. 12, 1720.

127. Caleb, b. May 2, 1723. +

128. Hezekiah, b. Nov. 12, 1725, presumed to have d., as by tradition Caleb had but one brother, Josiah, called "Capt. Sigh."

His will, dated 1761, remembers his w. Elizabeth, and ch. Josiah, Mercy Chatfield, Abigail Waterous, and grandsons, sons Eleazer. He was a blacksmith (1722) of Killingworth. He conveyed to Samuel Baldwin, of Milford, his right in the "Indian Purchase."

129. Judith, b. July 14, 1702, Stratford Rec.)

130. Abiah, b. Oct. 13, 1706, (Milford Rec.)

He was of Stratford, Conn. In 1708, then of Stratford, was one of the proprietors of Durham, Conn. He seems to have been there for a short time, as, in 1710, he and his w. of Durham join with Sanfords and others in conveying land in Milford. It would appear from this deed that he m. Sarah Sanford,<sup>3</sup> b. 1682, dau. of Samuel,<sup>2</sup> of Milford, s. of Thomas Sanford.<sup>1</sup> He does not continue to appear in Durham, and I think he returned to Milford, and, perhaps m. 2nd time, Hester, and had ch., the name of only one of which I can give.

131. Sarah, b. 1753.

Jan. 19, 1761, the Selectmen of Milford make an indenture with Arthur Wooster, of Derby, by which they "have taken to Prentice, and bound and put Sarah Baldwin, child and dau. of Hester Baldwin, relict of Benjamin Baldwin, late of Milford, deceased, of 8 years 5 Apl. next, being very needy and poor, and already maintained, with her family and mother, by the town." Sarah "her master and mistress shall faithfully serve, their secrets keep, their lawful commands gladly obey; to them she shall do no damage, nor see it done by others; nor play at unlawful games, nor absent herself from Servis; but in all things behave herself as a faithful prentice ought to do." Wooster was bound to teach her to "read, knit, spin and sow, and all manner of work, business or learning, both of Religion and common business proper for such an apprentice." He was also bound to support her, and at the end of the term (ten years) furnish her two suits of apparel, "linnen and woollen, for all parts of her body suitable for her, and one good winter gown more, and a Bible."

132. Sarah, b. Jan. 10, 171 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

133. Hannah, b. April 10, 171 $\frac{5}{8}$ .

134. Jacob, b. Jan. 20, 171 $\frac{7}{8}$ .+

135. Justus, about 1727, was of Milford, Conn. He m. Martha Nettleton, Nov. 26, 1771; and Oct. 28, 1793, his w. Martha was exec. of his estate. His brother Jacob was made his residuary legatee. His wife's will was dated March 7, 1799.

136. Phebe, m. Warner. In 1799, the wife of her brother Justice died, leaving property to the grandchildren of this Phebe, deceased, to wit: Sarah, Laura and Phebe Hicock.

He m., March 26, 1711, Hannah Briscoe. In 1717, as son of Nathaniel Cooper, "lately of Milford," he conveys land in Milford.

40. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, Conn., Jan. 14, 1689. He continued to reside in Milford, but in the Society of Amity. He m. Rebecca. Nov. 2, 1742, he was one of the original members of the Society of Amity, and d. there, Jan. 21, 1764, and aged 75, as appears by his tombstone, in Woodbridge, Conn. This would seem to fix his identity. With the perverseness which belonged to his brothers, he left few records of his family history.

His will, dated March 28, 1763, says that having before given his older children what he was capable of giving them, he now gives to his five younger children: Jabez, Levi, Rebecca, Eli and Joseph. He was Samuel, Sen., of Amity, in 1742, the other being Samuel<sup>4</sup> Samuel<sup>3</sup> Josiah<sup>2</sup> John.<sup>1</sup> He was likely the Samuel who, in 1722, received from his cousin, of Killingworth (Josiah), a deed of his rights in the Indian Purchase. I think he must be the Samuel who had, as per New Haven Record:

137. Anne, b. Nov. 29, 1736.

138. Abigail, b. April 6, 1738.

[Of whom Abigail may be one of the other children.]

139. Jabez, living in 1763.

140. Levi, living in 1763.

[Hereafter, in this volume, will be found a Levi from Connecticut, to Vermont and Canada, who not unlikely was this one.]

141. Rebecca, m., Oct. 16, 1764, Richard Sperry, of that part of Woodbridge, Conn., then New Haven; she was his 2nd wife, the 1st being Abigail, dau. of Capt. Joel Northrup, m. Dec. 9, 1755, and d. May 22, 1764. Richard was, in 1755, called Jr.; (400) Richard, b. Aug. 17, 1765.

142. Joseph, bapt. in Amity, Jan. 8, 1744; d. y.

143. Anne, bapt. June 23, 1745; d. y.

144. Eli, bapt. Feb. 14, 1747; d. y.

145. Eli, bapt. Jan. 17, 1748. In 1773 was of New Haven, no doubt that part of Woodbridge then New Haven. He must have been, I think, the Eli of Bethlehem, Conn., estate (1794) letters to Samuel. He left a wife, Dorothy, and ch.: (401) Samuel, (402) Rebeckah, (403) Lucy, m. May 28, 1805, C. Minor; (404) Jabez, (405) Darius, (406) Aaron. Is it his widow who, as "widow B—," d. February, 1824, aged 74?

146. Israel, bapt. Jan. 4, 1750, d. y.

147. Joseph, bapt. March 8, 1752. In 1773 of Milford; d. in Bethlehem, Conn., Jan. 21, 1811, aged 59. His w. was received into the church there, May 6, 1792; d. there Jan., 1820, aged 69. Her estate in Woodbury Probate District went to (407) Leonard, (408) Keziah Benedict.

He was at New Haven, Conn., when Monday, July 5, 1779, the Fourth was celebrating. That morning the British landed at West Haven, and marched into New Haven on the Westville road. They were galled by militia, and seem to have been wantonly cruel. Dr. Daggett, then President of Yale, was taken prisoner. In his affidavit, he states he was wounded several times after his complete surrender. The number of Americans killed was twenty-seven, and wounded nineteen, the great number of killed being explained by many of them, already wounded, being killed with bayonets. Among the killed was this John Baldwin, of Branford. He m., 3rd, Catharine, who m. 2nd, Sutliff; and in 1792, her dower was distributed to three of the children below and heirs of Ambrose. (Wallingford Records.)

514. Edward (twin) b. Oct. 4, 1760. I know of his existence only by the Church Record of baptism, Jan. 3, 1762; he and William, twins. He no doubt d. y., as nothing is known of him by tradition or recollection.

204. BENJAMIN <sup>4</sup> John <sup>3</sup> Richard, <sup>2</sup> b. in Branford, Conn., July 15, 1728. In 1763. was exec'r of his father. I do not trace him, unless he was Capt. Benjamin, of Branford, who m., April 27, 1780, Lydia Branford: and son

211. FREELove<sup>1</sup> Phinehas<sup>3</sup> Richard,<sup>2</sup> b. in Milford, Conn., Dec. 5, 1728; m. Capt. Stephen Stow,<sup>5</sup> of Milford. He was b. in Middletown, Conn., May 22, 1726, s. Deacon Samuel<sup>4</sup> and Esther (Mould) Stow. Esther Mould was dau. Hugh. Deacon Samuel<sup>4</sup> Stow was s. Thomas<sup>3</sup> and Bethia (Stocking) Stow, s. Thomas<sup>2</sup> and Mary (Cragg) Stow, from Roxbury, Mass., to Middletown, s. John<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth (Bigg) Stow, who came, in 1634, from Kent, England. Capt. Stephen was a mariner. He settled in Milford about 1750. His will, dated Jan. 27, 1777, gives the use of his estate to his widow until his youngest child is of age; to Stephen, all his money and debt from Capt. Miles; to son Jedidah, a watch and Gillette lot, and all the money he has or shall earn in the service of the United States. He d. Feb. 8, 1777, just twelve days after making the will, as follows: Jan. 1, 1777, a British Cartel ship landed at Milford two hundred sick soldiers from the Sugar House and Ship Prisons of New York. These miserable victims of inhuman incarceration were suffering with small-pox and other loathsome diseases; and it was difficult, in those days of dreaded small-pox, to get nurses. Our hero volunteered for this service, and died of the disease. A soldiers' monument stands in Milford, erected to the forty-six soldiers, who died in Milford during January, 1777; and in 1872, the Legislature of Connecticut resolved to have placed, on one side of this monument, an inscription to Mr. Stow. An inscription was selected, composed by George F. Tuttle, one of his descendants, but in 1875 the funds had not been collected to cut it.

The second volume of the Publications of the New Haven Colonial Historical Society, in an article by Thomas R. Trowbridge, Jr., gives the following sketch:

“The house which has the reputation of being the most ancient in Milford, is the one known as the ‘Stowe house,’ standing on Wharf street, near the harbor. It was built at least as early as 1689, of medium size, two stories, with a high garret, covered with a gable roof, and, as usual with houses of that period, it has a heavy oaken frame, and is so compactly put together that there is no reason why it should not stand many years to come. In this house lived, during the Revolutionary War, that sterling patriot, Stephen Stow.

“In December, 1776, shortly before night, there appeared off the harbor of Milford a British vessel, carrying at her foretop ‘a flag of truce.’ Darkness increasing, she was not again seen. Near to the beach was the house of Capt. Isaac Miles (also an earnest patriot), who with his sons sitting before his fire, hearing unusual noises outside, opened the doors and found the yard filled with a large number of wild, forlorn-looking creatures, in most deplorable condition, and suffering for want of food and clothing.

“On that bitter winter night, they had been turned ashore, and left on the beach to shift for themselves. The sympathies of the Miles family and neighbors sheltered these released American prisoners for the night. In a day or two, they were removed to the Town Hall, which was prepared for them. In this building (still standing), the work of death at once commenced among these unfortunate men, who, stricken with fever, were so reduced in strength that they easily fell victims to its virulence. Here it was that the heroic work of Stephen Stow was done. Day and night his faithful ministrations to the sick and dying, and his unceasing, constant care of these men, was his sole occupation, till, becoming physically exhausted, he contracted the fever and fell a victim in his work of kindness, leaving a name to most should rank with John Howard's, who a little later gave up his life among the hospitals of Russia.*

* Barber's History of the Colony of Connecticut contains, from the "Connecticut Gazette," the following statement:

DERBY, February 15th, 1764.

On the evening of the 7th, there was a violent storm of hail and rain. The next morning after was observed a large breach in a hill on the west side of the old river, supposed to be occasioned by some subterranean wind or fire. "The breach was said to be twenty feet deep and one hundred thirteen long, and about sixty rods of land covered with the gravel and sand. Four trees, of one foot diameter, were carried one hundred and seventy-three feet, and supposed to be forced up forty feet. Some small stones stuck fast in a green tree." "A large, dry log, better than ten feet in diameter, was carried up so far in the air, that by the force of the fall one end of it stuck so fast in the ground that it kept the other end up. The narrowest part of the breach is about thirty feet at the surface of the ground; and the bottom of the breach is crooking, winding much like the streaks of lightning. The above account was taken by exact rule by us."

of the ablest Judges ever on that bench, and a man of great purity and generosity of character. He was also an eloquent advocate. He established, in 1839, a Law School in Staunton, which he conducted for several years with much success. His Lectures, comprising the whole body of common, statute and equity law, still exist in Mss. They were highly prized by his students, and he was often solicited to publish them. He was for many years Presiding Judge of the Court of Appeals, and has been widely known through his masterly expositions of law contained in Grattan's Reports. He was a graduate of the University of Virginia. At twenty-one, he commenced the practice of law in Staunton, Va., as partner of his brother-in-law, Hon. A. H. H. Stuart. He soon achieved eminence as a lawyer and political debater. As soon as eligible by age, he became a Member of the House, and of marked ability in debate. He was opposed to Secession; and in 1860, in favor of Bell and Everett, he commenced the canvas in Richmond. The Richmond papers characterized the speech as a "masterly and extraordinary effort." In the State Convention of 1861, he displayed "transcendent ability" in opposition to Secession. He visited President Lincoln in behalf of the Union members. Secession being determined upon, he supported his State. He became Inspector General; then Colonel of the 52nd Va. Reg.; then Member of the Confederate Congress. The debates of that body were secret, but Baldwin is understood to have maintained his reputation. His speech against the suspension of Habeas Corpus has often been described as one of the noblest defences of liberty ever pronounced in this country. After Lee's surrender, he took part in what is believed to have been the first meeting for the re-establishment of the government. He was Speaker of the next House of Delegates. He was afterward of marked influence in Conventions; and President of one, which, although he declined, nearly nominated him as Governor. 1817. Burr, b. Oct. 26, 1829. Frank Leslie's illustrated paper, of April 8, 1871, gives the following account of Burr, accompanied with an excellent likeness:

“THE LATE COL. BURR PORTER.

“On the mournfully long list of soldiers slain while fighting for the glory and honor of France, there is the name of an American, a soldier of taste, and it might also be said by profession, whose memory is very dear to a circle as large and influential as ever greeted a genial gentleman.

“During the retreat of the intrepid Bourbaki, toward the Swiss frontier, Col. Burr Porter, of Newark, N. J., who was serving as a staff officer, was shot in the breast while leading his command in a skirmish with the Prussians, shouting, but a few moments before being struck, while his sword described a circle over his head: ‘I will show you how we fight in America!’ His body was removed to the residence of the cure of the village, and, after being viewed by his brother officers, was interred with all the impressive ceremonies of the French army.

“Col. Porter was a son of the Rev. Burr Baldwin, formerly Principal of the old Newark Academy, and when four years of age, was adopted by his uncle, P. H. Porter, Esq., with whom he always lived. He pursued his scholastic education at Rutgers College, graduating in 1849, with the highest honors.

“During the Crimean war, he went to Turkey and was attached to Omar Pasha's Staff, and subsequently was made a “Bashaw,” or Colonel of a regiment of Arabs. Here his bravery and natural military tact were put to severe tests. His command was an important one, and its duties developed the fine soldierly qualities of his nature. The best evidence of the high appreciation in which he was held by Omar Pasha, were the brilliant decorations conferred upon him, which literally covered his breast. After leaving Turkey, he spent several years in Paris and Vienna, studying military engineering. Returning to America, he resumed the legal profession till the outbreak of the civil war, when he became attached to Maj. Gen. Fremont's Staff, and served with him in Virginia until after the battle of Cross Keys. Upon the relief of Gen. Fremont, Col. Porter went to Massachusetts, where he had intimate personal relations with Gov. Andrew, who offered him his choice of ten regiments then forming at Readville, under the call of 1862. Accepting the Fortieth, he served with credit, and subsequently was transferred to the Third Massachusetts Cavalry, in which he remained until the close of the war.

"Little can here be added to the testimony of the daily press, in praise of his important services, his rare intelligence, his genial disposition, and his elevated literary tastes. He was in very truth a representative American, progressive and liberal in his opinions, steadfast as a friend, and sensitive to a high degree. His writings were always seasonable in subject, and attractive in style, exhibiting a thoroughness of study, confidence of expression, and clearness of description.

"His affection for the French amounted to an enthusiasm, which disasters only increased, while he frequently expressed his expectations of the heroic fate that deprived France of a soldier as honest, and the world of a man as pure as ever lived. He left a wife, the daughter of Oliver Ditson, Esq., and one child."

* Mr. Baldwin had extracts from the records of Aston Clinton, and it was partly in supposed support of his views, as differing from those of Mr. Savage (whose Mss. he had), that I commenced the English investigation, which showed the Sylvester emigrant was not the son of Richard, as said Mr. Savage, or of Thomas, as said Mr. Baldwin, but of Sylvester. Mr. Isaac Palmer Baldwin deduced his own genealogy as follows: Eli (6), Matthew (5), Caleb (4), Samuel (3), Daniel (2), Nathaniel (1). I have several times had occasion to differ from descendants in the early lines. This arises from the fact, that there were many cases in Milford of several of the same name. I found it necessary to trace every line in full to identify them.

TIMOTHY BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONNECTICUT,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. TIMOTHY BALDWIN, of Milford, Conn., one of the first settlers, in 1639; joined the Church there in 1643, with Mary his wife, who died July 31, 1647. In 1640, "Itt is ordered (New Haven Colonial Records), that Tymo. Baldwin's lott shall have land laid to itt for 6 heads, and 500 l, and reserved for an elder." This was ordered, 1644-5, to be bought in by the town. He was the eldest son of Richard Baldwin, of Cholesbury, Buckinghamshire, England, whose will was made in 1633, and Timothy was executor. An account of Richard, and copy of the will, will be found in the early part of this volume, under Richard<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup> of Bucks county. That he was a brother of Nathaniel, appears from an entry from the long, narrow book of Milford Records, transcribed in 1700 by Richard Bryan, by order of the town. In this, it appears (page 118), "12 Dec., 1649, Timothy Baldwin bought of his brother Nathaniel one parcel of land." Timothy lived for a while in Guilford, Conn., about 1650, having married, March 5, 1645, Mary Mepham, widow of John, of Guilford. She was a relative of Gov. Fenwick, who married Frances Appleby, daughter of Sir Edward. About 1651 or 1652, they sold the Mepham property, and moved back to Milford. Her son John Mepham moved to Southampton, Long Island. She joined the Church in Milford, December, 1653. He died the night following Jan. 17, 166 $\frac{2}{3}$ . His widow then married Thomas Tapping, of Milford, the contract for the marriage being made Oct. 20, 1666. Tapping was a leading man, Captain, Representative and Assistant, who survived her and married, in 1678, a third wife, as she had a third husband. It does not appear that she had any children by Tapping. Savage says, John Mephram was remembered in Timothy's will. In 1656, he was witness to the will of Rev. Peter Prudden, of Milford. Timothy Baldwin's homestead was on the west side of Milford Main street, just south of where the N. Y. & N. H. R. R. crosses the trestle work.

2. Mary, bapt. April 2, 1643; m., Oct. 21, 1660, Benjamin Smith, s. William, of Huntington, L. I. She was buried Aug. 3, 1680, and he m. 2nd, Sarah, widow of Robert Houghton, dau. Gamaliel Phippen, and was living in 1700. Her ch. were: Mary, 1662; Hannah, 1664; Benjamin, 1666; Abigail, 1668, d. soon; Timothy, 1669; Sarah, 1671; and Samuel, 1678.

3. Hannah, bapt. in August, 1644; m., as 2nd wife, Elnathan Botsford, s. Henry, of Milford, and b. Aug. 14, 1641. He lived there and had ch. by her: Esther, 1668; Samuel, 1670; Mary, 1672; Joanna, 1674, d. before 1691; Henry, Joseph, Timothy, John, Hannah and Sarah. All but Joanna were named in his will, of Aug. 4, 1691. He m. 1st, Dec. 12, 1664, Elizabeth, dau. John Fletcher, and had only Elizabeth, 1665.

4. Sarah, bapt. in August, 1645; m., Dec. 14, 1663, Samuel Buckingham, bapt. in 1641, s. Thomas, of Milford. Children: Sarah, Jan. 8, 1664; Mary, Oct. 3, 1666, d. y.; Samuel, Oct. 1, 1667, d. y.; Samuel, Nov. 1, 1668; Hannah, March 27, 167 $\frac{9}{10}$ , buried May 2, 1671; Thomas, June 25, 1672; Anne, June 17, 1674, probably d. unm.; Mary, March 13, 1676; Hester, May 4, 1677; and Ruth, bapt. May 16, 1681.

5. Abigail, bapt. Dec. 29, 1650; d. 1660.

6. Anne, b. July 1, 1655; d. 21st, same month.

7. Timothy, b. June 12, 1658. +

7. TIMOTHY<sup>2</sup> Timothy,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, June 12, 16<sup>5</sup>8; he d. there Dec. 8, 1703, and his wife Mary d. Nov. 27, 1703. He was Sergeant Timothy, of Milford. He was a farmer, as appears from a deed made by him.

