

Hello,

All COVID mitigations need to end immediately. It has been almost two years, and it is clear none of the mitigations have made a difference (authorities certainly have not provided proof that any of them accomplished anything despite stating it to be the case without evidence).

Nobody seems to care about collateral damage caused by the mitigations, which are legion.

Stop scaring the hell out of people in order to rally support for keeping emergency measures in place. This is over. All you are doing is further destroying public trust in government and regulatory agencies.

Regards,

James T.
