RE: End Mandates and Emergency Powers Now

I oppose the extension of any emergency powers for the governor. There is no longer a state of emergency. The governor's emergency powers should be allowed to expire, and all mandates should end.

Even New Jersey's Gov. Philip D. Murphy, who has imposed some of the nation's most stringent pandemic-related mandates, will no longer require students and school employees to wear masks as of the second week of March, signaling a shift toward treating the coronavirus as a part of daily life.

Sincerely,