35. Marie, bapt. Nov. 26, 1684.

36. Billing, bapt. May 16, 1697.

37. Timothy, bapt. Jan. 21, 16 $\frac{99}{100}$ ; d. February, 16 $\frac{99}{100}$ .

The account generally given of this Timothy has ended here, leaving out Billing.

After considerable search of the Milford Records, I have been unable to clear up satisfactorily the history. Timothy had a right in New Milford, and in 1706, among the proprietors there was Billing, in the right of her father, Serg't Timothy, late of Milford, deceased. Jan. 19, 1719, (Milford Records C, page 74.) Billing Baldwin conveys to her brother-in-law, Samuel Camp, a tract or parcel of land, "formerly my honored father, Timothy Baldwin, late of Milford," and since his death set to her. The same year she conveys to Nathaniel Fenn one-third of the right of her father in certain lands, looking as if she might be only one of three heirs. Samuel Camp, June 17, 1708, makes conveyances to his brothers, Daniel Baldwin (probably Daniel,<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel<sup>1</sup>) and Joseph Camp. If Timothy left a third heir, I do not think it was a son, as, after thorough and repeated search among all the early Baldwins of Connecticut, I find no male who could be heir of this Timothy. There may have been a third daughter, whose identity may be concealed by marriage. Perseverance in the Milford Record of deeds would likely disclose. In October, 1703, the General Court at Hartford appointed "Sergeant Timothie Baldwin" one of the committee "for the regulation of the township purchased by the inhabitants of Milford, lying at Wiautonuck, they bearing the charges." A patent was just before provided for the town, to be named "New Milford." In October, 1698, Sergeant Samuel Camp, was appointed Lieutenant of the 2nd Company in Milford. In 1716, Samuel Camp was a proprietor of Durham.

NATHANIEL BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONNECTICUT,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. NATHANIEL BALDWIN was one of the first settlers of Milford, where he was a free planter, Nov. 29, 1639. He was probably the brother of Joseph, and was certainly the brother of Timothy, as, in 1650, he conveys land to his brother Timothy. (Milford Records.) The three settled in Milford together. I place Nathaniel second in the list because such was the apparent order of ages of the children. Nathaniel was a cooper, and removed to Fairfield; he was there in 1641. He married Abigail Camp, who joined the Church at Milford, June 9, 1644, and died there, March 22, 1648. He had children by her.

2. John, bapt. June, 1644. +
3. Daniel, bapt. June, 1644. +
4. Nathaniel, bapt. January, 1645. +
5. Abigail, bapt. March 19, 1648, and d., says Dr. Talcott, in 1668.

He married 2nd, Joanna Westcoat, widow of Richard, of Fairfield, Conn., and moved there, perhaps the second time. By her he had children.

6. Sarah, b. 1650.
7. Deborah, b. 1652.
8. Samuel, b. 1655. +

Thus had I written before the report of Mr. Chester, from England, which leaves no reasonable doubt that Nathaniel was the second son of Richard, of Parish Cholesbury, Buckinghamshire, England, and brother of Timothy and Joseph. (See the discussion of the English part of this genealogy, under Richard<sup>1</sup> of Bucks county, Richard.<sup>2</sup> Ante page 23.)

He died in 1650, and the Probate of his estate appears in Fairfield. It is given to his eldest son John, a double share; to the three children of his last wife, equal to each other; and the children of the former wife, now living at Milford, are to have a share equal to the three. Mr. Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, makes his widow marry Thomas Skidmore; but Mr. Byron A. Baldwin, a careful genealogist, descended of this line, states that she made a contract with Skidmore in regard to marriage, which was recorded, but did not marry him. She married 3rd George Abbott, of Fairfield, and died in 1682. Mrs. Baldwin, or "Goodwife Baldwin," was a witness in 1654, in so curious a lawsuit that I will mention it. "Knapp's wife" had been executed as a witch in Fairfield, and Roger Ludlow, of that town, had reported to Rev. John Davenport and others that Goodwife Staples was a witch, and so reported by Mrs. Knapp before her execution. Ludlow was a man of note, chosen Assistant in London, of Massachusetts Colony; in 1634, Deputy Governor of Connecticut; from 1651 to 1653, Commissioner of the United Colonies. Thomas Staples, the husband, with courage sued Ludlow for the slander, and the case appears in full in the New Haven Colonial Records. Davenport had thought his letter testimony enough, but Ludlow requiring an oath, so Davenport "lookes at an oath in case of necessity for confirmation of truth, to end strife among men, as an ordinance of God, according to Heb. 6: 16; he thereupon declares as followeth." Thomas Shermington and Christopher Comstock and Goodwife Baldwin were all together at the Minor house, where Goodwife Knapp was; and y<sup>e</sup> said Goodwife Baldwin asked her whether she, the said Knapp, knew if any other (witch), and she said there were some or one that had received Indian Gods, that were very bright. The said Baldwin asked her how she could tell, if she were not a witch herself; and she said the party told her so, and her husband was witness to it; and to this they were all sworn and doe depose." It appeared, by another witness, that Goodwife Baldwin then, in Knapp's prison, had said Knapp told her there was a woman in      who would be hanged for a witch and clear the prison      the woman had told Knapp      Indian, which are shir      day." It appeared 1

Goodwife Staples was the one, and received the shining Gods: and the Indian told her, if she would keep them, she should be so big rich, all one God." In justice to Goody Staples, it should perhaps be said, that Knapp admitted Staples said she had given them back. The Court at New Haven mulcted Ludlow ten pounds for the slander, and five for the plaintiffs' cost. Ludlow had already taken steps to go into Virginia, in disgust, it is said; perhaps not desiring longer to live where his efforts against the heinous sin of witchcraft were not appreciated.

An unusual number of the descendants of Nathaniel have been eminent, and the family generally of high respectability. Numbers of his descendants have made substantial progress in tracing this family, among whom I may mention the late Lewis M. Norton, of Goshen, Conn. Dr. Talcott, of Guilford, Conn., and Byron A. Baldwin, Esq., of Chicago. The latter gentleman printed in the "New England Historical and Genealogical Register," for April, 1871, a partial Genealogy, entitled "Nathaniel Baldwin and one Line of his Descendants." The late Hon. Ralph D. Smith, of Guilford, had procured from various sources a list of descendants second only to that of Dr. Talcott. Mr. Smith says Nathaniel went to Branford to live, but soon left.*

2. JOHN<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup> bapt. at Milford in 1644; m. there, Nov. 19, 1663, Hannah, dau. Richard Osborne. He removed to Newark, N. J., and was there known as John, Jun., the senior being John, son of John, Sen., of Milford. Mr. Savage says he had a son, born in Milford, in 1665, perhaps Richard. There were so many Johns in Milford, (John,<sup>1</sup> Sen.; John,<sup>2</sup> his son; John,<sup>2</sup> son of Nathaniel; John,<sup>1</sup> brother of Richard, and John,<sup>1</sup> his cousin,) that it is much easier to tell what children were left by the Johns, than with certainty what children they may have had die young. This John, or John, Jun., made his will, dated Dec. 25, 1688, at Newark, in the Government of New England, and which remembers his son John, and dau., Hannah Tichenor.

3. DANIEL<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup> bapt. in Milford. Conn., 1644, and continued to reside there. He m., June 27, 1665, Elizabeth Botsford, dau. Henry, one of the original settlers of Milford. He and his wife joined the Church June 27, 1669.

Daniel, the father, is said to have died in 1711, but I have not the proof.

4. NATHANIEL<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup> b. Jan. 2, 1645, in Milford; bapt. in 1646. The Nathaniels of the second and third generations, in Milford, are more difficult to trace satisfactorily than any other name, and I have spent more time upon them. This Nathaniel was a weaver, and married, March 12, 167 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Hannah, dau. Henry Botchford, of Milford, sister to the wife of his brother Daniel. There was a second Nathaniel, cooper, who was the son of John, Sen.; but that Nathaniel, son of Nathaniel, was the weaver, appears from the fact that Nathaniel, weaver, was also senior. He is supposed by some, among others the late R. D. Smith, to be the one said to have been killed in the Swamp fight of 1675. All agree that he married, as stated above, and was a weaver; yet, April 12, 1678, Henry Botchford conveys to his son-in-law, Nathaniel, Sen.—and in the ancient book of deeds of Milford it is indexed to Nathaniel, weaver—a deed, May 20, 1678, to Nathaniel; June 20, 1678, to Nathaniel, Sen.; and May 20, 1678, to Nathaniel, Sen., son-in-law to Henry Botchford. He was made freeman in 1671. His father-in-law made a will, dated July 1, 1685, remembering his "son-in-law, Nathaniel Baldwin, and the four children he had by my daughter Hannah." These four children were Elizabeth, Hannah, Ester and Samuel :

19. Elizabeth, b. June 9, 1673; she m. Stephen Parmelee, of Milford, who, in 1714, was of Newtown, Conn. He had at least a son Noah, to whom, in 1729<sup>2</sup>/<sub>30</sub>, he conveyed land. He perhaps had other ch., and a son or grandson was probably Stephen, of Newtown, who had a wife Betsey, and children: Jehiel, 1742; Anor, 1746; Lideah, 1748; Sibbel, 1750; Betty, Oct. 10, 1753; and who, by 2nd wife Hannah, had Phebe, 1757; Hannah, 1759; and a daughter, named Arminal, 1765.

20. Hannah, July 11, 1674; bapt. July 12, as dau. of sister Hannah Baldwin; m. Samuel Sanford, of Milford.

21. Ester, b. Nov. 14, 1676, as dau. Nathaniel, Sen.; bapt. Nov. 19, 1676, and buried 21st, as dau. of "sister wife of Nathaniel."

22. Ester, b. May 25, 1683, as dau. Nathaniel, Sen.; bapt. Dec. 19, 1686, as child of "sister Hannah, now deceased." She m. Samuel Sanford, of Newtown, Conn. +

23. Samuel, b. Jan. 14, 1684 (5, New Style;) bapt. Dec. 19, 1686, as child of "sister Hannah, now deceased." He no doubt d. y.

Nathaniel m. 2nd. Martha, dau. David Mitchell, of Stratford; she d. April, 1691. Oct. 14, 1688, Nathaniel, his wife Martha and dau. Hannah were all admitted to Milford Church, and the same day were baptized.

24. Daniel, bapt. Oct. 14, 1688, as son of "Brother Nathaniel, weaver." He d. Jan. 6, 1711<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>, as son (Town Record) of Nathaniel, Sen.

I had given him a child, Samuel, b. Jan. 14, 1688<sup>5</sup>/<sub>6</sub>, but he must have been the son of Nathaniel, cooper, as shown by sharing part of his estate, and age at death. In the list of 1686, our Nathaniel, as weaver, has £87; in 1712, as senior, he has £74 14s.; Jan. 22, 1676, he draws, as Nathaniel, a lot next to the Common, on the east side line fence, while Nathaniel, Jun., draws on the west side. In 1697, he is Surveyor. April 25, 1692, as weaver, he received a deed from Nathaniel, cooper. April 11, 1709, Samuel Sanford conveys to his father, Nathaniel Baldwin, indexed to weaver; and January, 1710, Nathaniel Baldwin, Sen., conveys to his son-in-law, Samuel Sanford, of Milford; and in 1713, like deeds appear. His will, dated June 8, 1714, proved in New Haven Probate, June 22, 1714, gives to his present wife Elizabeth, which must be at least his 3rd. To son, and dau. Elizabeth, and Stephen Parmelee, on condition of a payment to Samuel Sanford, of Newtown; to his son Samuel Sanford, of Newtown; to his son Samuel Sanford, of Milford, who is sole executor. The mention of two Samuel Sanfor seemed at first like a mistake; but I subsequently found, in Milford Records, a deed from one to the other.

8. SAMUEL<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel.<sup>1</sup> b. in Fairfield, Conn., 1655; m. Abigail, b. Nov. 16, 1658, dau. John Baldwin, Sen., of Milford. He was a blacksmith, and was invited from Fairfield to Guilford, in 1675, by a vote of the town of Guilford,* "to work upon his trade of smithing, upon trial." The trade was then in high repute, as many Town Records show. I have met with numbers of instances of similar solicitation, of wealth acquired, and positions of honor filled by the "smith." The present one no doubt proved satisfactory upon trial, as he continued to reside in Guilford, accumulating a handsome property, and raising a large family to be prosperous and well married. We shall see that his grandson, a blacksmith, numbered among his children a Senator of the United States and Governor of Georgia, a Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States and the first Speaker of the House in Ohio, while the daughters were equally well mated.

The town of Guilford granted him, July 15, 1676, half an acre upon the Green, opposite John Bishop's house, for his shop, "for his encouragement and accommodation of his trade," with the promise that if he left, it should return to the town, they paying for buildings, fences and orchard. He died Jan. 12, 1696. The distribution was to his widow and eldest son, and to each of the others, being five in number.

25. Abigail, b. Dec. 14, 1678; m., June 24, 1697, Joseph Starr, s. Comfort, of Middletown, Conn., and b. Sept. 23, 1676. They lived at Middletown. Children: Joseph, Sept. 26, 1698; Daniel, Jan. 18, 1701; Samuel, Jan. 5, 1704; Thomas, Sept. 14, 1706; Nathaniel, June 19, 1709; Abigail, Oct. 16, 1711; Elizabeth, Nov. 11, 1715; Jehosaphat, Sept. 20, 1718; and Comfort, Oct. 20, 1722.

26. Deborah, b. April 8, 1681; d. Dec. 5, 1681.

27. Dorothy, b. Dec. 27, 1683; m.,<sup>4</sup> September, 1708, Ziba Tryon, of Weathersfield, Conn.. Children: James, July 26, 1709; Rowland, July 13, 1711; Dorothy, July 1, 1713; and Oliver, Dec. 15, 1715.

28. Joanna, b. May 18, 1686; m. 1st, Samuel Rose, of Branford; 2nd, Sept. 13, 1715, Ebenezer Frisbie, of Branford, and d. March 21, 1751.

29. Samuel, b. Jan. 13, 1689. +

30. Timothy, b. April 14, 1691. +

31. Nathaniel, b. Nov. 28, 1693. +

* Rev. Lyman Beecher alludes to this in his Autobiography. He thinks the Guilford settlers were gentlemen, "and not a merchant or mechanic among them; and it was with much trouble and expense that they secured even a blacksmith." The trade of blacksmith was then very honorable; and no doubt much more politics of Church and State were discussed and settled at the village blacksmith shop than on a farm.

31. NATHANIEL<sup>3</sup> Samuel<sup>2</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>1</sup> b. Nov. 28, 1693, in Guilford, Conn.; m., April 8, 1718, Elizabeth, dau. It appears, from the Guilford Records (1720), that he was a weaver. He was Deacon in the three towns where he resided. He bid off two shares ( $\frac{2}{53}$ ) in Goshen, July 14, 1738, and in that year was one of the Proprietors' Committee for laying out the town. At the first Town Meeting, Dec. 6, 1739, he was one of the Selectmen; at the next, Moderator. At the first Proprietors' Meeting, he was chosen Treasurer; and after this, was continually engaged in public business. He was associated with his son-in-law, Ebenezer Norton, in all the business of the Proprietors: and the latter seems to have been his right-hand man, although it is reputed that he did not at first like the marriage which made them relatives. Goshen had no Representatives until 1757: he was Representative in 1759 and 1760, the year of his death. He is said to have been unassuming in manners, a good citizen, and a meek and devoted Christian. His lands were in the north part of Goshen: his frame house was on the west side of East street, a few rods southwest of the present brick house, near the road leading from East street to Hart Hollow. His widow was blind for some time before she died.

36. MOSES<sup>4</sup> John<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> b. in Newark, N. J.; d. Nov. 5, 1732, and by his own memoranda, found among his loose papers, it appears that his birth was two months after his father died, and four years before his mother died. Mr. Baldwin goes on to say: "After the death of the latter, I lived about two years with my uncle Harrison; after this, I lived with Amos Ball, my mother's uncle, till I was fifteen years of age, when God in His Providence, was pleased to remove him by death. After this, I put myself to learn a trade, which I pursued until I was nineteen years of age, when God gave me a greater sense of my lost state, and of the importance of salvation than I had ever yet had. Upon this being, I resolved to seek God till I found Him through all." Here the writing ends. But Moses went to Princeton, being a graduate of the first class, 1757. He became a Presbyterian clergyman, and settled in Palmer, Mass., in 1761. He was invited, 1760, from Southold, L. I., on trial. He was thought to be not more than "half a Presbyterian," and there was some objection to his installation on that account; but it took place June 17, 1761, and he remained minister of that Church until June 19, 1811. He continued afterward in Palmer, and d. Nov. 2, 1813. He was a plain preacher, struggling hard with a poorly-paid salary. He had at the outset sixty pounds, and he bought of the town, for one hundred and fifty pounds, a farm of one hundred and fifty acres, "set apart for the minister's lot." He m. Rebecca Lee, b. 77. MICHAEL<sup>4</sup> Timothy<sup>3</sup> Samuel,<sup>2</sup> b. in Guilford, Conn., April 2, 1719. His father owning land in Goshen, Conn., he went there to "settle his father's rights," by which is to be understood such settlement or use of the land as was necessary to prevent the lapsing of the grant. This caution doubtless did much to encourage the surprising migration of early times in Connecticut; and this book has repeated instances of settlements, sometimes not permanent, no doubt induced by this species of homestead law. Byron A. Baldwin informs me that three years was necessary to this settlement. He returned before July 9, 1743, to Guilford. The lands of Timothy, thus settled, came afterward mostly to his son Stephen. He m. 1st, Dec. 7, 1749, Lucy Dudley, dau. William and Ruth (Strong) Dudley, of Guilford; she was b. March 29, 1721, and d. June 2, 1758. He m. 2nd, November, 1768, Theodora Wolcot, b. Nov. 4, 1746, dau. Josiah and Ruth (White) Wolcot, of Coventry, Conn. He removed to New Haven as early as 1775, to educate his family. Judge Simeon Baldwin said he was a man of "powerful, but uncultivated mind." He seems to have wished his children to be cultivated; and it is seldom a man has such a family, of whom one was United States Senator and Governor, one Judge of the United States Supreme Court, one speaker of the House in Ohio; one daughter married Joel Barlow, and one Col. Bomford. The other children were highly respectable. He was a blacksmith, and a highly-respected descendant tells us that they are proud of the trade. This feeling, of the dignity of labor, is pleasing.

Michael died in 1787; adm., Oct. 12, 1787, to his sons Dudley and Abraham. At the invasion of New Haven, during the Revolutionary war, his house was on George street, facing College street. It is said to have been protected by a British officer in the expedition, who had been a paroled prisoner in the latest French war, and had in some way found a temporary home at this house, then kept as a sort of country tavern. (Collections New Haven Colony History. Vol. 2, page 60.)

166. Ruth, b. March 4, 1751; d. in 1755.

167. Dudley, b. April 17, 1753. +

168. Abraham, b. Nov. 22, 1754; graduated at Yale College in 1772; was a tutor there from 1775 to 1779; was for a short time Chaplain in the Revolution. He studied law, settled in Savannah, Ga., and was soon after a Member of the Legislature. He planned the University of Georgia, drew the Charter, got it adopted, and was for a while its President. He was a Member of the Continental Congress from 1785 to 1788, and a Member of the United States Constitutional Convention. From 1789 to 1799, he was a Representative in Congress; and from 1799 to 1807, United States Senator. He d. March 4, 1807, unm.

