

To Whom This May Concern,

I do see the value in vaccines and I am not 100% opposed to them however, I have seen far too many children and families' lives destroyed after vaccine injuries to ever consider them 100% safe. There is a tremendous risk in vaccinating the wrong individuals and unfortunately we have not figured out how to accurately determine which children should have delayed schedules and which ones should not be vaccinated. If we think about it, why are so many people up in arms about mandatory vaccinations? If they were truly harmless who would be refusing them?

I have personally seen an alarming number of children who are forever challenged and many permanently disabled due to vaccine injuries. What I don't understand is why these children and their families are not being heard. Why doesn't every life matter. I know for a fact that they show up to these town hall meetings, they ask for audiences with their legislature and they are often refused. If you have sat down with these children and their families, how in the world can your conscience sign this bill into law? Vaccinating all children will blow up in our face, and maybe you consider that collateral damage but please imagine if that was your child. These parents relentlessly pursue any means to help their children, travel to other countries for experimental treatments and spend enormous amounts of money to help reverse vaccine damages to no avail.

Western medicine is the greatest in the world at life saving interventions and behind in care of chronic long term illness. We have a better chance of treating the acute illness (with these at risk children) then trying to "fix them" after they develop vaccine injuries. If a family has watched their child since birth and has witnessed adverse reactions to chemicals, vaccines, why shouldn't they have the right to choose a delayed schedule or defer vaccination? These parents aren't "crazy" anti-vaxers, extreme christians or orthodox jews like the media portrays. In my office they are the Greenwich elite, they are highly educated lawyers and nurses who witnessed their kids disappear in front of their eyes. It is truly heart breaking to meet these kids and their families.

Vaccines are not 100% safe. If nothing else we need more time to figure out who should not be vaccinated. If this bill goes through and everyone is required to be up to date on all vaccines, what is going to be the time line? Will families be required to catch up with all vaccines before the next school year? Can you imagine if these parents are right about vaccine injuries and they fill their kids with all the vaccines in just a few months? The results could be devastating.

Please do not vote away vaccine exemptions. Parents know their children best. Let's sit down and listen to them rather than ignoring them.

This is not just me saying this. There are thousands of physicians across the US with the same concerns. Please look at this website for more information
