

“Follow the Science”, I’ve heard this phrase uttered by so many people over the last two years. Information that was clearly the opposite of common sense, finally a highly recognized university study has come out stating what many citizens already knew; the draconian lockdowns and mandates have saved a rediculoulsy small percentage of the small percentage of Americans who came down with COVID. Please, realize that citizens can and should be in charge of their own decisions regarding their safety. These mandates should be left in the dust, along with being too afraid of living ones life.