169. Ruth, b. Sept. 13, 1756; m., Jan. 26, 1781, the famous Joel Barlow. He was b. 1755, in Reading, Conn., youngest of ten children. His father determined to send him to College, but died, leaving him barely sufficient to pay the expense. In 1774, he entered Dartmouth, but soon removed to Yale, graduating in 1778, delivering at commencement a poem, called "The Prospect of Peace," which was quite popular. The army was composed largely of religious men, and there was much demand for Chaplains, so he served in that capacity. At the close of the war, he retired from the army and ministry together, and resumed the study of law at Hartford. He soon after, with Mr. Babcock, founded the "Hartford Mercury," a brilliant sheet. His poetical reputation was then so high that the General Association applied to him to prepare for its use a Psalmody. Some of his versifications were of great beauty. This was used till the one prepared by President Dwight; the main reason for the change, it is said, being the report that Barlow had become tinctured with French views. In 1787, the "Vision of Columbus" was published, and he gave his attention to literature, being a very leading member of the "Club of Hartford Wits." Its paper, "The Anarchist," had considerable influence toward our present constitution. Shortly after, he went abroad as agent, in England and France, of "The Scioto Land Company," which promised great things to him as well as others. The managers of the Company were dishonest, and Barlow withdrew still poor. He remained abroad (1789), gaining a scanty living by his pen, and at last a reputation abroad. In 1795, he had business in the North of Europe, and returning, found a commission to Algiers. He negotiated treaties with Algiers, Tripoli and Tunis, and liberated many poor American sufferers. In 1797, he returned to Paris, and engaged in commerce, gaining a large fortune. In 1805, he returned with his wife to America, and settled in Washington, on ample grounds, laid out with exquisite taste, and with a fine house. "Kalorama" was a noted spot. In 1808, he published "The Columbiad." In 1811, he became Minister to France. The "Berlin and Milan decree" gave much trouble to this country, and Barlow wanted to see Napoleon in person. In October, 1812, he was invited to meet him at Wilna, in Poland. The exposure caused his death, Dec. 22, 1812, at Zarnawica, in Poland. He was very happy with his wife, who was a person of superior intellect, amiable, dignified, yet easy and graceful, and of unusual beauty. My sketch of Mr. Barlow is drawn from an elegant article by one of his wife's collateral relatives, (Rev. A. C. Baldwin, of Hartford,) in the "New Englander," for 1873. The writer has there a letter, written in 1796, by Mr. Barlow to his wife, from Algiers, when he thought his life uncertain. The letter is much too long to quote here, but is a beautiful tribute, alike honorable to the husband and wife. It displays the greatest love, respect and confidence, as well as an honorable desire for further good, and trust in her to help in that. The letter is very touching in its sentiments. He gave her by his will all his property. She died May 30, 1818. They had no children.

* In Lyman Beecher's Autobiography, he is asked by Mrs. Stowe if there were any slaves in North Guilford. He says: "Yes, a few; Darb, the filler, was a slave, belonged to old Mr. Ben. Rossitur. Darb came in one evening and played dancing tunes after I was abed. There were about a dozen slaves in North Guilford, but the slavery was very lenient. Old Priest Fowler's Moses was quite the man of business; sent Johnny Fowler to College, and paid the bills, managed the farm, rang the church bell, and was factotum. He lived a slave because he was a king."

His biographer says he loved each of his wives with a sincere, tender and pure love. He d. November, 1839. His widow is living, 1875. The fourth edition of his biography was published, 1874, in Cincinnati, Ohio, 314 pages, entitled "Conversion of a Skeptic, a Member of the Bar," by Rev. M. P. Gaddis, Sen. The volume shows strongly, the religious, ardent character of its subject, although it is thought by his friends not to be properly appreciative in all respects. It is said that he was never properly a skeptic.

Charles R., in his "Autobiographical Sketches," says his mother was a very pious woman and highly esteemed. His father was a farmer once in affluent circumstances, but reduced by much sickness in his family and other circumstances. He exchanged, in 1815, his farm for lands on Lake Erie, where he removed in 1817.

Mr. Baldwin now, 1878, resides in Chicago, Ill., having charge of the branch wholesale paint store of the well-known New York firm of J. W. Masury & Co. I am under much obligation to him in the matter of genealogy; to no one more, save Dr. Talcott, of Guilford. He is a careful, judicious genealogist, of good, cool judgment, and could have done this branch, had he undertaken it, better than myself. He is the author of the article in the "New England Historical Genealogical Register," entitled "Nathaniel Baldwin, and one Line of his Descendants," which was separately printed. His miscellaneous collections were, I am very sorry to say, destroyed in the Chicago fire. His Mss. volume on Nathaniel is in my hands while I am preparing these pages.

JOSEPH BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONN. & HADLEY, MASS.

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

---

1. JOSEPH was one of the first settlers in Milford, in 1639, and his name appears Nov. 20. of that year, in the first list of free planters.

There is the following evidence that he was brother to Nathaniel and Timothy:

The earliest records of Milford are not in existence, but the "3rd book" contains a transcript of "the most necessary things contained in the two former books," transcribed by Major Robert Treat, and six others as Committee, Jan. 7, 1677, Samuel Eells being appointed to do the writing.

In this transcribed book, Joseph Baldwin has, December, 1648, a division adjoining Timothy Baldwin's half division. He also has, in a transcription of the "long narrow book," in 1649, 4 acres, be it more or less, in the New Meadow plain, bounded with Timothy Baldwin west, with the common N. & E., and with Wm. Fowlers E. (S!)

The transcription of the "long narrow book" was made December y<sup>e</sup> 23, 1700. by Richard Bryan. Ap'l 24th, 1654, he hath liberty granted him "for to exchange and lay down one piece of land, and take up another for it, in the New Meadow Plain next his brothers' land, that he formerly laid down to the town again."

On the 13th Dec., of the same year, he "having formerly made writing to y<sup>e</sup> Court, & now reviews it againe for liberty to exchange that land of his, or some part of it that lieth near to his brother, to take it up next unto him, for his ease in sending, which was granted unto him."

The homestead of Joseph was on lot 52, on West Farm street opposite, joining rears or nearly so, with the homestead of Timothy. The present New York and New Haven Railroad is very nearly on the line of the two. It seems to be clear that Joseph was the brother of Timothy, and, if so, of Nathaniel, as these last two were brothers, as appears by page 118 of the same volume, in Milford Records. Joseph was probably the youngest, as he is named last in his father's will. There can be no practical doubt that Timothy, Nathaniel and Joseph were the three of that name, sons of Richard, of Cholesbury, County Bucks, England, whose will was proved in 1633, and whose children disappeared from Bucks. Cholesbury joins Aston Clinton, whence came most of the other Baldwins of Milford. (See for Richard, of Cholesbury, in the early part of this volume, page 23, Richard<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> of Bucks.)

Joseph's wife Hannah joined the Church June 23, 1644, and their first four children were then baptized. About 1663, he removed to Hadley, Mass., freeman there, with his son Joseph in 1666. He m. 2nd, Isabel Northam, widow of James Northam, who had come with her son John as Widow Catlin, from Newark, N. J., and she died Dec. 8, 1676. He m. 3rd, Elizabeth Hitchcock, widow of William Warriner, of Springfield. He died Nov. 2, 1684; his widow, April 25, 1696. He had, long before death, conveyed a half interest in his homestead in Hadley to his son Joseph, who died before him. His will (in Northampton, Mass.), is dated Dec. 20, 1680. His property in Milford was given to his three sons, Benjamin, Jonathan and Joseph, to whom he had formerly given it. His other property is distributed to his wife, and to his other children.

2. Joseph, bapt. June 23, 1644; b. probably about 1640. +

3. Benjamin, bapt. June 23, 1644; b. about 1642. +

4. Hannah, bapt. June 23, 1644; m., May 6, 1658, Jeremiah Hull, of New Haven. He was the son of Richard Hull, of that place, and living there in 1685. Hannah is remembered in her father's will, which also directed £5 to be given at eighteen years of age to her dau. Mary. There may have been other ch.

5. Mary, bapt. June 23, 1644; m. John Catlin, s. of her stepmother, and from Arthur Kill, N. J., to Deerfield, Mass. The inventory of his estate, taken Feb. 23, 1702, was presented May 15, 1704. That he is the same Catlin mentioned by Mr. Savage, but first name not given, is proved by the distribution made in 1705 or 1706. Children: Joseph; John, 1663; Jonathan; Elizabeth, m. James Corse; Hannah, m. Thomas Bascom, and she d. 1746—a partial account of her descendants is in the History of Northfield, Mass.: Sarah, m. Michael Mitchell; Esther, m. Ebenezer Smead; and Ruth.

Mr. Savage says Elizabeth (Catlin) Corse, with her brothers Joseph and John and the family, were all killed by the French and Indians, in the assault at Deerfield, Feb. 29, 1704. "Yet the name is kept up in the vicinity." Not all of the name were killed. Joseph Catlin's inventory was taken Jan. 1, 1705<sup>6</sup>, and he left the widow Hannah and only ch. John, to whom Nathaniel Clark was guardian. The distribution of the estate of John the first was to John the grandson a double portion (as representing Joseph's eldest son); to the children of Elizabeth Corse; to Thomas Bascom, in right of his wife; to Michael Mitchell, in right of his wife; to Ebenezer Smead, in right of his wife; to dau. Ruth and s. John.

6. Elizabeth, bapt. March, 1645, in Milford, Conn.; m., March 31, 1664, at Hadley, James Warriner, of Springfield, eldest s. of her stepmother and William Warriner, of Springfield. She had ch.: Samuel, Nov. 21, 1666, d. aged two yrs.; James, July 19, 1668; Elizabeth, Aug. 1, 1670; William, Jan. 6, 1673; Hannah, Feb. 15, 1675; Joseph, Nov. 6, 1677; Samuel, Jan. 26, 1680; Ebenezer, March 4, 1682; and Mary, April 1, 1685. May 16, 1704, and he m. 3rd, Dec. 19, 1706, as her 3rd husband, Mary, widow of Benjamin Stebbins. He d. May 14, 1727. Of these fifteen ch., twelve were m.

7. Martha, bapt. in Milford, March, 1645; m. at Hadley, Dec. 26, 1667, John Hawkes, s. John, of Hadley. She d. Jan. 7, 1676, before her father, who remembered her. Children: John, June 26, 1671, d. y.; John, m. Thankful —, and killed Feb. 29, 1704; and Hannah, m., 1694, Jonathan Scott, of Waterbury, Conn., and d. April 7, 1744. John Hawkes m. 2nd, Nov. 20, 1696, Alice, widow of Samuel Allis, of Hadley, and removed to Deerfield. His sorrowful share in the massacre at Deerfield is briefly told by Mr. Savage. His wife, his son John and three younger children were killed. His dau. Elizabeth, b. in 1677, was killed on the way to Canada; so that, of children and grandchildren, there was left to him only Hannah, with whom he went to reside.

8. Jonathan, b. Feb. 15, 1649; bapt. Feb. 17, 1649.

9. David, b. Oct. 19, 1651. +

10. Sarah, b. Nov. 6, 1653, in Milford; m., as his 2nd wife, Samuel Bartlett, of Northampton, Mass. Both d. before Feb. 12, 1717, when an agreement of her ch. was filed in settlement of her estate. Her ch. were: Samuel, 1677; Sarah, 1679; Mindwell, Jan. 30, 1681<sup>1</sup>, m., March 7, 1708, as 2nd wife, Waitstill Strong, s. Thomas and Rachel (Holton) Strong, of Northampton, and had ch.: (1) John, Dec. 2, 1709; (2) Mindwell, Oct. 30, 1711, m. Samuel Clapp, Jr.; (3) Submit, Dec. 2, 1712, m. June 28, 1805. Other ch. Sarah Bartlett were: Joseph, 1683; Ebenezer, Sept. 29, 1685, m. 1st, Martha Lyn who d. May 24, 1724, aged 29, and 2nd, Elizabeth Burt of Springfield, and 3rd, Jan-5, 1730, Sarah Strong, dau. Ebenezer and Mary (Holton) Strong; he was a far at Northampton, and d. Nov. 30, 1769. Other ch. of Sarah Bartlett were: Elizabeth 1687; Preserved, 1689; William, 1693; David, 1695; and Benjamin, 1696.

The names of Sarah Mindwell and Elizabeth do not appear in the agreement, but it is signed by Waitstill Strong, in his wife's right, and by Roger Clapp, in the same manner. Samuel Bartlett was s. Robert, of Northampton. He m., 1672, Mar ldgeman, who d. in 1674. Mary Parsons, wife of Joseph, was accused by the artlets, father and son, and by others, of causing her death by witchcraft, but he was acquitted at Boston, in May, 1675."

2. JOSEPH<sup>2</sup> Joseph,<sup>1</sup> of Hadley, Mass., b. in Milford, Conn.. about 1640; bapt. March 23, 1644. In 1666, he was freeman in Hadley, where he settled with his father. They not unlikely lived together, as the father conveyed to the son one-half in common of the homestead. He was named executor in his father's will, but died first, Nov. 21, 1681. He m. 16. Mercy, or Mary, m. Samuel Allen, Jr., N. Northampton; b. Jan. 3, 1666, and s. of Nehemiah.

17. Hannah, March 9, 1675; d. Oct. 31, 1676.

18. Samuel, April 7, 1679.

19. Hannah, April 27, 1681. I think she may have been the one admitted to full communion in Milford Church, Feb. 18, 1702, where her brother James then lived.

Mr. Boltwood's "History of Hadley" makes Sarah a 2nd wife, making the name of the first Elizabeth. In the Hadley Records. Mehitable 1st and 2nd, Hannah and the first Mary appear as the children of Joseph and Elizabeth his wife, Samuel and 3rd Hannah appear to Joseph and Sarah.

In January, 1677, one of the daughters of Joseph was admonished at Court for wearing silk contrary to law. This was under an old sumptuary law of Massachusetts, passed in 1651, forbidding the use of silk to persons whose estates were not worth £200. Six females were tried at this Court for the offense; two of them "for wearing it in a flaunting manner and excess of apparel, to the offence of sober people." There appears to have been, about this time, a zeal that far outran the law, as several of the estates, in this instance, were over the limit, and one was over £1,000.

James was one of the proprietors of Durham at the date of the patent, May 1, 1708. His dau. Hannah was bapt. in Milford, as dau. of James, of Durham. He continued to reside in Durham, probably until after 1724, but removed to Saybrook, Conn., where his will, dated 1748, was proved in 1756. He remembered his wife Hannah, and children, Elizabeth, Hannah and Moses. As an extended search has failed to reveal any history for David and Aaron, they were probably dead without issue.

The management of the mill must have sometimes annoyed him. In 1753, the town made a fuss about the mill, thinking the grinding not well done; and the next year, a committee was appointed, the corn not being "well ground," who came to an agreement with him and Jonathan, Jr. He d. Some of the descendants of this Daniel make him the son of Daniel, son of Nathaniel. A comparison of all the Daniels, and examination of deeds in Milford Records from this Daniel, leave no doubt of the line.

50. JOSHUA <sup>3</sup> Jonathan <sup>2</sup> Joseph,<sup>1</sup> bapt. Jan. 24, 1691, in Milford, and resided there. Sept. 3, 1727, he joined the Church with his wife Elizabeth. He d. One of his nephews is William Matthews. His tombstone says: "Mr. Noah Baldwin, Deacon and Ruling Elder in the 2nd Church in Milford; died 3 March, 1784, in his 83rd year. The memory of the Just is blessed." The Town Record makes the date the 6th of December.

Ezra was Deacon in Durham: d. March 26, 1782, in his 76th year, as appears by his tombstone. He was, in October, 1730, one of the original subscribers of the Book Company of Durham, supposed by Prof. Fowler to be the first town library in the Colony.* His

* The Book Company of Durham (Oct. 30, 1733,) was stated to Dr. Goodrich, by Col. Elihu Chauncey, to be the "first of the kind established in the Colony, though many were established afterwards." It was considerably patronized by theological men outside of Durham. Dr. Fowler says it was this library that helped to make the voice of Durham potent in the Legislature for sixty or eighty years; to make the first to clergymen eminent; to refine the manners of the people, and give the high character to the emigrants in Durham, and which created a taste for liberal education, which for a long time characterized the town. It has occurred to the writer as an excellent example of the potent influence of a good library as a means of education. The descendants of its owners were of a very high grade of intelligence, influence and worth. For example, of thirty emigrants to Durham, N.Y., given by Prof. Fowler in his excellent "History of Durham, Conn.," twenty-seven were professors of religion; of one hundred and seventy-three children, one hundred and twenty-two at least were hopefully pious; and there were at least, among the children, eight clergymen. I will add, that of the list, fourteen were Baldwins, or married to Baldwins; and that a large share of the clergymen among the Baldwins are from the Durham stock, and the number of deacons that descent in is some lines wonderful.

tombstone in Durham says: "Having with much usefulness life faithfully served his own generation, according to the will God, fell on sleep March 26, 1782, in the 76th year of his age. Rev. Dwight Baldwin says he built his own house, even to making the nails himself; still standing in 1876.

58. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> David<sup>2</sup> Joseph,<sup>1</sup> b. in Milford, Conn., Dec. 1683. It has cost me great labor to trace the various Samuel involving much search of land records, as well as other. The main trouble has been to ascertain, of the many of the name which survived and had descendants. That this Samuel survived and lived in Milford, is shown by deed (Vol. 9, page 175, Milford Records,) where he receives a deed from his brother Nathan, May 9, 1739; and (in Vol. 8, page 477,) the two convey to Samuel Brisco, March 17, 1735. There are several other deeds between the brothers. He was Samuel, Jr., to distinguish him from Samuel<sup>3</sup> Josiah<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. March 14, 1674<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. He m., April 9, 1712, Sarah Crosby. Samuel was interested in the settlement of New Milford where three of his four sons settled. I cannot date his death, but his "relict" d. In May, the Parish was granted £40 a year.

Anna E., July 1, 1833; m., Nov. 22, 1860, Lewis W. Ford, of Cleveland, Ohio, where they reside in August, 1880. Lewis W. Ford is s. of Cyrus and Clarissa (Whitmarsh) Ford; Cyrus being the s. of Hezekiah and — (Cobb) Ford. The Fords, Whitmarsh and Cobb, were from Cummington, Mass.; the Fords being descendants of those early in the Plymouth Colony. Mr. L. W. Ford is a graduate of Yale College, 1854, and of Harvard Law School, 1857. He then became a tutor in Yale College, and afterward a lawyer in Cleveland, where he has been a law-partner with the author of this volume since 1869. Mr. and Mrs. Ford have had ch.: (1) Myra Eliza, March 10, 1862, d. Jan. 2, 1869; (2) Harriet Fenn, Nov. 17, 1863; (3) George Whitmarsh, Nov. 8, 1865; (4) Anna Grace, Jan. 6, 1871; and (5) Lewis Augustus, Aug. 6, 1872.

Sereno Peck Fenn, s. Sereno Fenn, b. April 25, 1844; m., May, 1873, Mary Augusta (Larrimore) Dewitt, widow of J. H. Dewitt, formerly a merchant in Cleveland. Mrs. Dewitt was from Niles, Ohio. Mr. S. P. Fenn, August, 1880, has no ch., and is a partner in the extensive wholesale house of Sherwin, Williams & Co., doing business in Cleveland.

