

The police are not the problem. Ignorance and civil disobedience is the problem. Out of all the blacks I know and I know VPs of companies All the way down to prison guards there is maybe one and one Jamaican that doesn't defy authority. That's the whole problem in a nut shell. When the cop sees you doing something wrong or he just wants to talk and he commands you to freeze or stop, that doesn't mean to keep doing what your doing and walk away. Blacks have a problem with authority and I saw everyday where I worked and I experienced it first hand. The reason for so much Black Death according to the FBI website for 2017 was from other blacks. The death rate that year was 89% for black on black crime ending in death. The other 11% was from all other races. Racist like Paul Winfield need to check the facts before making stupid statements to the people of Connecticut who know the English language and what the word " Freeze " means. The whole problem with the black race is the lack of a two parent family structure and they know it. Blaming whites for their inadequacies is not going to solve anything but start a race war that they aren't going to win.
