FAMILY VIOLENCE 2010

DEFINITION

Police in Connecticut make an arrest whenever they respond to a call that involves family violence and there is sufficient probable cause to effect an arrest. Officers report each family violence arrest incident to the Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection.

In order for an offense to be classified as family violence, there must be either injury or present danger with the likelihood that physical violence will occur, and the relationship between parties conforms to the definition of "family or household members."<sup>1</sup> Verbal abuse or argument, without violence or threatened violence, does not constitute family violence. Acts of parents when disciplining minor children do not constitute family violence unless the actions are abusive.<sup>2</sup>

ANALYSIS

Volume

There were 20,990<sup>3</sup> incidents of family violence in which at least one person was arrested during 2010. This represents less than a 1% decrease since 2009. For each incident one offense type was recorded following a hierarchy rule to ensure the most serious offense was counted. About 87% (18,264) of cases involved an arrest for assault, breach of peace or disorderly conduct, which is less than a 1% decrease from 2009.

*Reflects most serious charge per incident.

In 2010 there were 22 homicide victims which is a 22% increase from 2009. Victims of assault decreased more than 4% to 5,833 from 6,093 in 2009 and victims of sexual assault decreased almost 12% to 111 from 126 in 2009.

There were 43,832 participants involved in the incidents. There were 18,356 victims, 17,072 arrested offenders and 8,404 participants involved in incidents in which all participants were arrested (i.e. dual arrest incidents). Approximately 20% of the incidents were dual arrest incidents.

Of the 18,356 victims, 74% (13,595) were female and 26% (4,761) were male (similar to last year). There were 17,072 total offenders, 77% (13,093) of whom were male and 23% (3,979) were female. There were 8,404 dual arrests (both/all arrested), of whom approximately 50% (4,195) were male and 50% (4,209) were female.

|---------------------|---------|-----------|-------------------|
|                     | Victims | Offenders | Both/All Arrested |
| Female              | 13,595  | 3,979     | 4,209             |
| Male                | 4,761   | 13,093    | 4,195             |

For 31% of victims, and 33% of “boths,” their relationship was “live-in” (people who live together, ever lived together or share a child) and 19% of victims and 20% “boths” were boyfriend/girlfriend. Spouses (current and former) made up 19% of victims and 19% of “both” arrested. Intimate partners<sup>6</sup> overall made up 69% (12,723) of victims and 72% (6,072) of both/all parties arrested.

*Includes relatives residing and not residing in the home.

<sup>6</sup>The “Live-in or child in common” category includes a small portion of participants that may not be intimate (e.g. roommates, children of boy/girlfriend or spouse living in the home, etc.). However, due to the limitation of the database these participants are counted as intimates.

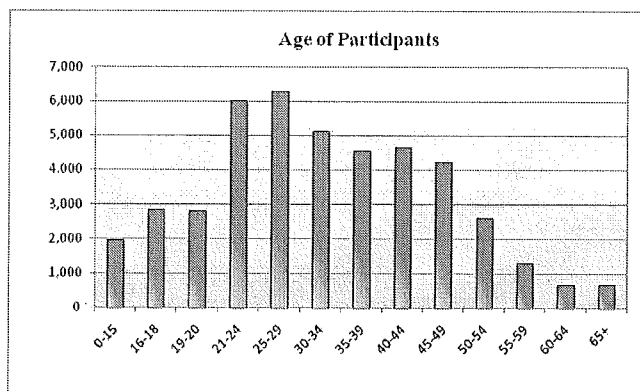

Of the victims 11% (1,972) were involved in disorderly conduct incidents with another relative residing in the home (e.g. parents and children or siblings). Another 11% (1,936) of the victims involved in assaults were in live-in relationships or had a child in common. The highest percentages of both/all arrested were involved in either disorderly conduct (12%) or assault (12%) with participants in a live-in relationship or with a child in common. These results are very similar to last year.