The first Benjamin Fenn was, as we have said, a very leading man in Milford, in New Haven Colony, and after the union in Connecticut. He was one of the five persons who, in February, 1639, took the deed for the planters for "6 coats, 10 blankets, 1 kettle, 12 hatchets, 12 hoes, 2 dozen knives, and a dozen small glasses (mirrors). He was, says Lambert (History of Milford, page 136), liberally educated. He was chosen Magistrate of the Colony in 1661; but, says Trumbull (History of Connecticut, page 251, ed. 1797), "the spirit of republicanism was so high that several of them would not accept their appointments; and take the oaths prescribed. Mr. Fenn, was hardly prevailed upon to accept his office. He at last took the oath, with this previous explanation, that it only was with reference to the particular laws of that (New Haven) Colony, and that if anything foreign should present, it should give no offence if he should decline acting." The Colony at that time was under some excitement about the regicides Goffe and Whalley, who some months before arrived in New England. In March, 1661, the regicides were more or less at Milford, and in August, 1661, commenced their stay there of two years, being concealed in a shop belonging to Micah Tompkins, on his lot (see map, ante page 76), and Benjamin Fenn was one of those who knew their secret and assisted them. He was no doubt one of those who took the oath in the same manner the next year. From Milford the regicides went to Pangasset (Derby,) to the home of Edward Riggs, father of Samuel, who m. Sarah Baldwin, niece of Benjamin Fenn (see ante page 88). Mr. Riggs' home was "pallisaded in to secure it from the Indians." (Stiles' "Regicides.") President Stiles says that Madame Humphreys, wife of Rev. Daniel and gr. dau. of Edward Riggs (see ante page 89), used often to speak of it. After the granting of the charter to Connecticut, Mr. Fenn was in favor of the Union, in promoting which he was prominent.

A considerable biography could be extracted from the Colonial and Town Records, as well as much information as to the succeeding Benjamins, who were nearly all leading men. Capt. Benjamin, b. 1630, with Noah Baldwin, Jr., was one of those who, in 1750, "declared they have soberly dissented from the established Church, in said Milford, praying to be excused from paying ecclesiastical taxes in said town." Leave was granted them and such as should enter their names with the Town Clerk as dissenters within three months, to be freed "during the time they shall regularly attend the worship of God in the separate congregation.

Charlotte Fowler, b. Nov. 7, 1805, of Northford Parish, town of North Branford, Conn., dau. Deacon Solomon, Dec. 3, 1830. He is the venerable Missionary whom all the world reveres. His wife died at Prenahon, Oahu, Oct. 2, 1873. I am exceedingly indebted to him for his exact and extensive account, of not only his own line, but his collateral relatives. It very much exceeds my indebtedness to any other of Joseph's descendants. I add a fuller account of his life:

About January, 1804, he removed with his parents to Durham, N. Y. Here he was employed with his father on the farm, enjoying the benefits of the common school, and generally in winter of a select school, till the age of sixteen. In the fall of 1814, he commenced the study of Latin, with a view to prepare for College. The last of his teachers being a graduate of Williams College, he was induced to enter at Williams. Two years were spent very pleasantly there; most of the third was spent in teaching a school, and then he removed from Williams to Yale College, where he graduated in September, 1821. By the recommendation of President Day, the next two years he was employed as Principal of the Academy in Kingston, Ulster county, N. Y. A third year was spent in teaching a select school in Catskill, Greene county. He then devoted himself with great ardor to the study of medicine, at the same time teaching a select school in Durham, N. Y. The three years allowed for studying a profession had not elapsed, when he met with a change in his religious views. His mind had been awakened to the interests of the soul when he was a member of Yale College. Those impressions had not entirely worn off, but now, under the faithful preaching of their pastor, Rev. Dr. Williston, his attention was called up to the subject of religion as it had never been before. About the first of March, 1826, he found relief in believing in an Almighty Redeemer, a hope which has never forsaken him. Religion became the all-absorbing subject of his thought by day and by night. His pious friends now urged him to leave the profession which he had chosen, and direct his attention to the Christian ministry; and some suggested that his knowledge of medicine would not be needed at home, but would increase his usefulness in some benighted land. He soon came to the same conclusion himself, and Sept. 3, of that year, he united with the Congregational Church in Durham, N. Y., and soon after he entered the Theological Seminary at Auburn, where he spent three years. While at Auburn, he offered his services to the American Board of Boston, for a Foreign Mission, and they were accepted. Therefore, when his course at Auburn was completed, they sent for him to go to Boston to attend the Medical Lectures at Cambridge, that he might in that department be better prepared for the missionary service.

After marriage, he and his wife immediately joined a company got up in the fall, and destined to the Sandwich Islands. They all sailed from New Bedford, Dec. 28, 1830, in the ship New England. The only road to the Islands then traveled was the long one round Cape Horn, and the "New England" was out one hundred and fifty-seven days before she arrived, June 6, 1831, at Honolulu, the place of her destination. Soon after their arrival, the new Missionaries were assigned to different stations over the group, wherever there seemed to be the greatest opportunity of doing good; and Mr. Baldwin, after a detention of several months at Honolulu, during which time he preached in English to foreign residents and seamen, on the second of January, 1832, sailed for his post at Ihaimea, a new station in the interior of Hawaii, about two thousand feet above the level of the sea, near the base of the famous Mauna Kea, which shoots its snowy top more than fourteen thousand feet high. They were in the torrid zone, but felt none of its burning heat. It was a region of almost perpetual rains and driving storms. They labored about three years in a field of heathenism sixty miles long, and no wonder that, with nothing but the grass huts of the country to shield them from the weather, his health gave way, and they were obliged to seek a milder climate, which they found at Lahaina, on the Island of Maui. Mr. Baldwin moved to Lahaina as a mere temporary change: but the mild climate proved such a wonderful restorer to his affected lungs, that it became his permanent abode.

It was then the favorite residence of the King, and nearly all the high Chiefs of the Islands, with a population at first of four thousand five hundred, and a great resort for whaleships.

The Mission was begun in 1823. Mr. Richards had been pastor thirteen years. Under him, two hundred and fifty had been admitted. Mr. Baldwin was placed here as Pastor of the Church, and to act as Physician for all the Mission families of Maui and Molokai. Mrs. Baldwin, too, found a delightful field for her missionary zeal, in gathering meetings and schools for Hawaiian women and children. They labored at Lahaina for thirty-four years. It proved their great life-work, and they had great reason to bless God for the success He gave them in their work. The admission to the Church went up from two hundred and fifty to about two thousand three hundred. Schools were advanced, and the condition of the people improved. There was a powerful revival of religion there, which lasted four years. It prevailed also at all the Missionary stations on the Islands, and many thousands were converted. It was with no little regret that Mr. Baldwin resigned his pastorate at Lahaina, in September, 1868. He has since been employed, for the last four years, in teaching a department of the native Theological Seminary, which is his present work.

HENRY BALDWIN, OF WOBURN, MASSACHUSETTS,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. HENRY BALDWIN, of Woburn, was a freeman there in 1652. Sewell's "History of Woburn" says he was a subscriber in Charlestown to the town orders for Woburn, in 1640, and after that a distinguished citizen of the latter town. I doubt whether "subscriber" means he signed them. The copy in Woburn Records has such peculiarities of spelling as shows the whole was written by one man, probably Edward Johnson. The name appears there as Henry Bolden; but his own signature to his will is well written and spelled. Henry Baldwin Henry was then evidently young. On p. 385, of his valuable history, Sewell gives the date of the town orders as 1641.

He lived at "New Bridge," or North Woburn, where in each succeeding generation some of his descendants have lived and been large owners of land. He was Selectman in 1681, and a Deacon from 1686 to his death.

There is a tradition in later days that he came from Devonshire, in England, as there is also among the descendants of John, of Billerica. The latter married Mary Richardson cousin of wife of Henry. I think it not unlikely that they are related. It will be seen in my account of John, that the older tradition was that he was from Hertfordshire. The name Henry was one very common in the family of Bucks and Herts. The suggestion that they came from Devonshire, has arisen apparently in later times, and probably from the fact that the name Baldwin was there an old one—the first Earl of Devonshire, under William the Conqueror having that name. This tradition is found in the "Vinton Memorial" and other places. The arms to be found in this branch of Baldwins do not belong to the Devonshire Baldwins.

Henry m., Nov. 1, 1649 (Sewell says Nov. 1, and Savage says Sept. 1), Phebe, eldest dau. Ezekiel Richardson, of Woburn, and b. perhaps in England: bapt. in Boston, June 3, 1632, and perhaps b. there, where her parents, Ezekiel and Susanna, appeared in 1630. He d. Feb. 14, 169 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; his widow, Phebe, Sept. 13, 1716. His original will was admitted to Probate April 4, 1698, where he is called Deacon Henry, and is to be found in East Cambridge, Mass. His children were:

2. Susanna, b. Aug. 2, 1651; d. Nov. 28, 1651.

3. Susannah, b. Sept. 25, 1652; m. Israel Walker<sup>2</sup> Samuel.<sup>1</sup> Her husband and son Israel are remembered, 1697, in her father's will. They lived in Woburn, where she d. March 7, 1694, and her husband m., Dec. 10, 1696, Hannah Flagg. He d. April 20, 1719. Children: Israel, Sept. 29, 1672, d. Nov. 1, 1683; Susanna, March 1, 1674, m., 1697, Ebenezer Locke, and d. in 1699; Phoebe, May 11, 1676; Elizabeth, d. Jan. 21, 1682; Henry, b. Feb. 1, 1679; Hannah, April 26, 1681, and d. May 8, 1681; Nathaniel, April 15, 1682; Israel, July 26, 1684; Hannah, Sept. 24, 1686, m., October, 1706, Isaac Kendall; Abigail, Sept. 26, 1688; and Edward, Nov. 6, 1690.

4. Phoebe, b. July 7, 1654; m., Nov. 7, 1676, as his 3rd wife, Samuel Richardson,<sup>2</sup> s. Samuel,<sup>1</sup> whose 2nd wife and infant dau. were killed by the Indians. She d. Oct. 20, 1679. It appears by her father's will of 1697, however, that she left a son Zachariah, b. Nov. 21, 1677, who m., Feb. 14, 1699 or 1700, Mehitable Perrin, and d. Nov. 23, 1748. Samuel m. a 4th wife, and had ch. (See Savage's "Genealogical Dictionary.")

5. John, b. Aug. 28, 1656; said to have d. y. He must have been the John, one of thirteen soldiers, impressed about Dec. 1, 1675, from Woburn, for the Narraganset Expedition and the Swamp Fight.

6. Daniel, b. March 15, 1659. +

7. Timothy, b. May 27, 1661. +

8. Mary, b. Jan. 19, 1663; d. Jan. 8, 1663.

9. Henry, b. Sept. 15, 1664; says Sewell, Nov. 15, and Vinton also. +

10. Abigail, b. Aug. 20, 1667; m., Dec. 4, 1705, John Reed, of Woburn, b. in 1660, as his 2nd wife.

11. Ruth, b. Jan. 31, 1670; living in 1697.

12. Benjamin, Jan. 20, 167 $\frac{2}{3}$ . +

The trouble of genealogists in dates are exemplified in the "Vinton Memorial," making Susanna b. Aug. 30, 1650, and d. in September, the second Susanna b. in July, and Phebe Sept. 6.

6. DANIEL<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. March 15, 1659, in Woburn, Mass., and continued to reside there. In 1696, he, the minister and Mr.

Pierce each paid one penny quit rent to the town for land belonging to the public, which they had fenced in to raise tobacco. He is there called Sargeant. He m., Jan. 6, 168 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Hannah Richardson,<sup>3</sup> dau. Joseph and Hannah (Green), of Woburn, second s. Samuel. He d. Jan. 24, 170 $\frac{8}{9}$ , in Woburn. His children were :

25. Hannah, b. in 1686.

26. Phebe, b. in 1690; d. y.

27. Henry, b. in 1693; probably d. y.

28. Joseph, b. in 1693; d. y.

29. Susanna, b. in 1694.

30. Daniel, b. Dec. 16, 1695. In 172 $\frac{1}{2}$ , his brother Joseph was his administrator, his mother and brother John having declined. He was, says Vinton, slain by the Indians near Dunstable, N. H., Sept. 5, 1727, but must have been 1726.

31. Dorcas, b. in 1697; d. y.

32. Joseph, b. in 1699; a blacksmith. His will was filed March 5, 1744, and his estate went to his brothers and sisters. Mr. S. G. Drake informed me that Dec. 8, 1738, he petitioned the House of Representatives of Massachusetts for some allowance for the "services of his late brother Daniel Baldwin, of Woburn, dec'd in the public service, in ye late war," and also on account of some debts he had paid for his said brother. May 17, 1739, he was one of a Committee of three to divide the "common lands."

33. Dorcas, b. in 1701; m. Wyman, and was a widow in 1744.

34. John, b. in 1703, and living in 1720.

35. Rebecca, b. in 1705, and living in 1720.

36. Benjamin, b. in 1707, and living in 1720.

37. Phebe, b. in 1708, and living in 1720; m. Hamblet.

7. TIMOTHY<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. in Woburn, 1661; he m., March 16, 1687, Elizabeth Hill, of Stoneham, Mass., though another authority says of Billerica, and another of Billerica and m. June 2. She d. Jan. 26, 1703 or 1704, and he m. 2nd, Elizabeth Grover, dau. of Lazarus Grover, of Malden, July 9, 1706. His children appear in the Records of Charlestown, Mass., where he lived for awhile; but he removed to Stoneham, Mass., where he died, March 11, 1733 or 1734. His widow, by her will dated May 13, 1752, lodged Nov. 8, 1756, proved in 1760, devises to her grand children Matthews and to Samuel Grover. The grandchildren Matthews seem to have been daughter and son-in-law of her step-son Timothy, Jr.

38. Elizabeth, b. May 29, 1688; living in 1718; d., says Vinton. April 4, 1791.

39. Timothy, b. Nov. 20, 1689. +

40. Ralph, b. June 28, 1691.

41. Hannah, b. Sept. 6, 1692; d., says Vinton, the same day; said to have d. in 1692, but I think the one who m., July 24, 1714, Joseph Vinton, of Stoneham.

41½. Elizabeth, b. June 21, 1695, in Charlestown.

The above is the only instance where I have found the name Ralph given to an early Baldwin, and I trace him no further. Timothy was living in Stoneham in 1726. He had from his father his right in "Parly" Meadow. His will, dated July 1, 1718, was proved March 29, 1734. It mentioned his wife, dau. Elizabeth, grandchildren Ralph and Hannah, and son Timothy.

9. HENRY<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. in Woburn, Sept. 15, 1664; lived in Woburn, Mass.; he d. Jan. 7, 1739. He m., May 4, 169¾, Abigail Fiske, dau. David and Abigail (Seaborn) Fiske, afterwards of Lexington, who survived. Is this Fish, as Vinton says?

42. Henry, b. Jan. 12, 1693. +

39. TIMOTHY<sup>3</sup> Timothy<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. Nov. 20, 1689. Vinton says b. May 6. He was buried in Stoneham, Mass., his epitaph being: "Here lyes burried y<sup>e</sup> body of Ensign Timothy Baldwin, who departed this life December y<sup>e</sup> 3rd, A. D. 1750, aged 61 years and 13 days." His will made provision for carrying out the provisions of his father's will, and mentions his wife Hannah and dau. Elizabeth. The will of his father, dated July 1, 1718, proved March 29, 1734, made provision for grandc<sup>1</sup>

John Vinton, Esq., of Dudley, formerly of Stoneham, and after his death in 1760 she returned to Stoneham. In 1766 she lived with her grandson, Timothy Matthews. She had no children by her second husband, and at one time the Selectmen, with a zeal for the safety of their finances, worthy of later times, and apparently misplaced, warned her out of town; no doubt with the idea that she lived in Dudley.

42. HENRY<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. in Woburn, Jan. 12, 1693; m., Nov. 7, 1717, Mary Richardson,<sup>4</sup> of Woburn, b. Jan. 10, 1693, dau. James<sup>3</sup> and Mary. He settled in Pelham, N. H.

It will be noticed that James was then young. By his will, dated 1771, he gave his wife one of his negroes.

The following autograph letter is still remaining with the Antiquarian Society at Worcester :

CAMP AT PROSPECT HILL, July 7, 1775.

Dear Sir : Last evening, I had the pleasure of hearing of your return to Brookfield, by Mr. Sullivan, who informed me that matters were settled agreeably at Ticonderoga, and that the fort was under good circumstances, after meeting with some opposition with one of the officers. By an invitation from Col. Gridley, I went as an engineer (the 16th of June) upon Bunker Hill, in Charlestown, and threw up a breastwork, and was on that hill the whole of that memorable day. Ye 17th of June, at evening, we retreated out to Prospect Hill, and worked again all that night throwing up breastworks; and I have continued in that service as an engineer to this time. I propose to stay here about a fortnight; by that time I expect to finish the fortification on this hill, and then I expect to return home, as there is no provision made for me in the army, and the Congress are requested by Gen. Washington not to give out any more commissions. You proposed to me to have another Member chosen to represent Brookfield with you. It would be very agreeable to me to have the favour of the people.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

JEDU'N BALDWIN.

79. LOAMMI<sup>4</sup> James<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. in Woburn, Mass., Jan. 10, 174½; known as Col. Loammi: was a cabinet maker and land surveyor; resided in Woburn. He was a man of learning. He used to walk from North Woburn to Cambridge with his schoolmate Benjamin Thompson (Count Rumford), to attend lectures there on Natural Philosophy, and they together made rude instruments at home for experiments. At the commencement of the war in 1775, he enlisted in a regiment of foot, commanded by Col. Samuel Gerrish. He was rapidly advanced to be Lieutenant Colonel; and in August, upon the retirement of Col. Garrish, was made Colonel. This Regiment was originally the 38th, with eight Companies, and on the Boston lines. On the reorganization of the army, at the close of 1775, it was the 26th, with ten Companies. In April, 1776, he was stationed at New York; and June 22, was at the "Grand Battery," in command of the main guard. He continued down the Delaware, and was in the Trenton Expedition on the memorable night of Dec. 25, 1776, when, in the stirring language of Sewall's "Woburn," "in face of a violent and extremely cold storm of snow and hail, the Commander-in-Chief recrossed the Delaware to the Jersey side, and took by surprise at Trenton, the next morning, a body of about one thousand Hessian troops. Col. Baldwin and his men accompanied the General in his daring enterprise, and partook of the "honor and joy with which it was crowned, a victory most unexpected and disastrous to the British, but most reviving to the desponding minds of the friends of liberty, and of the American cause."

In 1780, he was High Sheriff of Middlesex county. He was repeatedly Representative, and was a Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was quite distinguished as an Engineer. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., says: "In 1826, Col. Loammi Baldwin, for a Commission appointed for the purpose, submitted plans and estimates for a canal route between Massachusetts and New York, and his plan contemplated tunneling the Hoosac Mountain from point to point, exactly as carried out for railroad purposes."

[From the Boston Daily News, Jan. 23, 1875.]

"The widely-known Baldwin Apple was named from him; and the Nashua (N. H.) Telegraph gives the following account of its origin, written by Mr. B. Blood, of that place: 'Col. Loammi Baldwin, Chief Engineer in building the Middlesex Canal, lived in the northern part of Woburn, near the canal. He owned a piece of woodland in the southwestern part of Wilmington, near what was then known as Butler's Ridge, from which he cut his firewood. He came to an apple tree, somewhat young, but thrifty and bearing, which the woodpeckers had pecked around the body and lower limbs so unmercifully that he feared it would die. As he was an ardent lover of good fruit, he concluded to "spare that tree," and see what was its fruit. The next autumn, he found lying on the ground beneath it some very nice-looking winter apples, which he put in his cellar. The next spring, having friends from Boston to dine, he brought forward the "Pecker" apples, as he called them, to try the quality for the first time; when they were found to be so far superior to any they ever tasted before, that he went immediately, cut some scions, and engrafted some of his trees at home. Being High Sheriff, he attended the Court at Concord and Cambridge, often taking his favorite apple to eat after dinner, and giving to his fellow-boarders. Thus from his tree were scions cut, and the fruit is now known almost over the United States as the Baldwin Apple.'"

This family disappeared from Connecticut; and it has been suggested that this Daniel was Daniel, of Norwich, Vt., the proprietors' meetings for which place were held in Mansfield, Conn. The children above are not found in Norwich, and I have no doubt Daniel, of Norwich, Vt., was ——— of the stock of John, of Norwich, Conn. I thought this one the probable Daniel, of Norwich, but not proved, nor on further research did proof accumulate. On the contrary, this Daniel no doubt settled in Vermont, but was not the one sought. His descendants give him the children above, who did not d. y., except that in the place of Philip they give Turner. I am inclined to think that Turner was really Philip's middle name, and that he was named after his uncle Philip Turner who m. Deborah (No. 104). They add to the list of children:

414. Son, b. 1828; d. 1834.

He became early in life a merchant in Boston, but had a great taste for engineering. He joined his brother Loammi in constructing the dry dock at Charleston Navy Yard, the first of the kind in the country. In 1828, he was one of a Commission, appointed by the State, to make surveys for a railroad from Boston to Albany. It was not built, but the Western Railroad was afterwards built on the line selected by him, and his plans generally adopted. From 1830 to 1835, he was building the Boston and Lowell road and planing factories. He also determined the relative amount of water-power to be used by the different mills at Lowell. In 1837, he recommended Long Pond (Lake Cochituate) to Boston for its water, which would furnish nine millions gallons of water daily. The city adopted another plan, but in 1844 his plan was revived, and adopted in 1846. Says the "New England Historical and Genealogical Register:" "The city of Boston is pre-eminently indebted to the forecast, firmness and professional skill of Mr. Baldwin for its abundant and constant supply of pure water from Cochituate." He was of commanding presence, being considerably over six feet in stature, and remarkably well proportioned. The elder Prof. Silliman said: "Rarely, if ever, have I met in life a gentleman who combined so much expansion and depth of mind, and so wide a range of knowledge, with such mildness, modesty and gentleness." He was Senator from Suffolk. He d. May 20, 1862, quite suddenly.

He was b. in Sedgwick, Me., where his father was pastor. After his marriage, he settled in Galesburg, Mich., and lived there fourteen years. He was there made Deacon of the Baptist Church. He returned to Hudson, N. H., in 1849, and was until his death, one of the most active members of the Baptist Church. Though always in poor health, he was "diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." On the last Sabbath he lived, he arose from his sick bed, and rode to the church to hear for the last time the Gospel preached on earth. He was a liberal giver, whose heart was in religion, and he died happy. I am under unusual obligations to Mrs. Merrill for a full and clear account of her branch of the family, with the dates.

The following is from the "Elmira Advertiser:"

• Thomas Baldwin, or Sergeant Baldwin, as he is known in the • History of Wyoming,' was one of our most noted Indian scouts during all the struggles between the settlers at Wyoming and the marauding Indians. He was first among the foremost of that class of men. The pages of Wyoming history everywhere tell of his daring and successful exploits, one of which Mr. Miner thus gives : • On Friday, 7th of September, 1781, a band of Indians made an attack on the Hanover settlement, and took off Arnold Franklin and Roswell Franklin, Jr., the sons of Lient. Roswell Franklin, who had shot an Indian the preceding June. Several horses were stolen, and much grain in stack consumed by fire. In April following, Sunday, the 7th, 1782, the Indians, still burning with rage and intent on vengeance, rushed into Lieut. Franklin's house and took off his wife and four remaining children, one an infant: set fire to the building, which, with the furniture not plundered, was consumed to ashes. Parties went immediately in pursuit. Sergeant Thomas Baldwin led seven determined men, with great celerity, taking an unfrequented course to head the savages. Arrived at Wyalusing, near sixty miles, they were satisfied by examining the fording place that the Indians had not crossed the stream: pushing on till they came to the mountain nearly opposite Asylum, a slight breastwork was thrown up, and arrangements made to receive the enemy. Every precaution had been taken to conceal the defence by setting up bushes in front; but the wary chief, on approaching, discovered the snare, changed the route of his party, leaving the path, and attempted to ascend the hill and pass Baldwin's party fifty or sixty rods more easterly. The attack was instantly commenced; a mutual fire was opened, and continued for some time with spirit, and yet with caution—the Indians being desirous to get off with their prisoners and plunder, and the pursuing party being afraid of hurting Mrs. Franklin and the children. In the midst of the firing, the two little girls and the boy sprang from their captors and found refuge with their friends. Instantly the savages shot Mrs. Franklin and retreated. The chief, either to preserve the infant prisoner as a trophy, or to save himself from being a mark for the American rifles, raised the babe on his shoulder, and thus bearing her aloft, fled. Having recovered three of the children, and seeing the bleeding remains of the mother, the Yankees suspended pursuit. Mrs. Franklin was buried as decently as circumstances permitted, and the children were brought safely to Wyoming, where they arrived on the 16th. Two of the men, Sergeant Baldwin and Oliver Bennet, were wounded, the former severely, by the enemy's fire."

Sergeant Thomas Baldwin and his brother Waterman were both members of Capt. Robert Durkee's Company, and afterward Capt. Simon Spaulding's Company, of which John Jenkins was Lieutenant. They served all through the Revolutionary war; were in the battle of Bound Brook, at Milestone, in the Hartley campaign in 1778, the Sullivan campaign in 1779, and in several other important actions, and ended active service at Yorktown in 1781, assisting at the capture of Cornwallis and his army.

Says the Advertiser: "Waterman, the third son of the elder Isaac, as in the list noted above, was a remarkable character. It is believed he filled to the full his measure of usefulness during the Revolutionary war, (in a capacity similar to that of Harvey Birch, whom Cooper has made immortal in the novel of the "Spy,") and under the immediate eye of Washington himself. At least Watt, as he was called, prided himself as "one whom Washington had trusted." He is the hero of Chedayne, in the novel of Ausburn Tamer, entitled "Chedayne of Katono," says the Elmira Daily Advertiser, of July 20, 1878. He possessed a silver-mounted saddle, which had been given him by the officers of the army, and a horse, called Roanoke, which performed some feats that were prodigies. Watt was also an adopted son of the famous Indian Chief, Cornplanter, who had been struck by his bravery and coolness, shown under discouraging circumstances. He did not take very kindly to the ways of civilization, preferring life on the mountains and in the woods, taking care of himself with his rifle and his knife. Innumerable incidents of a striking and humorous character are told of him, few of which have ever seen the light, but all of which deserve telling and preserving. He was among the taxables of Pittston, Luzerne county, Penn., in 1796.

437. HARVEY<sup>6</sup> Jonas C.<sup>5</sup> Samuel<sup>4</sup> Samuel<sup>3</sup> Henry<sup>2</sup> Henry<sup>1</sup>, of Baldwinsville, N. Y. I abridge the following notice from the "Memoirs of Distinguished Americans." New York: 1853.

His father, Jonas C., was educated at Williams College, and studied medicine. Dr. Baldwin m. Eliza Warner, dau. Deacon Warner, of Cummington, Mass., a lady of great personal beauty, intellectual endowments, and eminent piety. He was a man of indomitable energy, liberal views, elegant, courteous, social, refined, intellectual, and enjoying in a high degree the confidence of the community. Harvey, his second son, was b. at Ovid, Onondaga county, N. Y.; he was intending to study law, but prior to the war of 1812, he entered a class in Military Science, and shortly afterward was elected an officer of militia; a few days subsequent, his regiment was called to the defence of Oswego. His father and eldest brother had already gone in command of a flotilla of boats, just completed; and at the solicitation of his mother, he consented to remain at home; but the noise of cannonading was too much, and he caught up with his company. He was soon promoted to the captaincy. He afterward studied law, and practiced with ability and success, removing to Syracuse in 1826. His father had a very large property, but was embarrassed from difficulties growing mainly out of the war, and he and his brother undertook the care of it. This led him into the purchase and sale of real estate. He acquired much wealth, and it is said his business in real estate was at one time greater than that of any other individual in Central New York. He was one of the originators of the Common School System, and of the State Agricultural Society. He wrote and spoke untiringly in favor of the acquisition of Texas, and as early as September, 1840, wrote an earnest letter to President Van Buren advocating the acquisition of California, as furnishing the best territory and best harbors upon the Pacific. He was the first Mayor of Syracuse, and a very popular one; while Mayor, he was nominated for Congress by the Democrats, but defeated. He was a man of nervous, untiring energy, unbending integrity, of power as an orator, and of very high standing as a gentleman of wealth, taste, hospitality and ability. His oratory was mainly exerted for projects of public improvement: though gifted with graces of the imagination, his purposes were eminently practical towards the public good.

958. AUGUSTUS CARPENTER<sup>7</sup> Jonathan<sup>6</sup> Rufus<sup>5</sup> Isaac<sup>4</sup> John<sup>3</sup> Benjamin<sup>2</sup> Henry,<sup>1</sup> b. in Salina, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1817. In 1837, he settled in Oakland county, Mich., teaching school and studying law. He has remained in that county, and resides, 1880, at Pontiac. In 1842, he commenced practice. From 1844 to 1846, he was a Member of the Legislature, and in 1853 and 1854, Prosecuting Attorney. He has been a Democratic delegate to the National Conventions of 1860, 1864 and 1868. He was a Member of the Thirty-eighth Congress in 1862, and the candidate of his party in 1864 and 1872. In 1875, he was elected Judge of the Sixth Judicial District of Michigan, which position he fills in 1878. As a speaker, he is forcible and convincing. Few men are better versed in history, or more ready with facts. At the beginning of the late war, he thoroughly supported the Union and the Government. In 1865, he was one of the few Democrats who supported the amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery. Although busy at the bar, and now on the bench, he has found time to cultivate literature and æsthetics. I am told by a gentleman at the State capital, that Mr. Baldwin has a library of seven thousand volumes, and one of the finest collections of paintings in Michigan. His home is a charming one. He has always taken a lively interest in schools, and is the present President of the Board of Education. He is also President of the Pioneer Society, and of the Agricultural Society of his county. He is, say those who know, a gentleman of genial humor, rare tenderness, and now in full vigor, with much promise of further usefulness. He m., Oct. 20, 1842, Miss Isabella Churchill, of Bloomfield, Oakland county, still living.

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. JOHN BALDWIN appears in Billerica, Mass., as early as 1655. He had a grant of land there in 1657, says Farmer. He was probably one of the petitioners for land in Chelmsford in 1653, and perhaps was then with Henry, in Woburn. Many of the petitioners were from Woburn. I have not been able to identify this among the many Johns. That he was probably of the Baldwins long resident in the adjoining edges of Buckinghamshire and Hertfordshire, in England, appears from the tradition of a very intelligent great grandson, that he came from Herts. He seems to have been intimate with Henry, of Woburn. He married there a cousin of the wife of Henry; was, as we have suggested, likely there in 1653, when petitioner for Chelmsford, but settled in Billerica, being between the towns of Chelmsford and Woburn. When he drew his will, Henry witnessed it. It is quite likely he was brother to Henry, but I know no proof. He was probably too old to be John, born June 24, 1635, son of John, of Dedham. It has been suggested that he may have been John, aged 21, and Mary, aged 20, who arrived at Boston in 1656, in the "Speedwell;" but this Mary could not, of course, have been his wife. I do not think he was so likely to have been of the "Speedwell" as the petitioner for Chelmsford in 1653. His brother-in-law Thomas also settled in Billerica. The Baldwins remaining in Billerica write: "We always supposed he was the brother of Henry, of Woburn." By tradition of his gr. grandson Benjamin<sup>1</sup> Thomas<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> b. in 1743, he came from Hertfordshire about 1640. Benjamin lived to be quite old, and his narrative was taken down in 1828, and a copy is in my possession. As usual with such narratives, he gives later names for the emigrants (Thomas, Joseph and Benjamin). The people of Billerica were troubled with Indians, and in 1675, were distributed in twelve garrisons; John was in garrison number six, at James Patterson's, for four families. He married Mary Richardson,<sup>2</sup> bapt. Nov. 17, 1638, dau. Thomas of Woburn, by his wife Mary, and cousin of Phebe, wife of Henry Baldwin, of Woburn. He was made freeman in 1670, and died in 1687. His will is dated Nov. 11, 1686, and to be found in Boston. He is styled husbandman. He calls Mary his "now married" wife, and gives her the west end of his dwelling; to his son John the east end. He leaves legacies to his daughters, which are to be paid "in currant country pay, at currant country price, and not as money, except my executors' pleas." The will was proved May 28, 1688. It is witnessed by Henry, of Woburn. It is sealed with an anchor. His children, born in Billerica, were:

2. Mary, b. July 28, 1659; d. Aug. 1, 1659.

3. Mary, b. April 11, 1663; m., April 13, 1681, Henry Jeffs, Jr., of Billerica. She d. April 22, 1703, and he m. 2nd. Hannah Hill. The name of her husband is spelled by Savage, Jeffs, or Jests. I have seen it also spelled Josts and Jestes; in the will of John it resembles Jeffs. They had ch.: Mary, Sept. 23, 1683, and Hannah, Sept. 10, 1685. Mr. Savage says the name appears in 2 Massachusetts Historical Collection (2, 162) as Sciffs—no doubt a misprint.

Sarah Heyward, of Concord, Feb. 5, 1688<sup>9</sup>. She was no doubt the daughter of John Heyward, by his second wife Sarah Simonds: she d. Feb. 9, 1741. (Thus Farmer and the Worcester Mss.) But an examination of Mr. Savage's Book leaves it doubtful if she could be the daughter of John.

John Stearns) French; though Mr. Savage says she m. Nathaniel Dunkler. She was some other and younger Mary. He continued in Billerica, where he d. Feb 17, 173<sup>5</sup>/<sub>6</sub>. By his father's will, he had lands near the line of "Woodburne." He was likely the one of Rehoboth, a carpenter, who bought land in Charlestown, in 1704.

He is the author of a Genealogical Narrative, before referred to, several copies of which are among his descendants. He had seven sons and seven daughters. The manuscript is dated Sept. 16, 1829, and was written by his gr. nephew Eleazer. He was on that day eighty-five years and eleven months old. Benjamin makes his gr. gr. grandfather Thomas emigrate from England about 1640. It will be seen that the grandfather of that Thomas was the emigrant, not far from 1640. It is very common, by tradition, to place the emigration some generations too late.

676. AUSTIN<sup>7</sup> Enos<sup>6</sup> Isaac<sup>5</sup> Thomas<sup>4</sup> Joseph<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>, b. June 11, 1807; he m., June 11, 1832, Julia C. Huyck, of Kingston, N. Y. His father had a remarkable genius for mechanical pursuits. He engaged in Albany, N. Y., with the first manufacture of plows in the country; afterwards in New York. He was

Vice President of the American Institute at its organization, but died at the age of forty-one years.

Austin was a bright boy, apt in school, and soon skilled in his father's business. He was in politics before he was of age. He was brought to the front on the question of State prison labor as affecting mechanical business, especially plane manufacturing. A meeting having been called, Mr. M. L. Davis, the Secretary of Aaron Burr, called upon him to speak. His eloquence carried the meeting by storm, and he became, with no design on his part, the leader of the movement in regard to State prison labor, and looked to by the working-men of New York as a champion. He was afterwards a frequent and eloquent political speaker. At an anti-Jackson meeting in Masonic Hall, presided over by Philip Hone, then Mayor of New York, he suggested that they should reinstate the Whig principles of 1776, and instead of planting hickory trees again, erect the old-fashioned liberty-poles. The suggestion was received with enthusiasm, and the name Whig adopted by the party. The first liberty pole was erected under his care at the corner of Grand street and Broadway. His political position was fine, but in 1837 he removed with the plane business (which he carried on after the death of his father) to Middletown, Conn. He was, under Harrison, for four years Collector of the district; a Member of the Legislature, serving as Speaker.

In 1857, he resigned his position as President of the Baldwin Tool Company, selling out his stock in it, and returned to New York, where he engaged in the Foreign Express and Exchange business. He was, while in Connecticut, one of the four Baldwins at various times nominated as Governor of that State, and one of the three whose party did not get the most votes.

In early life he studied law, and had some experience in teaching, and while teaching wrote a primary arithmetic which, though over forty years old, is still in use. He has paid little attention to politics since he returned to New York, but is the pleasant, genial, intelligent gentleman of the old and well-known house of Austin Baldwin & Company, 53 Broadway, still engaged in the Foreign Express and Exchange business, and representing the State Steamship Company.

FRANCIS BALDWIN, OF CHESTER COUNTY, PENN.,

---

1. FRANCIS BALDWIN was a settler in the neighborhood of West Chester county, Penn., as early as 1686. He was the brother of John and Thomas, as appears by the will of John, of Chester, who in 1731 left legacies to Thomas and John, sons of his brother Francis. Francis was a miller, and died in New Castle county in 1702, although he was a juror at Chester Court not long before (July 19, 1700). In 1691, his father-in-law, Thomas Colbourne, conveyed to him one hundred acres of land in Chester Creek and in Chester. The will of his brother John leaves five shillings each to "all my brother Francis Baldwin's children." I know the names only of those named in the same will as legatees of £10 each.

2. Thomas, may likely have been Thomas, Sen., of Kennet, in 1738. (See No. 7, further on.)

3. John.

His name appears, in Chester county, as witness to deeds in 1691, 1697, 1699 and 1700. He received from Thomas Colbourne, in 1691, a deed of one hundred acres in Chester. The consideration was an annuity. In 1692, John Maddock conveyed fifty acres in Nether Providence, "Nether Cutt," which he had purchased of Francis Baldwin. In 1695, he received a record deed from Thomas Colbourne of one hundred acres in Chester, which next year he conveyed to Joseph Colbourne for £50. Letters of administration were granted, Aug. 17, 1702, to his widow Cicely, by the Register General, at Philadelphia. Mr. Cope thinks a daughter

4. Ann, m. William Ford, of Bethel (now), Delaware county, Penn. Ford was of Brandywine Hundred, Delaware county, in 1745; he has known descendants.

I am not able to trace the sons of Francis. Further investigation in this line may perhaps succeed. Mr. Cope, whose use of the word "probably" has come to give me considerable confidence, thinks a son or grandson—probably the last—was

5. FRANCIS<sup>3</sup> ———<sup>2</sup> Francis,<sup>1</sup> of Kennett; taxed there: unm. in 1735 and 1740. My next list is in 1747, when he does not appear. He was not a Quaker. He m., in 1746, Charity (Harlan), widow of Joseph Hackney, of Kennett, who died intestate, leaving six children: Sarah, Mary, Aaron, Charity, Joseph and John. She was the daughter of Aaron and Sarah Harlan, married by a "priest," and disowned in 1747. I do not know what children, if any, she had by Francis, or where they went—perhaps to Virginia. The Hackneys went to Frederick county. I must add as probable grandchildren, William and Thomas next succeeding.

6. WILLIAM<sup>3</sup> ———<sup>2</sup> Francis.<sup>1</sup> He must be, I think, one of the two brothers, William and Thomas, who by tradition of their descendants went from the vicinity of Chester to Virginia, and it is said lived for a while in Philadelphia; b., it is said, by one, in 1716, which is probably too early. William is said to have been wounded at Brandywine, and to have been crippled by that accident. He m., it is said, Anna Lucas.

16. James R., b. in 1784.

17. Joshua, d. in Findlay, Hancock county, Ohio, and left a s. Abraham C.; in 1874, of Tiffin, Ohio.

7. THOMAS<sup>3</sup> ———<sup>2</sup> Francis.<sup>1</sup> He must be, I think, the Thomas who, with brother William, was by tradition from the vicinity, and settled in Virginia; said to have lived in Philadelphia for a while. Said to have m. Jane Simmons. He was not unlikely, for a while, one of the Thomases of Kennett, where Francis was. Feb., 1749, Thomas and wife Sarah, of Kennett, convey six acres, conveyed to them in 1738, when Thomas is called of Kennett and Junior. But I cannot identify the several Thomases.

He d. in Warren county, Ohio, and had descendants, among whom was William, of Blanchester. C.H., of Chicago, gives him a grandson Joseph, at Lancaster, Ohio.

12. JOSEPH<sup>4</sup> William<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> Francis,<sup>1</sup> b. in 1873, in Berkley county, Va.; m. Elizabeth Wilson, and removed at an early day thence to Champaign county, Ohio.

JOHN BALDWIN, OF CHESTER COUNTY, PENN,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. JOHN BALDWIN, was an early settler in Aston, then in Delaware, now in Chester county, Penn. He m., July 4, 1689, Katharine Turner, according to the usage of the Friends, and is then called of Aston, and carpenter. Katharine was a Carter, and m., in 1687, Edward Turner. Both marriages were in Philadelphia. John obtained a warrant, in 1702, for one hundred acres of land, fifty in the right of his own service to Joshua Hastings, and fifty in the right of his wife Katharine, servant to John Blunston. According to William Penn's "conditions or concessions," those who came as servants with the first adventurers were entitled to fifty acres each at the end of service, on rent. It is likely that the term was stretched, says Mr. Cope, in its application, so as to include all who came under contract to perform service of any kind. The warrant is as follows :

PENNSYLVANIA, SS. By the Commissioners of Property.

At the request of John Baldwin, that we would grant him to take up one hundred acres of head land, at one-half penny sterling rent per acre per annum, fifty thereof in right of his own service to John Hastings, and fifty in right of his wife Katharine, servant to John Blunston. These are to authorize and Require thee to survey and lay out to the sd. John Baldwin the sd. number of one hundred acres of land in the Tract appropriated to servants, or elsewhere in the Province, not already surveyed or taken, nor concealed, nor seated by the Indians, and make returns into the General Surveyor's office at Philadelphia, where this Warrant is to remain, and a copy thereof to be delv<sup>d</sup> (delivered) to thee, certified by the Secretary. Given under our hands and ye seal of ye Province, at Philadelphia, 30th 4m, 1702.

TO ISAAC TAYLOR,
Surveyor of the County of Chester.

EDWARD SHIPPEN,
THOMAS STORY,
JAMES LOGAN.

This tract was surveyed Nov. 7, 1702, to John Baldwin, and lies partly on Valley Creek. Next lies five hundred acres, surveyed Sept. 9, 1702, to James Wallis, of the city of Bristol, Eng., sold by his attorney to John Baldwin, Feb. 23, 1703. This tract of six hundred acres is now intersected by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and lies about one and half or two miles east of Downington. The east half went by will to his grandson John, by heritage to his son Caleb; thence to his sons John and Jonathan C. John gave his share to Caleb, s. Jonathan C.<sup>1</sup> Jonathan C. d. in 1874, and the land is held, in 1877, by his family.

John Hastings is said to have come from Swanford, in Oxfordshire, England; John Blunston from Little Hallam, in County Derby; both came in 1682. He is also said, in the "History of Chester," page 479, to have been a blacksmith. He seems afterward to have been a merchant, accumulating considerable property. He was the brother of Thomas and Francis. His will affords considerable information of the families. Mr. Cope thinks the three brothers came from Oxfordshire. Joshua Hastings came from that county, and John claimed to be his servant. He infers, from acquaintance with similar cases, that they probably came together. The service was likely the building of a house, as John was a carpenter. He thinks there was some other circumstance, which he cannot recall. A little time, and an investment of one or two hundred dollars in English search, would likely reveal the English ancestry of the three brothers.

His will, dated 1730, with codicils Nov. 9 and 11, 1731, proved March 7, 173½, shows him, at decease, of the borough of Chester. It is long and liberal. He provides that his negro woman Hagar is to be "sett free at the expiration of one year." He gave £5 toward the building of a school house, for which he had lately conveyed a lot. Aug. 26, 1731, he made a deed (Chester Records, l. 268,) as merchant, to John Salkeld, malster; Jacob Howell, tanner; Thomas Cummings, cordwainer, and Thomas Morgan, tailor, conveying to them a lot in Chester, conveyed to him by Jonas Sutherland and wife Mary, under a yearly rent of three ears of Indian corn on the 25th of March yearly. The grantees make a declaration of trust, showing that the conveyance was in trust that the grantee "should with all convenient speed, at the public charge of the people called Quakers in Chester, cause a large and well-built school house to be erected on the said lot or piece of land," etc. 12, 23, 1702, of Aston, yeoman, he buys of James Wallis, of Bristol, England, by his attorney, Thomas Withers, of Chichester, five hundred acres on the north

1. THOMAS BALDWIN is said, in "Smith's Early History of Delaware County, Penn.," to have settled, about 1697, on the southwest side of Chester Creek, above Chester Mills, but afterward removed to Chester, where he died in 1731. He was brother to John and Francis, as appears by the will of John. His will, of Chester, is dated March 173 $\frac{1}{2}$ , proved July 2, 1831, "being very sick and weak in body." He left his children, or their respective heirs, one shilling each, and to his wife all his personal property. He married, in 1684, at the house where Michael Izard lately dwelt, "Mary, widow of Richard Linvill, of County Sussex, England." She had at least two sons by her first husband, John and Thomas Linvill, who were early settlers in Chester. He was a blacksmith. On the 2nd June, 1684, Michael Izard, of Philadelphia, conveyed to him, as of Chester County, in consideration of £12, of lawful money of the province, lands—Thomas to pay to the proprietary the customary quit-rent on said lands; grantor gave possession by "delivering these presents in open Court."

2. Thomas, living in 1730, also in 1753, when he and his wife have from his brother Anthony full liberty to "improve, occupy and quietly possess the six acres of land he now liveth on, during their natural lives." In 1731, he has a legacy from his uncle John of £20. 1, 29, 1714, he and Elthey Hendricks declare their intention of marriage; the second time, she is called Helthey. 3, 31, 1714, the marriage was reported orderly. Margary Southey was dau. of Robert, one of the first purchasers of land from William Penn. Anthony's will is dated June 9, 1753; proven Sept. 5, 1760. In 1731, he has a legacy from his Uncle John. October, 1729, he and his wife, of Birmingham, convey seventy acres conveyed to her by her parents.

11. William, living in 1753, intestate, of West Bradford, and letters to James Marshall, July 1, 1766, no estate of any account. Taxed in West Bradford as unm. in 1740. He was m. in 1754, but not in 1766. Perhaps in East Marlborough in 1747 and 1749, married.

12. Joseph, in 1753 of Newlinton. Intestate, and letters to Anthony, March 16, 1790. Inventory, £8. 4s. 1d.
13. Elizabeth, m. Daugherty, and living in 1753.
14. Anthony. +
15. George.
16. John. +
17. Thomas. +
18. Martha, m. Nichols.
19. Hannah, m. Keach, probably William.
20. Robert, b. Aug. 21, 1773; letters on his estate of West Marlborough were granted to his widow Hannah. His inventory was £585. The account was filed Sept. 20, 1791, by Sheshbazar Bentley and his wife, late Hannah Baldwin.
21. Ann, m. Clark.
22. Margary, m. John Gray.
23. Sarah, m. Walker, probably William.

Anthony leaves his grandson William Edwards £5. He remembers all the above children. Feb. 10, 1769, Margary writes to Henry Hale Graham to file accounts "without my coming down to Chester any more about that matter," and the paper was witnessed by her sons Anthony, John and Thomas: also by John Gray, William Walker and William Keech. Margary made her will, dated Aug. 22, 1779; proven Sept. 26, 1782. She omitted William, Joseph, George and Robert. Anthony's first marriage disturbed the Friends of Chester, who, 4, 30, 1712, appointed Agnes Salkeld and Kathern Fairlamb "to gitt a paper of condemnation writ." The paper presented at the next meeting was:

"WHEREAS, At our Monthly Meeting, held at Providence ye 30 day of ye 4th mo. last past, it was made apear that Hannah Baldwin, daughter William and Mary Coburn, laityly belonging to this meeting, contrary to the counsell, Advice and Christian Labour of the Friends of this Meeting to her, at Sundry times given, have actually married to one who does not any way profess the truth with us, which, as it is contrary to the Apostle's Advice of not being unequally yoked, so it is as consistent thereto, contrary to the Christian care of our Society and Rules thereof; it is the sence, therefore, of this meeting that the said Hannah Baldwin is out of unity with us until she condemn the same to this meeting; satisfaction, which we truly desire that in a sence of her disorderly practice therein she may sincerely do: and this meeting request Agnes Salkeld and Mary Dell to Read a Copy of this minit to her, if she will give them an opportunity, that so she may know how she stands in relation to Friends, desiring she may effectually consider thereon.

"Signed by order, and on behalf of Chester Monthly Meeting, held at Providence, ye 28th of ye 5th mo., 1712, by MARY DELL CLARK."

9. JOIN<sup>3</sup> Joseph<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup> is with little doubt (being from Chester county, Philadelphia,) the John of Byberry, in the outskirts of Philadelphia, Penn., who m., in 1725, Sarah Gilbert, b.

June 4, 1700, a sister of the gr. grandsire of Gilbert Cope, Esq., of West Chester, Penn. (my informant), and had at least two sons, John and Joseph.

24. John.

25. Joseph.

April 9, 1743, Joseph Gilbert, of Byberry township, yeoman, deeds to his dau. Sarah, wife of John Baldwin, two hundred and fifty-four acres out of one thousand granted by William Penn, Sept. 15, 1681, to Hugh Lamb, of St. Martin, in the Fields Middlesex, hosier, as part of two thousand acres. Lamb, by will, 8, 20, 1686, to his brother Daniel, who died intestate, and inherited by his brother Joseph, of Oxford, hosier, who, 8. 30, 1711, deeded to James Logan, sometimes of Philadelphia, merchant, warrant of survey, June 25, 1710, near the manor of Richland, Bucks county, and deeded May 15, 1716, by Logan, to Joseph Gilbert.

In the uncertainties of the Johns, I leave the above, although it will be seen, under John, of Bristol, Bucks county, (hereafter under the heading, "MISCELLANEOUS PENNSYLVANIA,") that his son is more probably the husband of Sarah Gilbert, and his children are there traced. Nor can I make John, of Oxford, Philadelphia county, come right, who died too soon, leaving a son, who was a joiner.

10. WILLIAM<sup>3</sup> William<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup> of Delaware county, now Chester county. Taxed as unmarried in Aston in 1734, but next year as married; also in 1747 and 1749. In 1754, 1756 and 1757, appears none of Aston, but of Bethel. Then he appears in Bethel until 1786. He was probably born about 1710 to 1715. He could not have been the son of John, of Aston; possibly he was of Francis, of Chester, whose children do not appear with certainty, but not probably so, as being born too late, and not named with other sons by the Uncle in his will. He could not have been the son of Thomas, of Chester, as that William died in 1722. But the last William left his property to his wife. His father, in 1731, mentions William's rightful heir. I incline to think this rightful heir was probably the above William, of Aston. That very accurate genealogist, Mr. Cope, made the suggestion which I have arrived at the second time by elimination. Cope, with high probability, makes him the father of

26. John, of Concord and Newton. +

There is little doubt but that he was also the father of 27. David, an unm. taxable; of Bethel in 1771; m. by 1775; and of Concord in 1780 and 1785.

28. William, an unm. taxable; of Bethel in 1775 and 1780.

29. William, b. in Chester County, Penn., in 1770. +

30. George. +

31. Joseph.

32. Robert, said by relations of his wife to have m. his cousin Phebe, dau. of Thomas Baldwin, who d. without issue.

33. Ezekiel.

34. Harlon.

35. Anthony.

36. Walthel. +

37. Rachel.

38. Elizabeth.

39. Mary.

16. JOHN<sup>3</sup> Anthony<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup> b. in Chester county, Penn.; he was living in 1779, and in 1786, to renounce letters on his mother's estate, then of Kennett. He m. Ruth Way, b. May 18, 1745, dau. of John and Ann (Hannum) Way. His will, dated Dec. 2, 1808, was proved March 11, 1809. He gave his wife Ruth his "tenement and ground in Kennett Square, with furniture." He gave his son John £130, wearing apparel, and gold sleeve buttons.

40. Mary, m. Jason Davis; lives in 1826.

41. John. +

42. Hannah, m. Jonathan Richards, and among her ch. were: Ruth, who m. Edward Edmondson; and their youngest dau. E. Jane, in 1875 the wife of George Spence, of Springfield, Ohio, gave me an account of her ancestry, which, for tradition, was exceedingly correct.

43. Sarah.

44. Ruth, m. Benjamin Tayler, and 2nd, Thomas Wilson; she had a dau. Ruth Ann, who m. Dr. Charles L. Seal, of Unionville, Chester county, and Mr. and Mrs. Seal had three ch., d. y. She d. leaving a dau. Anne, unm. in 1877.

April 30, 1796, of London Grove, yeoman, he and his wife Ruth conveyed to John Jackson two hundred acres there for £3,000, bought March 2, 1768, of Joshua Pusey and his wife. His widow Ruth made her will, dated Feb. 18, 1826; proven July 2, 1829; she was then of East Marlborough.

17. THOMAS<sup>3</sup> Anthony<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup> of Newlin, Chester county, Penn., Dec. 26, 1809, intestate, and letters to Joseph Bernard and Richard Bernard, Jr. He m. Lydia Johnson, b. July 4, 1742, likely dau. of Robert and Katharine (Hadley) Johnson, of New Garden township. He was the son of Robert and Margaret Johnson, from Ireland, and she dau. of Simon and Ruth Hadley; also from Ireland. She d. Jan. 9, 1832.

45. Hadley. +

46. Thomas, b. April 11, 1769. +

47. Johnson. +

48. Caleb. +

49. Robert. +

50. Levi. +

51. Phebe, m. Robert Baldwin, s. Anthony, and d. soon without issue. Another says he m. Walthal Baldwin.

52. Catharine, m. Samuel Lilley, and had ch.: (1) Thomas; (2) Caleb, living in 1877, probably at Thorndale, Chester county, Penn.; (3) Samuel; (4) Walter, in 1877, and his s. Robert has a store and post office at Marshaltown, Chester county, Penn.; (5) Lydia; (6) Catharine; (7) Mary; and (8) Jane.

53. Anne, m. George Vernon, and had ch., George and Lydia, and moved West.

54. Lydia, b. Feb. 22, 1778; m. James Marshall, and d. March 30, 1855, at or near Salem, Ohio; they had ch.: (1) Ann, m. Ellis Patterson, and has a s. Marshall living, in 1877, in Marshaltown; (2) Jane; (3) Johnson; (4) Phebe, m. William Preston, and living, in 1877, at Unionville, Chester county; (5) Thomas; (6) Jacob; (7) Lydia; (8) John, said to be living at Salem, Ohio, in 1877; (9) Levi; (10) Elizabeth; (11) Moses; (12) Catharine; and (13) William.

The following is from the descendants of Thomas, and likely from some newspaper obituary of his widow Lydia Baldwin. The widow of Thomas Baldwin, of Newlin, departed this life on the 9th of January. 1832, in the ninety-third year of her age, having ten children, eighty-nine grandchildren, and one hundred and seventy-seven gr. grandchildren—total, two hundred and seventy-eight.

26. JOHN<sup>4</sup> William<sup>3</sup> William<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup> b. Oct. 19, 1737, is an unm. taxable, of Bristol, Delaware county, Penn. (his father's residence), in 1760. He m. and was of Aston; in 1766, of Concord; in 1780, of Newtown, where he remained in 1786. He was licensed March 5, 1761, to marry Sarah Hampton, dau. of ——— and Sarah Hampton, of Thornbury township. She was living at the death of her father in 1774, which was probably at her husband's house. Aug. 5, 1778, he was read into membership at Concord. He and his wife, in 1779, had a certificate in Goshen to Concord, and she again in 1795.

55. Sarah, in 1779, certified in Goshen to Concord, and again in 1795. In 1799, as Booth, late Baldwin, was disowned for marriage out of meeting.

57. Hannah, from Goshen to Concord, in 1778.

58. Willam. +

60. Elizabeth. She and Daniel Massey were complained of, 4, 8, 1796, for marriage by a "hireling teacher," and disowned, 6, 10, 1796.

He m. 2nd, June 10, 1779, then of Newtown, Chester (now Delaware) county, at Middletown Meeting (now Delaware), Rebecca Register, of Edgemont township. # WILLIAM BALDWIN, OF BUCKS COUNTY, PENN.,

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. WILLIAM BALDWIN, of Bucks county, Penn., is the ancestor of a family not numerous. He was, it seems, from Yorkshire, England. He was likely of the family of Baldwins settled there. I know not how long. The Herald's visitations found them there in 1595, 1612 and 1665. There is no probability that the family was connected with the other Baldwins of this country. I give his biography (furnished by Gilbert Cope, Esq., of West Chester, Penn.)

[From "Biographical Sketches of Ministers and Elders, and other concerned Members of the Yearly Meeting of Philadelphia." The Friend, Vol. 28, p. 348. 1855.]

William Baldwin was born at Gisbourn, in Yorkshire, England, of parents professing the truth. Having received a gift in the ministry of the Gospel, in the twentieth year of his age, he was faithful thereto; and growing in grace, his gift was deepened until he became an able instrument in the Lord's hand. He visited, as his Master led him, the churches throughout England, Scotland and Ireland. In the year 1708, when he was liberated to pay a religious visit to America, we find him a Member of the Monthly Meeting at Marsden, in Lancashire, England. Sailing for Virginia, he landed there in the Third Month, 1709; and proceeding directly to Philadelphia, he attended the General Meeting of Ministers held there the 4th of the Fourth Month. William's Gospel labors in Philadelphia were much to the satisfaction of Friends there. In respect to the opening of the Meeting of Ministers above referred to, we have an account preserved, of which the substance is this: "Friends being met together, the power of the Lord was felt among them in an eminent manner, and several living testimonies were delivered in the ancient divine spring of life, tending much to the edification and comfort of those concerned in the work of the ministry." The visit to New England was performed in three months, to the relief of the visitors, and to the satisfaction of the visited. William Baldwin gave an account of the service, to the comfort of the meeting of Ministers, at the time of the Yearly Meeting, in the Seventh Month, which were corroborated by certificates from the Friends where they had traveled. William Baldwin, after this, had for a companion William Wilkinson; and in the First Month, 1710, he gave satisfactory information to the meeting of Ministers in Philadelphia of their visit in Maryland, Virginia and Carolina. He said they had had large and peaceable meetings, but there was great need of faithful laborers among Friends in the South. He then requested a returning certificate, having been but little over nine months in the country. Friends of America testified, some years after, that his visit among them was "performed with great diligence, to the glory of God, and the sweet satisfaction of Friends." He reported "he found Friends, a people of a generous spirit, and an openness in their hearts and houses." He soon felt a drawing in his mind to remove with his family to Pennsylvania to settle, and in due time laid the subject before the members of his own Monthly Meeting for their unity and approbation.

He probably arrived in Bucks county, Penn., in the spring of 1714, and by the Seventh Month of that year had been liberated to attend the Yearly Meeting on the eastern shore of Maryland, which visit he performed in company with Thomas Chalkley. In the beginning of the year 1715, he visited Long Island. In the beginning of 1716, he left home on a general visit to the eastward, and attended the Yearly Meeting of Rhode Island.

William Baldwin had evidently grown to the stature of a father in the truth, and the increasing estimation of his brethren may be traced in various ways. But although he seemed becoming more and more qualified for usefulness in the Church, through his discernment, his dedication, his diligence, yet his Master, seeing that his day's work was accomplished, removed him after an illness of two weeks' duration, from his field of labor to his eternal rest. He was taken sick on the 15th day of the Sixth Month, 1720, and died on the 29th of the same month. Samuel Smith says of him: "He had an eminent, deep and reaching ministry. He was in great esteem in the Society of Friends, and well beloved by his neighbors."

William's wife was Mary, who came with him. She married 2nd, Ellis Lewis, and her certificate signed Feb. 4, 1724, from the Meeting at the Falls in Bucks county, to Newark, New Castle county.

Ellis Lewis was born in Wales about 1680. He came to Pennsylvania in 1708; m., in 1713, Elizabeth Newlin, by whom he had children: Robert, Mary, Nathaniel and Ellis. He settled in Kennett, Chester county, in 1716. He was an active Friend and useful citizen. He removed to Wilmington in 1749, and died Aug. 31, 1750. His widow returned to Chester county, and died in 1754. Her will is dated Dec. 13, 1753, and proved July 11, 1854. She had no children by Lewis; she had by William Baldwin at least a son born in England.

23. WILLIAM <sup>4</sup> Thomas <sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> b. in Newlin, Chester county, Penn., March 29, 1778, or (says his biographer) 1779. He early showed a thirst for knowledge, and became a teacher. He then turned his attention to medicine. His classmate at the Medical Lectures of the University of Pennsylvania, in 1802-3, is his biographer. He early showed great benevolence of character. He was soon noted as a botanist. In 1805, he was Surgeon of a merchant ship to China, by way of Antwerp, where his skill and amiability were warmly enlogized, while his childlike simplicity was shown in his taking only three shirts. Such, says his friend, was the devotion and singleness of purpose shown in all his undertakings. He never seemed to think of his personal convenience.

April 10, 1807, he had returned and received his degree of M.D. He settled in Wilmington, Del., where he m. Miss Hannah M. Webster, of that city. In 1811, he went South, on account of a hereditary disposition to pulmonary consumption, a disease which in the end swept away the whole of the family of his father. During the war of 1812-15, he was a Surgeon in the navy, chiefly at Savannah and St. Mary's. All his leisure time was given to botany. A genus of southern plants were named Baldwinia by Dr. Nuttall, as he expressed it, "as a just tribute" to his talents and industry, "whose botanical zeal and knowledge have rarely been equalled in America." The Government appointed him, in 1817, to accompany the Commissioner to Buenos Ayres and other ports of South America. On his return, he was selected to accompany, as Surgeon and Botanist, Major Long's Expedition up the Missouri river. He died at Franklin, on the banks of that river, Sept. 1, 1819. Dr. F. Boott, the distinguished botanist of London, offered a liberal sum for a monument over his grave. It was found that the Missouri had torn away the entire burial ground. His early death cut short great promise of usefulness. He had published but little in system, principally one paper in Silliman's Journal, and one in the "American Philosophical Transactions." A learned correspondence, with his portrait, appears in "Reliquiae Baldwinianae; Selections from the Correspondence of the late William Baldwin, M.D., Surgeon in the U. S. Navy, with occasional Notes, and a short Biographical Memoir, compiled by William Darlington, M.D. Philadelphia: Kimber & Sharpless. 1843. 12mo.; pp. 346."

He left four little daughters, the youngest about one year old, but I do not know what became of them. A letter, dated July 29, 1813, mentions 36. Maria.

30. JOSEPH T.<sup>5</sup> John<sup>4</sup> William<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> William,<sup>1</sup> b. in East Calm, Chester county, Penn., June 8, 1801; was a merchant in Philadelphia, Penn. He m. Louisa A. Clark, who survived him, and is now, in 1877, wife of Claudius B. Linn, a druggist of that city. Joseph left two children:

37. Susan L., unm. Address in 1877: 123 North Twentieth street, Philadelphia. She is Treasurer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

WILLIAM BALDWIN, OF STRATFORD, CONNECTICUT,

---

1. WILLIAM, of Stratford, Conn., is first recognized as marrying, July 2, 1688, Ruth Brooks, of Wallingford, Conn. She was born Feb. 7, 1665, dau. of John. I cannot connect him with any of the previous lines. He may very likely have been connected collaterally with some of the Baldwins of Milford, separated from Stratford by a river only. A very thorough search, and an apparently complete account for all the descendants of the New England Baldwins up to that date, makes me think that this William was an independent emigrant. In the account, in a former part of this book, of John, of County Bucks, England, it will be found under Triamor<sup>3</sup> Nicholas<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> that a Triamor, of London, made his will in 1729, in which he left £100 to his brother William, living in or near New York, and £100 each to Triamor and William, sons of his brother William. I cannot tell whether it is this William. His wife joined the Church in Stratford, Aug, 28, 1690; he, Aug. 29, 1739.

2. Joseph, b. Aug. 22, 1690. +

3. John, b. Feb. 20, 1692<sup>2</sup>/<sub>3</sub>. I think he was the John who m. in Litchfield, Conn., June 14, 1727, Ann Culver. He made his will there, Oct. 14, 1732, leaving his property to his wife Ann, and cow to Eunice Phelps; no ch. Ann, by her will, dated Nov. 20, 1784, and proved Feb. 13, 1789, leaves her property to Major Moses Seymour.

4. Mary, b. June 15, 1695.

5. Ruth, b. March 29, 1698; bapt. in 1734 (adult).

6. Ebenezer. No date, but owned the covenant in 1723<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>. +

7. David, b. in 1701. +

8. Anne, or Amy, b. in 1705<sup>5</sup>/<sub>6</sub>.

9. Comfort, owned the covenant in 1723<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>.

10. Nathan, b. in 1710<sup>10</sup>/<sub>11</sub>.

A William appears, in Stratford, upon the records shortly after the death of this one, who very likely was a son.

2. JOSEPH<sup>2</sup> William,<sup>1</sup> b. in Stratford, Conn., Aug. 22, 1690; he m., and his wife owned the covenant at Stratford, July 11, 1730, and had her child baptized. Jan. 14, 1717, as of Stratford. he has a deed from John Burritt.

11. Child. bapt. July, 1730.
12. Ruth, b. August, 1734.
13. Comfort, bapt. Oct. 14, 1744.

Likely others.*

* I think it likely that one of the children of this Joseph was

1. JOSEPH. By information from the family in Canada, he was born in 1730 or 1736, who is said by them to have lived formerly in Stratford and Danbury (perhaps Woodbury), Conn., and d. in 1806, in Malden township, Essex county, Ontario. He m., Nov. 16, 1780, Mary Squire, b. 1757, who d. in 1843, at Colchester, Essex county, Ontario.

7. Russell, b. Dec. 1, 1792; d. in 1855.

8. Cyrus, b. May 9, 1796.

9. Mary, b. Oct. 25, 1797; m. Alexander Quick, and living in October, 1878, in Colchester, Essex county, Ontario. Mary says, in 1878, that she was eight years old when her father left Connecticut; that he had one brother that she distinctly remembers, but cannot say positively whether any other brothers or sisters; she thinks not. She thinks her father was b. in Stratford, and lived afterward at Danbury. She has also some recollection of Milford, but can give no further information. The names given me by the family are corrected from the Southbury (Conn.) Records.

3. AMOS, b. April 1, 1782; m., Feb. 17, 1803, Ann Gilbert, said to be from near New Haven, and sister of Mrs. Hannah Lewis. He moved to Canada in 1816.

24. Peter, b. May 8, 1844.

25. Amos, b. Oct. 6, 1846.

12. MORGAN (3) Amos (2) Joseph, (1) b. Nov. 20, 1811; m. Feb. 12, 1837, Eleanor Knapp; settled in Colchester, Ontario, about 1829. He was a carpenter and joiner until he was forty years old.

31. Bertha Eleanor.

32. Frederick Gilbert.

33. Lewis.

6. EBENEZER<sup>2</sup> William,<sup>1</sup> b. in Stratford, Conn.; no date is given, but he owned the covenant there in 172<sup>3</sup><sub>4</sub>. He settled in Waterbury, Conn., and the early records of that place—the best I ever saw—state him to have been the son of William, of Stratford. He m., in 1736, Mary Warner, dau. of John, of Waterbury. He d. in 1780, and his wife survived him.

14. Ebenezer; b. in 1737; d. in 1758.

7. DAVID<sup>2</sup> Ebenezer,<sup>1</sup> b. in Stratford, Conn., in 1701; m., Nov. 6, 1727, Sarah Cogwell. In 1733, he has a deed in Stratford. He and his wife join the Church there, Jan. 28, 174<sup>9</sup><sub>1</sub>. He had children there.

22. Sarah, b. in 1741.

23. Phinehas, b. in 1744.

24. Stephen, b. in 174<sup>6</sup><sub>7</sub>.

He must be, I think, the David "otherwise known as David 2nd, of Litchfield (David 1st being from Durham), who d. in 1783, and his will, dated June 26, and proved Oct. 7, 1783, mentions Phinehas as the oldest, Stephen as his youngest son, and two grandsons John and David Samuel. This one is said to have m. Sarah Landon. Was she his 2nd wife, or was Sarah a widow? My examination of this branch has been casual and hurried, and I have, in one point, given way to Rev. B. L. Swan, an able genealogist, for some years pastor at Stratford. The whole family descended from William, at least of the name, have disappeared from Stratford.

17. AMY<sup>3</sup> Ebenezer<sup>2</sup> William,<sup>1</sup> b. in Waterbury, Conn., in 174<sup>2</sup><sub>3</sub>; m. Eliakim Welton,<sup>4</sup> s. Eliakim,<sup>3</sup> and Eunice (Bronson), of Waterbury, s. Richard<sup>2</sup> and Mary (Upson) Welton, s. John<sup>1</sup> and Mary Welton. He was b. Sept. 22, 1736, and d. June 8, 1821. She d. Jan. 3, 1829. They lived in that part of Waterbury now Wolcott: and I am indebted to Dr. Samuel Orcutt's "History of Wolcott," for an account of this and her sister. He was an active Episcopalian.

VIRGINIA.

1. BENJAMIN. By tradition, his son Jesse was b. in North Carolina. There was a brother, the father of W. H., and probably Jonathan. (See 3 Jonathan.<sup>2</sup>)

2. Jesse. +

3. Jonathan. +

The tradition, in the line of Jesse, does not give the name of Benjamin,<sup>1</sup> the line of Jonathan does.

2. JESSE,<sup>2</sup> by tradition, b. in North Carolina; m. Miss Hannah Thornbury, and soon after moved to Greenbriar county, Va., where nine children were born.

4. Enos, m. Miss Hunt. He was a farmer in Champaign county, Ohio; raised a large family; d. aged about 55.

12. Richard, b. in 1796. +

After the birth of these children, Jesse moved to Washington county, Ohio. Soon after, his wife died, and his older children having left home, he m. 2nd, Marion Macy.

3. JONATHAN<sup>2</sup> Benjamin.<sup>1</sup> The descendants of Jonathan make him the eldest son of Benjamin, and say nothing of him back of Virginia. The Jesse branch gives Jesse a brother, unnamed, to Champaign county, and father W. H.; so I consider the connection fairly identified. Jonathan was by tradition from Loudon county, Va., and had children :

13. Judge William H. +

14. Joshua. +

25. Perry C., b. in 1816. +

26. Sarah, b. in 1818; living, in 1875, in Peru, Neb.

Thought by the relatives, other descendants of Jesse, to have m. Miss Elizabeth Rhodes, and had children :

27. Samuel.

28. Mary.

29. Hannah.

When the last was a babe, he went to Cincinnati; thence to Louisville, on pretext of business. It is said that he was recognized twenty years afterward, in the Red River country, as Reuben Davis, having there a wife, and daughter aged sixteen years or younger. The coincidences of the two Henrys are, that each was a saddler and harness maker, nearly six feet high, dark brown, well built and good looking; left two wives on the same business, to sell saddles and harnesses. Rev. Perry C. thinks them the same. I congratulate him on the abandonment, leaving him a child to grow an honorable and useful citizen.

* It is interesting here to find the traditional number of brothers (three), which in four out of five American families emigrated to America, and which is not true more than one case in ten. About the time of the Commonwealth, there was considerable emigration to Ireland, as well as to America. These Baldwins may or may not have been from Bucks county. Many Baldwins disappeared from Bucks about that time. Of Herbert Baldwin, of County Cork, "Burke's Commonsers," Vol. 1, page 695, says: "The first of this family who came to Ireland were two brothers, who settled there tempus Elizabeth. The elder was Ranger of one of the Royal parks, and married the daughter of Herbert, of Powis, a home ennobled under that title. From this alliance, the Christian name has been transmitted in the family, which has continued to quarter the arms of Herbert with those of Baldwin." With this sketch is an engraving of the arms. A description of them will be found ante page 75, very similar to the Baldwins of Bucks. Fairbairn gives the crest of Herbert Baldwin, Esq., M.D., of Clohina, County Cork, as on page 75.

RICHARD BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONNECTICUT.

46. STEPHEN<sup>3</sup> Zachariah<sup>2</sup> Richard,<sup>1</sup> ante page 98; m. 2nd, as appears by the recent "History of Charlestown, Mass.," Sarah Phillips, b. March 8, 1712, dau. of John, of that place, and his wife Anna, widow of Isaac Greenwood, and dau. of Joseph Lynde; was the son of Col. John. Col. John was Treasurer of the Province of Massachusetts, Judge, etc., and m. Katharine Anderson, dau. of John, of Boston. Stephen had issue in Charlestown.

Sarah, b. Feb. 19, 1746-7.

Nathan, b. Feb. 18, 1750; d. Dec. 12, 1752.

Nathan, b. Dec. 23, 1752.

He was taxed there in 1748, and in 1757, with his wife, sold to John Hay his right in the Phillips estate.

1. EZEKIEL,<sup>5</sup> of Percippany, Morris county, N. J., b. in 1736; d. in 1822, aged 86. His ancestry is not traced, but I think it likely that he was the son of Zachariah<sup>4</sup> Zachariah<sup>3</sup> Zachariah<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup> (ante page 105), and b. between Jacob and Job. The late John R. Burnett, of that vicinity (Hanover), thinks he was father (but not certainly) of

2. Ezekiel, who, by tradition of his nephew Enoch, had three daus., of whom one m. Willis, and one Gaines. He d. in Morris county, N. J.

3. Elias. +

4. Matthew. +

5. Daniel. +

6. Isaac. Enoch is not certain of him, and Mr. Burnett did not name him.

Enoch says these sons all fought in the Revolution; that their parents came from Connecticut Shore to Morris county. I think the probability strong that they belong to the line indicated which I have traced but scantily, and with much labor.

3. ELIAS.<sup>6</sup> By the report of Enoch, No. 12, he had at least

- 10. Mitchell.
- 11. Daniel.

He thinks that some of the descendants lives near Montezuma, N. Y., in 1875.

4. MATTHEW<sup>6</sup> m. Elizabeth Bigelow, and d. in Colville township, N. J.: (or is it Caldwell, as is said at another time?) His grandson thinks he was, at an early day, in the Mohawk Valley, N. Y., and thence to Caldwell.

- 12. Enoch, b. about 1786. +
- 13. Isaac, b. about 1787. +
- 14. William, d. in Indiana; no ch.
- 15. Abby, m. Reynolds, and living, in 1875, in Illinois.
- 16. Jane, m. Waterman, and living, in 1875, in Kansas.
- 17. Lucy, m. Quimby; thought to be of Iowa.
- 18. Phebe.
- 19. ———, daughter.

5. DANIEL.<sup>6</sup> His nephew Enoch, when aged eighty-six, says Daniel was Captain in the Revolution, wounded in the foot, lost a leg, and when he last saw him was warden, or chief manager of the New York State Prison, and thinks he died in New York City. He had a descendant, however, whose story is, without naming him, that he had lost a leg in the Revolution, held the office of Captain, and at or about the time of his death was keeper of the State Prison, then located in New York City. There would seem to be no doubt of the identity.

- 20. Elias, d. on a sea voyage.
- 21. Silas T. +
- 22. Edwin, lived and d. in New York City.
- 23. Harriet, m. Count de Ribas, and went to Carracas, South America.

12. ENOCH<sup>7</sup> Matthew,<sup>6</sup> b. about 1786; living, in 1875, in West Union, Fayette county, Iowa. He was in the war of 1812, and is a pensioner. He m. Elizabeth Stockman, of Orange, N. J., whose mother's name was Ursula. He removed thence to Hanover, N. J.; thence to Newark, N. J.; thence, in 1836, to Newark, Ohio; in 1846, to Ringwood, Ill.; and several years afterward, to West Union; 89 years old in 1875. He had by his 1st marriage four sons and two daughters, of whom were living in 1875:

29. Charles, m. and in 1877, living in Livingston, with one ch. aged 18.

JOHN BALDWIN, OF MILFORD, CONNECTICUT.

1. MATTHEW, of Middlebury, Milford and Woodbridge, Conn., appears as a grantee, of Middlebury, Conn., Nov. 2, 1761; then called Balden, and afterward Baldwin. He is afterward described in deeds as of Woodbridge, which must have been the north part, now Naugatuck. Some of his descendants say he came from Milford to Woodbridge. His name appears upon the Milford Records, and so often as to indicate considerable property. I cannot place him with certainty, but think he is not unlikely of some of the Connecticut stock already described. Joseph<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup> had children born about the time Matthew must have been. Samuel<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup> (ante page 309), b. in 1689; d. in 1764, and in his will provides for children born from about 1740 to 1752, and says he has before given his other older children what he was capable of giving them. In 1768, Samuel Sanford conveys to Matthew, of New Haven; in 1774, Matthew, of Milford, conveys to Joseph Smith; and next year the order of conveyance is reversed, Joseph Smith, of New Haven, to Matthew, of Milford. He seems to have been called, rather indiscriminately, of New Haven and Milford; as June 12, 1766, he is of Milford, and the 19th of the same month, of New Haven. This happened to other Baldwins in the limits of what is now Woodbridge; and I confess I feel considerable confidence that Matthew will prove to be the son of Samuel above. Possibly the lands which took him to the north part of Woodbridge first were "right in the Indian Purchase," bought by Samuel of Josiah<sup>3</sup> Josiah<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> in 1722. The information that follows, I get partly from Probate Records, deeds and family. Some of the family think he came from "Amity," which is the old name for Woodbridge, and this was where the above Samuel lived. Matthew m., in Woodbridge, Abigail Thomas, dau. of a sea captain of New Haven; she d. July 11, 1812, aged 80; he, some ten or twelve years before, it is said.

2. Abigail, b. in 1753; m. Samuel Lewis, of Naugatuck,

6. Patience, m. Mills, of Canton, Conn.

7. Matthew, b. June 15, 1767. +

8. Abel. +

9. Daughter, m. Milo Lewis, of Naugatuck, and may be a relation of William Lewis, of Naugatuck; to whom, in 1873, I am referred for information.

10. Isaac. His relation Noyes says he went to Pittsburgh, and d. there in 1845. Samuel, his nephew, says he changed his name to Andrew Johnson, (it is said in frolic, exchanging names with a friend,) lived in Meadville, and reared a family by that name; and one son, in 1838, lived in Ohio.

11. Truman, b. Oct. 22, 1772. +

Another descendant of Matthew says he came from the south part of Woodbridge to the north part of now Naugatuck. In 1794, he conveys, as of Woodbridge, land there to his son Matthew.

7. MATTHEW<sup>2</sup> Matthew,<sup>1</sup> b. June 15, 1767, when first appears of record, is styled of Woodbridge, Conn., and appears to have been in that part now Naugatuck. He m., June 3, 1789, Mary Newton, of Milford, b. June 22, 1769, and d. March 14, 1857. He d. in 1817. He received among other conveyances, Aug. 7, 1790, from David Lumbard, his interest in one bit purchase at Beacon Hill Brook; in 1790, from Nathan and Elihu, one bit purchase, the right of their father Nathan. He made liberal deeds to his children during his life, and June 24, 1817, by his will (New Haven Probate, 29, 274,) he gave to his sons Alanson and Lucien, and made his son Marshall residuary devisee; he to support the wife Mary, and pay legacies to his daughters; and he was made guardian of Emily and Anna.

He m. in New Haven county, Conn., a wife, b. in 1776, d. in 1802. I think he is the one who, in the Records of Oxford, Conn., appears to have m., Jan. 19, 1797, Anna Hurlbut, of Roxbury.

1. LEVI BALDWIN, presumed to be Levi<sup>4</sup> Samuel<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> (No. 140, ante page 310,) m. Experience Goff. They were natives of Connecticut. There were other Baldwins of the neighborhood who migrated to Canada; and I find no other Levi to fit this place, though the name occurred in Eastern Connecticut. He was the second pioneer of the settlement of Barnston, Canada. He made a beginning on No. 15, in the 16th Range, and moved his family early in 1799. Their experiences involved many hardships and privations; like their early neighbors, they were often reduced to very great straits for provisions while clearing their farm. They were often obliged to go the distance of ten or twenty miles and bring home bags of flour or meal upon their backs. During their first summer, they made salts of lye for the purpose of buying bread. They had to subsist upon leeks, birch bark and fish. They made about sixteen hundred weight of salts, which were worth at that time about fifty dollars. They entrusted the salts to a neighbor, who took them to market. On his return, he told them the salts were worthless. Not satisfied, Richard Baldwin, one of the sons, a lad of some seventeen years, went to St. Johnsbury, where the salts had been taken, and found that they had been sold at four dollars per hundred weight. In the meantime, the man had invested the money in Indian corn, at one dollar a bushel, and brought the corn to Stanstead Plain and sold it at the rate of four dollars per bushel. Without knowing the circumstances at the time, the Baldwins bought a bushel of this corn, for which they had to pay eight days' hard work in felling trees. She died in 1815. He afterward married Abigail Mills. He died in 1843; she d. in 1830. The children by the 1st marriage were:

He commenced in the mercantile business as clerk for M. Mr. Baldwin was the pioneer of the settlement of the present village of Coaticook. For many years, this settlement formed a part of the wild lands of Barnston. He had made a small clearing in the forest about 1840, and two small log houses had been built. In 1842, Horace Cutting built a store, and started business in connection with Marcus Child, Esq., who afterward sold his property in Stanstead and removed to this place. A post office was established in 1844, Mr. Cutting, Postmaster. The name of the office, suggested by Mr. Child, was afterward adopted as that of the village. For some years, the settlement progressed but slowly; but the advantages derived from the location of the Grand Trunk Railway, the eastern portion of which had been completed, and which passed directly through the village, rendered it at once a place of importance, and its growth has been unprecedentedly rapid. Its local advantages and ample water privileges have been improved by active and energetic men, who have contributed much to the growth and prosperity of the village. Among these may be mentioned Richard Baldwin, Jr., Marcus Child, Horace Cutting, Lewis L. Sleeper, A. A. Adams, John Thornton, Dr. Benjamin Damon and Amos K. Fox. The descendants of the Baldwin and Cleaveland families of Barnston are among the business men of the place. As an active and thorough business man, Richard Baldwin is not surpassed by any in the county. Peleg, of Washington, Conn.: birth entered, but no parent, as of Aug. 19, 1770, and to whom and his wife Anna the following ch. were b. there: (1) Nancy, Sept. 11, 1792; (2) Lyman, Jan. 19, 1795; (3) Comfort, June 23, 1797; (4) Daniel March 17, 1801; (5) Samuel, Oct. 1, 1803; and (6) Caroline, Jan. 26, 1806.

297. NATHANIEL <sup>5</sup> Elijah <sup>4</sup> Nathaniel <sup>3</sup> John <sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> (ante pages 320 and 340.) The account before given of him is mainly from Mr. Congar, with whom he may have confounded some other Nathaniel. Nathaniel's grand-daughter, Mrs. M. W. Baldwin, gives the following account of him, identifying him beyond doubt. He m. Rhoda Beach, and had children:

1. Elizabeth, m. Aaron Roff, of Newark; a dau. Mary Roff m. Roderick Curtiss, of New York, who d. a few years ago in Wallingford, Conn., where she d. also. The Curtises left one dau. Fanny, unm.; now (November, 1880,) in Europe, home in Wallingford.

109. MATTHIAS <sup>4</sup> Jonathan <sup>3</sup> John <sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> (ante page 321.) b. about 1759, and of Elizabethtown, N. J. I have from his grand-child, Miss Catharine Ross Baldwin, a corrected statement of his children. The children were:

339. John.

340. Jonathan. +

341. William. +

342. Joanna.

343. Phebe, m. Josiah Meeker, and had a gr. s. William Greenwood, who, in 1880, is living at Lyons Farms, near Elizabeth, N. J.

The child Lucy, given him on page 321, b. long after his death, was given him by an inadvertance, excusable when it is remembered that I have chronicled herein over ten thousand persons. She belonged, perhaps, to No. 308, page 320, or some other Matthias.

340. JONATHAN<sup>5</sup> Matthias<sup>4</sup> Jonathan,<sup>3</sup> m. Sally Anderson, and had children :

680. Fraser.

681. William A., lived at Newark, N. J.

341. WILLIAM<sup>5</sup> Matthias<sup>4</sup> Jonathan<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> lived and d. in Elizabeth, N. J. He m. Phebe Skinner, of Springfield, N. J., whose mother before marriage was Miss Ball, said to be a cousin of the mother of Gen. Washington. He was a carriage maker, and a "good man," called the "father of the poor." His kindness and benevolence seems to have descended to his son.

683. Sarah, d. in Philadelphia a few years ago; unm.

685. Matthias W., b. Dec. 10, 1795. +

686. Mary R., m. Owen Colton; they are both dead. They left a dau. Anna, who was adopted by her uncle Matthias W., and a further account of her appears under his name.

685. MATTHIAS W.<sup>6</sup> William<sup>5</sup> Matthias<sup>4</sup> Jonathan<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> There lies before me a "Memorial of Matthias W. Baldwin. 'Do good by stealth, and blush to call it fame.' Philadelphia: Privately printed. 1867." An elegant octavo volume of 237 pages, and a fine portrait. From it I learn that Matthias William was b. in Elizabethtown, N. J., Dec. 10, 1795, and was the son of William, who left a comfortable estate, lost by the executors, leaving a widow with five children, of whom the youngest was Matthias W., aged four years. From his earliest years, he was a mechanic. From the first, the little toys he made were remarkable for their finish. At sixteen, he was apprenticed to a jeweler. While thus employed, his mother removed to Philadelphia, and in 1817 he moved there. In 1819, he commenced manufacturing ornamental jewelry. He subsequently entered into the manufacture of various nice contrivances, largely invented by himself, and never patented, for binding books, calico printing and etching, and afterward of stationary engines.

In 1832, he built the pioneer American locomotive, having exhibited in 1831 a model of it. He made many improvements in them after the works grew to be very large; and before Mr. Baldwin died, his works had made over fifteen hundred. As I write this, I notice that "The Baldwin Locomotive Works" employ twenty-five hundred men, and cover nine acres. It is amusing to notice that the Company using his first locomotive, advertised to use it, but that "when the weather is not fair, the horses will draw the cars."

Mr. Baldwin became while young an earnest and devoted Christian, and a man of wide benevolence. He had a firm, decided, energetic temperament, and very firm convictions of duty. I will not enumerate the long list of Church enterprises or other charities in which he was engaged. He was quite noted for his liberality, and labor as well, and till his death was a Sunday School Superintendent. He also exerted his active influence in questions of politics. In 1837, a member of the Constitutional Convention, he was firmly against the word "white" in the Constitution, and ever afterward stood firmly for equal rights, subject to no mere accident of birth.

Although always busy, and continuing so until his death, he found time to give attention to public societies. He was an original member of the Franklin Institute, and Vice President from 1855 to 1863; a member of the American Philosophical Society; and from 1858 to 1863, President of the Horticultural Society, and a Director of the Academy of Fine Arts; at one time Member of the Legislature, and performing other services for the public.

He seems to have had no selfishness in his composition, and to have had a wide good sense and ability, much relied upon by all around him. He d. at Philadelphia, Penn., Sept. 7, 1866. He m., in 1827, Sarah Crane Baldwin<sup>7</sup> Josiah<sup>6</sup> Nathaniel<sup>5</sup> Elijah<sup>4</sup> Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup> (see page 340, No. 297,) who is living in November, 1880. They had children:

John G. R. McElory, Professor of English Literature in the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, and has had ch.: Clayton and Catharine. (2) Louisa B., m. Washington A. Galpin, a lawyer of Philadelphia, and has two ch.: Louisa C. Galpin and Charles Galpin. (3) Ella M. Clayton, unm.

APPENDIX.

BRUEN.

---

A large share of the Baldwins who are descended from John, Sen., of Milford, are also descended from John Bruen, of Bruen Stapleford, Cheshire, England. John Baldwin married his daughter Mary, and John,<sup>2</sup> eldest son of John,<sup>1</sup> married Mary Bruen, a niece of his stepmother. I have been favored by Mr. George F. Tuttle, of New York City, with an account of the Bruens, which I intended to have published in full, but which I condense because my book is already too large. The estate, which for more than five hundred years was the family seat of the Bruens, is a few miles east of Chester.

ROBERT LE BRUEN,<sup>1</sup> the first of the family, appears in a grant of lands bearing date 1230, and had issue:

1. Thomas le Bruen, grantee of lands from John, s. Hugh, s. Hamo de Brune.
2. Eva, m. Phillip de Stratton.
3. ROBERT,<sup>2</sup> heir of Bruen Stapleford.

The last had issue:

EMMA,<sup>3</sup> sole dau. and heiress, m. ROGER LE BRUEN, and had ch.

1. Joan,<sup>4</sup> m. John Holford, and
2. ROBERT,<sup>4</sup> son and heir; d. before 27 Edward III. (1354), and had issue:
  1. Robert,<sup>5</sup> who commanded a Company of Archers in France, 30 Edward III., (1357).
  2. ROGER,<sup>5</sup> son and heir, by deed, 11 Edward II. (1309); d. 35 Edward III. (1362); m. Catharine, dau. John de Leigh, and had issue.
    1. Geoffrey,<sup>6</sup> ancestor of the Bruens of Tarvin.
    2. NICHOLAS,<sup>6</sup> m. Ellena, dau. Roger de Praers, and sister and sole heiress of Henry de Praers, of Duddon, and had issue.

ROGER,<sup>7</sup> marriage contract, in 1383, to Catharine, dau. Sir John Norris. By inquisition, 4 Henry VI. (1426), after the death of Roger, it appears he held in demesne, as of fee, the manor of Bruen Stapleford, from the Bishop of Coventry and Litchfield, by military service, value per annum eight marks, with lands in Clotten, Wymbalds, Trafford, Oscroft Farm, Childes, Christleton, Guilden, Sutton, Barton, Huxley, Hargreave and Chester. He had issue.

THOMAS,<sup>8</sup> who m. Alice, dau. Thomas Greenway, of Biddulph, County Stafford, who had

John,<sup>9</sup> second son.

Robert,<sup>9</sup> third son, living 4 Henry VII. (1489).

JAMES,<sup>9</sup> eldest, m. the dau., who is heiress of John Dedwoods, of Chester, and had issue.

1. John,<sup>10</sup> eldest; m. but d. without issue before 24 Henry VIII (1533), and was succeeded by his brother

2. JAMES,<sup>10</sup> who m. Anne, dau. Geoffrey Starkie and Sybella his wife, and eleven ch., of whom the eldest son was

JOHN,<sup>11</sup> He m. a dau. of Ottey, of Ottey, County Salop. He had issue:

JOHN,<sup>12</sup> eldest son; m. 1st, Anne, sister of Sir John Done, who d. without issue; and he m. 2nd, Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Holford, of Holford. John<sup>12</sup> d. in 1587, and had a son JOHN,<sup>13</sup> bapt. in 1560, the eldest of thirteen ch., the father-in-law of John Baldwin, of Milford.

John Bruen's life was published first in 1641, under the title: "The very Singular Life of John Bruen, Esq., of Bruen Stapleford, Cheshire, exhibiting a variety of Memorable and Exemplary Circumstances, which may be of Great Utility to all Persons, but Principally Intended as a Precedent of Piety and Charity for the Inhabitants of the County of Chester. By the Rev. William Hinde, Fellow of Queen's College, Oxford, and Preacher of God's Word at Bunberry, in the aforesaid County." It was republished at Chester in 1799, and in New York in 1857; and a Synopsis was published in Ormerod's "History of Chester." John Bruen is one of the few persons whose private virtues alone, in the rank of a country gentleman, have handed down his memory. His tenets were Calvinistic, but his goodness of heart would reflect honor on any religion. He was prepared for College by his brother Dutton, of Dutton. Afterward he and his brother Thomas were gentlemen commoners at Oxford (Alban Hall), from 1574 to 1580. Having then married the daughter of Henry Hardware (twice Mayor of Chester, and Sheriff of the county), he retired to Bruen Stapleford and its amusements. His father died in 1587, leaving him his lands charged with the portions of twelve children; to settle these, the park, well stocked with deer, was disparked, and hawks, hounds and every unnecessary expense cut off. His mind seemed turned to forming in his family a pattern of religious economy which was eccentric, but appears to have been the result of unaffected piety. His anti-papery prejudices were very strong, like those of other Puritans; and the rich painted glass in the church of his ancestors at Tarvin fell a sacrifice to it, although they contained the arms and monuments of his ancestors. He was noted for his pious influence, and according to the customs of the times, there were many persons in his household placed there to be associated with him. Among them were Lady Egerton, daughter of the Lord Chancellor, Sir Michael Grosvenor, and many whose virtues are "still proverbial in Cheshire." There were at one time twenty-one of these persons. The expense was more than he could afford, and after the death of his second wife, he retired to Chester and closer economy. After his return, he married the third time, and renewed his former charitable magnificence. His wool clothed the poor of the parish, to maintain whom he gave the profits of two mills. The poor of Chester were met every week at Stapleford Hall. His house was a common inn, where many lodged that they might refresh their hearts in seeing his face, hearing his voice, and conferring and advising with him.

It is recorded that, on a complaint made for some injury done by the water from his mills, the Judge, in open court, begged the proceedings might be stayed, adding: "I can but think you wrong, Mr. Bruen. I will undertake for him. Make him but sensible of any wrong he hath done, and he shall willingly acknowledge it, and make amends for it."

His biographer says: "His home was none other than the house of God," and in religion "he carried the top sail of all England." To this I add the testimony of the Right Reverend Father in God, Primate of all Ireland, who said of Mr. Bruen: "In him was the very beauty of holiness; and he was of so amiable and cheerful a countenance that when I beheld him I was reminded of Moses, whose very face shone as honoring some more than ordinary eminency of grace in his heart." He d. Jan. 1, 1625, and his portrait was engraved and re-engraved. Lives of John Bruen and his sister Catharine are in Christopher Morton's "Monuments of the Fathers and Reformers. London: 1706. 8vo." He m. 1st, Elizabeth Hardware, who d. in 1596; 2nd, Anne Fox; and 3rd, Margaret ———. His ch. by 1st marriage were:

1. John, succeeded to the estate.
2. Anne, bapt. Nov. 11, 1585; d. in 1605.
3. James, bapt. in 1586.
4. Henry, bapt. November, 1588; no issue.
5. Elizabeth, bapt. May 28, 1589.
6. Calvin, bapt. Jan. 7, 1591; Mayor of Chester, and Sheriff of Cheshire in 1655; m. no issue.
7. Beza, bapt. Feb. 24, 1593.
8. Nathaniel, b. July 23, 1597.

By his 2nd marriage:

11. Jonathau, b. Jan. 6, 1605.

13. Joseph, b. March 4, 1614.
14. Margaret, b. Dec. 8, 1616, and three other ch. bapt. with Margaret.

By the 3rd marriage:

15. Mary, bapt. June 14, 1622; emigrated to New England with her brother Obadiah, and m. John Baldwin, Sen., of Milford, (ante page 190.)
16. Son, name unknown.

OBADIAH BRUEN,<sup>14</sup> b. Dec. 25, 1606; m. Sarah ———; emigrated to New England. He was Representative in Massachusetts; after that, for fifteen years, Town Clerk of New London, Conn.; one of the grantees in the Royal Charter of Connecticut. He was one of the associates in buying Newark, and settled there. He had ch.:

1. Mary. (?) May be a mistake of Mr. Savage for Mary, the sister, who m. John Baldwin, Sen.
2. Rebecca, m. Thomas Post.
3. Hannah, b. Jan. 9, 1644; m. John Baldwin, s. John, Sen., of Milford, (ante page 300.)
4. John, b. June 2, 1646.

In concluding this sketch of the Bruens, I quote Mr. Tuttle, who says: "During the long period of four hundred years, the Bruens, of Bruen Stapleford, became connected by ties of marriage and descent with the most eminent families of Cheshire and the adjoining counties, to wit: Booth, Dutton, Bulkley, Venables, Brereton, Leigh, Holford, Stanley, Clinton, Montfort, etc.; and through some of these the subject of the foregoing sketch was descended, as may easily be traced in the genealogical works of Burke and various county histories from the De Veres, Bohrins, Plantagenets and other great historic names of England, from William the Conqueror, the ancient kings of Scotland, the Saxon kings of England, Alfred the Great, Hugh Capet, Robert king of France, Charlemagne, and the Greek Emperors of Constantinople. The claim of the Byzantine Emperors to descent from Constantine, the Christian emperor of Rome, and builder of the city which bears his name, the not over credulous historian Gibbon mentions with respect.

HALL.

FIDELIA HALL (ante page 149). Few families were more respectable in early times than the Halls of Wallingford. There were frequent ministers, numerous godly deacons, representatives in General Court and in Constitutional Conventions, and one of their number, Lyman, was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Governor of Georgia. The first ancestor here was

JOHN HALL, in New Haven, in 1639. His autograph is among the original colonists there. His name appears often, mostly in regard to pieces of land. He was freed from training in 1665, being sixty years old. He settled in Wallingford in 1670, and d. in 1676. He m. Jane Wallen, or Woolen, or Jean Woolen, as she is variously called. She was the sister of John; in New Haven, in 1642; imprisoned the next year by the Swedes at Delaware, as he was trading there. She had lived, before marriage, with Mr. Wilkes, who was in Boston in 1633, who not only paid her the sum of £3 per year stipulated by indenture, but his executors the further sum of £10, and Mrs. Wilkes left her a legacy. She lived with them in Boston, and came with them to New Haven, and may have been a relative. The second of his six ch. was

SAMUEL HALL,<sup>2</sup> b. May 21, 1648; m., May, 1668, Hannah Walker, of New Haven, dau. John Walker; there in 1639. She was probably b. Sept. 26, 1646. He was Deacon of the Church in Wallingford, and d. there in 1725. He had a son

THEOPHILUS,<sup>4</sup> (Rev.); b. April 1, 1707; graduated at Yale College in 1727; m., May 22, 1734, Hannah Avery. Ordained in Meriden, Oct. 29, 1729. He d. in 1767. He was the first minister in that Parish. Mr. Dana's Century Sermon says: "He was much esteemed as a preacher; of great firmness and stability, and a zealous advocate for civil and religious liberty." His wife was of Groton, and no doubt a descendant of Christopher, of New London, probably gr. dau.; and dau. of Samuel, of Groton. The second of his eight children was

The Couches perhaps came from Ottery, St. Mary's, County Devon, as in Book 4, page 45, Milford Records, is a power of attorney from Elizabeth Couch, of that place, single woman, to Daniel Oliver, of Boston, as to land in Milford, of Samuel Couch, her father, deceased. It is dated July 12, 1704. Theophilus Hall<sup>5</sup> d. May 17, 1804, in his 63d year; he had seven children, one of whom was

Samuel and Abigail (Ward) Galpin, of "Newfields." Ephraim Merriam was s. Benjamin and Mary (?) (Berry) Merriam. Mrs. Hall said the Merriams were from Lynn, Mass., which is no doubt correct, as there was quite a family of them there, among whom was Benjamin, b. April 23, 1678. Theophilus<sup>6</sup> was a physician in Meriden, of reputation and skill, whose life was cut short at the age of forty-two, on the 26th of September, 1815. They had ch.:

INDEX OF BALDWINS.
